Badoglio Betrayed You, Says Algiers.

LONDON, Aug. 2 (AP).—Allied land, sea, and air forces have started the final offensive process to force Italy's capitulation, and the Algiers radio warned the Italians tonight that invasion of their mainland was imminent.

The week-end resumption of air and naval bombardments of Italy ended a period of grace in which hesitant Premier Pietro Badoglio failed to yield to the allied demand for unconditional surrender.

A heavy attack by Flying Fortresses upon Naples, fleet actions against three coastal points, and the swift pace of the Sicilian offensive combined to show the overwhelming power of the allies.

Radio Algiers, following up Gen. Eisenhower's warning of Saturday, told the Italians they had been betrayed by Mussolini, but "Mussolini's ouster is not enough. Badoglio goes on with the war. Our land forces will soon begin an offensive on the Italian mainland."

"You have been betrayed by Mussolini," said the broadcast. "Now Pietro Badoglio is betraying you. We have bided our time awaiting your decision.

"We have awaited the decision of the Italian people for eight days now. Now our forces are on the move. Our forces are irresistible. We are at your gates. You will be made to feel the grim realities of war by our future operations.

"Our air strength will darken the skies over your cities. Your blood will be spilt in vain to keep the promises of Mussolini—promises which now are being kept by Badoglio.

"If you do not make your voices heard—if Badoglio does not obey your will—we shall bombard your ports and your industries by day and night."

Talk of "Peace March."

Political developments mingled with the military:

Talk of an impending "peace march" on Rome by Italian leftists was current in Madrid.

Dr. Augusto Rosso, former Italian ambassador to Washington, was reported in a DNB broadcast from Berlin to have been appointed secretary-general of the Italian foreign office. Rosso's wife is the former Mrs. F. Wilkinson Bunker of Washington.

Dr. Rosso was made ambassador to Washington in 1932 and served until 1936 after three years as an embassy attache. From Washington he was transferred to Moscow as Italian ambassador. He and Mrs. Bunker were married in Paris.

Eden Warns Italy.

Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, said in a London speech that the fall of Mussolini was a legitimate cause for rejoicing, but only on condition that "we accept this auspicious event as an incentive to a fresh endeavor against Germany and Japan."

The one main condition for any Italian withdrawal from the war must be that she provide the allies with bases from which to get at Germany, he said.

Italians Reply to Allies.

BERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 2 (AP).—Italian anti-Fascist parties in a reply to the messages of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill have assured the allied leaders that they have the "active collaboration of all classes of the Italian people of all ages and all ranks."

Their reply became known here tonight thru a printed manifesto that had been widely distributed in Italy before the fall of Fascism.

In the face of the Nazi determination to defend northern Italy as one entrance to the so-called German "reduit national" [inner fortress], the manifesto spoke of the difficulties of erecting barricades of revolution in an age when the people are helpless before machine guns, cannon, tanks and planes.

Yanks Seize San Stefano; Big Push On

(Maps on pages 4 and 5.)

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 2 (AP).—The allies were launched tonight upon a final big offensive to wipe out the cornered axis troops still resisting in Sicily. Simultaneously, they resumed pounding the Italian mainland by air and by sea.

The fanfare with which allied headquarters announced the opening of the concerted drive indicated that Gen. Eisenhower was confident that the end was in sight for Sicily.

San Stefano, northern anchor of the axis Mount Etna line, fell without a fight to Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr.'s 7th army. It was one of a dozen towns captured. Mistretta, six miles south, yielded 10,000 prisoners, most of them Germans, to run the captive bag above 90,000.

Shatters Nazi Flank.

The British 8th army stormed into the defenses of Catania on the German-Italian left, executing the promise of Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery that "we will now drive the Germans from Sicily."

In the center, the Canadians pushed steadily forward thru tortuous terrain, sometimes rising half a mile above sea level. On all sectors, allied headquarters reported progress.

Naples was rocked by Flying Fortresses and objectives on the foot of Italy and in Sicily were hammered by naval guns.

Axis Admits Allied Gains.

Axis broadcasts declared the British in fierce assaults had won important new positions near the Catania eastern anchor of the Etna line.

The axis also reported units of the American army veering southward to support the British drive on Catania.

Both the American and the Canadian forces encountered furious opposition as they drove forward thru heights in and around the mountains to overwhelm a series of enemy positions.

They met and broke up wave after wave of German counter-attacks and slashed into the axis defenses. Elite German troops at some points yielded ground by inches, and then only after a majority of them were lying dead or wounded.

Germans Dig In.

The Germans were dug in behind carefully chosen strong points built on high ground and supported by artillery commanding plains and valleys below.

In a series of thunderous duels, allied big guns silenced some of these batteries, but infantry was nevertheless forced to break thru a curtain of fire to assault positions higher up. Tanks and heavy armor are virtually useless in this terrain. It is mainly the foot soldiers' job.

Dispatches said the Canadians were involved in serious street fighting as they burst into several unnamed places. It is the first time that kind of combat has developed in Sicily. Heretofore, Italians left behind as a rear guard have presented token resistance or none at all, and then surrendered before the allied forces actually entered any populated places.

Today's announcement also con-

ADVANCE 500 TO 1,200 YARDS ON JUNGLE FRONT

Capture Quantities of Jap Supplies.

ALLIED HDQ. IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 3 [Tuesday]—(AP).—American ground forces drove forward 500 to 1,200 yards along the Munda, New Georgia, front yesterday. This would bring them to within three-quarters of a mile of the Jap base.

Reports from the south Pacific command of Adm. William F. Halsey Jr. gave no details about the manner and direction of the first gains against the Munda air base recorded in several days, except that "considerable quantities of material" had been captured.

Progress thru the jungle surrounding the air field has been extremely slow and difficult. The Japanese are firmly entrenched in numerous small caves in the coral rock and in substantial blockhouses. Tanks and flame throwers were sent against the enemy last week and were believed to have contributed substantially to the new advances.

Drop 500 Bombs on Kahili.

Matching the intensified ground attacks on Munda, American army and navy planes bombed the enemy's base on near-by Bougainville Island. One large freighter-transport was set afire, a tanker was hit, and eight barges were sunk.

"At Kahili," the war bulletin said, "more than 500 bombs were dropped on a large concentration of enemy aircraft on the airdrome, damaging many planes and causing large fires. In a series of interceptions by enemy fighters, one Zero was shot down and one of our fighters was lost."

On the western side of the 700 mile southwest Pacific battlefront, an allied bomber set fire to a Japanese destroyer off the south coast of New Britain.

Bomb Gasmata Airdrome.

Medium bombers and long-range fighters made a dawn attack on the Gasmata, New Britain, airdrome and swept eastward along the coast to Cape Dampier, bombing and strafing barges and jetties.

Fourteen allied fighters encountered an equal number of Japanese Zeros which attempted to intercept the bombers. Eleven of the enemy planes were shot down in flames.

Eighty-four tons of demolition and fragmentation bombs were dropped on ground defenses and installations around Salamaua, the Japanese base on the Huon gulf coast of New Guinea. "Numerous fires were started and damage was heavy," the statement said.

Allied artillery shelled the Salamaua airdrome for the first time, destroying a number of Japanese planes on the ground. Direct hits were scored on anti-aircraft batteries and 60 feet of the Francisco bridge, linking Salamaua with its airport, were destroyed.

Dives Plane at 780 Miles an Hour

LONDON, Aug. 2 (AP).—An American test pilot in England traveling faster than sound, or more than 780 miles an hour, has made a vertical dive of almost five miles, believed to be the longest in aviation history, it was announced tonight.

The flyer, Lt. Col. Cass S. Hough of Plymouth, Mich., technical director of the 8th fighter command, has been awarded the distinguished flying cross by Brig. Gen. Frank O'D. Hunter, European commander of fighter planes, for special attainment in "independent flight research."

He made two record dives, one in September, 1942, when he took a P-38 Lightning up to 43,000 feet and nosed it into a power dive for 25,000 feet—almost five miles—before leveling off at about 18,000 feet. In February, 1943, he went up to 39,000 feet in a P-47 Thunderbolt and dived to 18,000 feet.

Hough, vice president of the Daisy Air Rifle Manufacturing company, is a graduate of the University of Michigan. He is married and has two children.

Both of his dives, made in England, were undertaken voluntarily in quest of scientific information to aid fighter pilots.

Hough was given the air medal several months ago for "participation in mass maneuvers of single seater fighter planes over an extremely hazardous and newly established air route involving long over-water flights."

It became known last week that the colonel, who is 36, was one of the leaders of a large fleet of planes flown across the Atlantic less than a year ago.

Reds Inside Orel, German Radio Reports

LONDON, Aug. 3 [Tuesday]—(AP).—The Berlin radio was heard announcing today that the big Russian offensive against the eastern front bastion of Orel had carried the Red army into the city itself.

The German radio, as heard by several London morning newspapers and Reuters news agency, said: "The center of fighting was in the Orel area. The enemy attacked with great violence, especially in the southwestern part of the town."

Altho this same quotation was heard by several listeners, there was no other confirmation and it was possible that the announcer may have made a slip of the tongue or read a faulty English translation while intending to say that fighting was especially heavy southwest of Orel.

Capture 70 Towns.

Nevertheless, while the Russians were announcing in another special war report that 70 more populated places had been taken from the Germans in advances of from four to six miles on the Orel front, the German radio seemed to be preparing the German home front for loss of the city. The Russians were closing in on the German base from seven directions.

The Berlin radio broadcast a dispatch from an eastern front reporter saying that the army had protected the hinterland and enabled the German command to "erect new defenses which will stand up to all future soviet attacks. In the disengagement movements which have been carried out, certain territory had to be given up, but nothing fell into soviet hands undamaged."

Moscow's midnight announcement as recorded here by the soviet monitor reported that the heaviest fighting for Orel was north and northwest of the city, where more than 40 villages were overrun by the advancing Russians in violent fighting.

Repulse Attacks in Donetz.

South and southwest of the city, the Red army occupied 26 villages. Two places in this area especially mentioned among the captured were described as "strongly fortified by the enemy."

In the Donetz river basin area southwest of Voroshilovgrad, the Russians beat off heavy German infantry and tank attacks, the midnight bulletin recounted.

Army Lets Up on Buying of Woolen Goods

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—Several million additional garments and blankets will be produced for civilians as a result of an agreement with the army to reduce its purchases of woolen and worsted items, the war production board announced today.

Under the agreement the army in the last four months of 1943 will reduce its procurement of many wool and worsted products by 50 per cent and defer these orders until the first four months of next year.

10 Million Yards Involved.

The WPB estimated the plan will release more than 10 million yards of material for consumer goods, or enough to make several million items including men's mackinaw and work jackets, children's legging sets, blankets, and other articles of men's, women's, and children's apparel.

"The program was developed thru WPB-army coöperation after it was found that a substantial proportion of army requirements for woolen and worsted products for the last third of this year could be deferred until the first four months of 1944," the WPB said.

Blanket Reduction Cited.

In advising army contractors they may curtail deliveries under the program, the army quartermaster corps mentioned specifically reductions in blankets, overcoatings, 18 ounce serge, 10½ ounce shirting flannel, and 12 ounce lining.

2 NAVY GUNNERS CHARGE SEAMAN INCITED DISCORD

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 2 [Special].—Two members of a navy gun crew testified in federal court here today that James Orville Couchois, a merchant seaman and member of the National Maritime union, attempted to spread dissatisfaction among members of the gun crew on the freighter West Nohno on voyages between April 10, 1942 and Feb. 10, 1943.

The navy men, Lawrence J. Everidge and Arthur M. Decker, testifying in support of charges against Couchois that he attempted to incite insubordination and obstruct enlistment, said that Couchois circulated among the gun crew making statements that they had been foolish to join the navy when they could make more money as merchant seamen.

The government witnesses said Couchois was a "deck chairman" for the Maritime union.

OPA Causes Gas Scarcity, Inquiry Told

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

Members of the Illinois legislature's commission investigating gas rationing needs in the middle west met in Chicago yesterday and at their first session heard experts of the oil and gas industry testify that:

1. The office of price administration [OPA] has created a dangerous shortage of gasoline thruout the country by its refusal for more than two years to advance the price of crude oil and thus increase production.

2. Midwestern refineries cannot supply the automobile drivers of the middle west the same amount of gasoline they are now getting if an additional 100,000 barrels a day is shipped east for use of motorists on the seaboard.

Called "Careless, Haphazard."

3. OPA's administration of gasoline rationing has been careless and haphazard; "nobody knows how many coupons are out; nobody can answer that; certainly there are too many T coupons issued and too many C coupons as well."

4. The middle west refineries are not operating at full capacity; they could refine an additional 150,000 to 200,000 barrels of gasoline a day if they could get the crude oil—which, because of OPA's policy, they cannot get.

Nine witnesses, including Raymond S. McKeough, regional OPA administrator, and Bernard L. Majewski, outstanding authority on petroleum, testified at the hearing. At the close of the session the commission recessed. Chairman Earle Benjamin Searcy [R., Springfield] announced that he and State Sen. Walker Butler [R., Chicago] will on Thursday attend a congressional hearing called by Petroleum Administrator Harold Ickes in the Palmer House. Afterwards the Illinois legislative commission may be called into session again.

A Comprehensive Story.

High point in yesterday's session, held in the Illinois commerce commission hearing room, was the testimony of Majewski, vice president of the Deep Rock Oil corporation. He told a comprehensive story of the shortage of gasoline, brought about, he said, by OPA's arbitrary freezing of the crude oil price as of Oct. 1, 1941, and the burocrats' adherence to that frozen price in the face of 19 months of war and constant warnings by oil experts thruout the

EDICT AFFECTS 6½ MILLION NOW CLASSIFIED 3-A

Childless Husbands to Go First.

Wheeler to Act

Belton, Mont., Aug. 2 [Special].—Sen. Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] said at his home here tonight he believes congress before Oct. 1 will adopt his bill to delay the draft of fathers until Jan. 1, 1944. He said he will return to Washington, D. C., immediately after Labor day to push for prompt action. The bill was reported favorably by the senate military affairs committee on July 2 and can be acted on as soon as the senate reconvenes Sept. 14, he said.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—Local draft boards were authorized to draft fathers starting Oct. 1 in an order announced today by Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the war man power commission.

The order potentially affects more than 6½ million men classified 3-A by reason of their dependents, but no estimate was available on how many fathers will be called each month.

Fathers 18 thru 37 years old who have children born prior to Sept. 15, 1942, are in the 3-A group.

Call to Be Based on Number.

The order, issued by Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, draft director, provides that these fathers shall be called according to their draft order numbers without distinction as to their ages or the number or ages of their children.

As in the case of childless husbands, fathers who are "key men" in agriculture or essential industry are to be granted occupational deferments by local boards. Likewise, fathers whose induction would cause "extreme hardship and privation" to their families will be deferred.

Gen. Hershey instructed local boards to call fathers only in such numbers as are necessary to supplement the supply of available single men and married men without children who do not have occupational or 4-F [unfit for military service] deferments.

Boards Told to Comb 4-Fs.

At the same time, local boards were instructed to comb the ranks of childless husbands who are classified 4-F and to review the records of childless husbands who are deferred.

It was explained the order does not mean that all draft boards will start calling fathers Oct. 1. It was said some boards have reserves of childless husbands sufficient to meet their quotas for several weeks or possibly months, but that other boards will have exhausted their pools, except for fathers, on or before Oct. 1.

McNutt said the drafting of fathers is made necessary by the approaching exhaustion of other pools of registrants in the face of continued calls by the army and the navy for additional men. He said the combined call of the army and the navy for July was 325,000 men and will be 275,000 a month for August and September.

He said the new order wipes out dependency as a reason for deferment, except for hardship cases.

Acts During Recess.

Today's order was issued as congress was in the middle of its summer recess and came in the face of recent congressional opposition to large scale induction of fathers. McNutt denied, however, that the action was taken deliberately to by-pass possible legislation.

According to recent WMC estimates, the demands of the army and navy call for placing a minimum of 1½ million persons in uniform between July 1 and Dec. 31, 1943, and an additional 500,000 in the first six months of 1944, exclusive of replacements. This would increase the military forces, which totaled 9 million 300,000 July 1 to 10 million 800,000 as of Dec. 31 and to 11 million 300,000 next July 1.

Thus, omitting the unknown factor of replacements and deducting the 875,000 childless husbands being inducted between July 1 and Oct. 1, at least 1 million 125,000 are scheduled to be drafted in the nine months starting Oct. 1, when local boards start calling fathers.

TRIBUNE FARM CHARCOAL FUELS TRUCK ON TOUR

Machine Departs for Its Home in Michigan.

BY HAL FOUST.

A truck's special fuel tank was filled with home made charcoal at THE TRIBUNE's experimental farm near Wheaton yesterday. Without gasoline, the 2½ ton vehicle departed for its home in Kalamazoo, Mich. This ended a week-end demonstration of a promising means for relieving the petroleum shortage.

The charcoal was dug from a four foot mound that on Saturday consisted of a tightly stacked cord of fire wood enveloped in mud, bound with weeds. It had burned for 14 hours to remove the water and resin content, and had been smothered for 24 hours to allow the residual carbon to cool.

The truck's special equipment for this operation is called a gasogene, or a gas producer. Between 200,000 and 300,000 are in use in Europe and large numbers are being manufactured in America on a lend-lease contract for shipment to China. But none will be available for public purchase in America unless the war production board is induced to release priorities for manufacturing materials.

Erection of the kiln and the controled burning were described in yesterday's TRIBUNE. When the mud coat was removed from the mound yesterday, it disclosed a nest of charcoal, approximately 850 pounds of a choice quality for use as motor fuel and about 400 pounds of an inferior grade o. k. for picnics.

Larger Lumps Broken.

The workmen, three students in training for driving gasogene propelled ambulances in China, shoveled the charcoal into home made sieves. A pair of screens removed dust and caught larger lumps for breaking. In this way, fairly uniform pieces were obtained for motor fuel, ranging in size from ⅜ inch to 1 inch.

Into a metal container mounted on a side of the truck directly behind the cabin was poured about 175 pounds of charcoal. This fed into a combustion chamber, a fire pot, below the storage bin. The initial charge was ignited with a flaming piece of newspaper. From a two gallon tank, water dripped into the burning charcoal.

In combustion, an oxygen atom was added to a carbon atom to become carbon monoxide, the main fuel for the motor. From the water was obtained hydrogen, the H in H2O, to make another gas, enriching the fuel.

Foreign Matter Filtered.

The gas is sucked thru a 3 inch tube circling the chassis, passing thru a series of four filters to remove all traces of foreign matter before reaching the engine compartment under the hood. Under the hood was a standard truck engine with one conspicuous addition, a special carburetor to mix gas with air rather than gasoline with air.

This carburetor, a short cylinder 11 inches in diameter, receives the gas from the tube leading from the charcoal burner. It also has an intake for air. These are mixed, about 50-50, by a fan within the casing rotated by a belt from the standard fan shaft. This power carburetor creates the suction to draw the gas from the charcoal pot and also aids the engine in its suction for fuel intake. From the carburetor, the gas enters the cylinders and functions like gasoline fuel.

Not Equal of Gasoline.

The performance is similar but not as good as gasoline—if you can get all the gasoline you want. According to the gasogene manufacturers, the horse power with charcoal gas is approximately 75 per cent of that with gasoline.

The manufacturer, M. and R. Products, Inc., of New York, conducted the demonstration with the truck it uses for research at the factory of its subcontractor, the Kalamazoo Stove and Furnace company. Miss Dorothy E. Mackenzie, president of the New York company, who made gasogenes in Europe for five years, said that the fuel consumption would approximate 12 pounds of charcoal for the equivalent of one gallon of gasoline.

NEW CEILINGS ON LIQUOR MAY SLASH PRICES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2 (AP).—A new liquor price regulation, expected to result in lower prices for many new brands now on the market, will be issued in the near future by the office of price administration.

The regulation will provide ceilings at the distillery level based on cost plus a fixed markup, with markups at each stage thereafter until it reaches the ultimate consumer.

OPA officials said today they were unable to estimate the reductions which will result, altho some of them may be sizable. Liquor prices now are under the general maximum price regulation, which fixes ceilings at the highest prices in March, 1942, but new brands coming on the market since then are priced according to a formula based on the "nearest competitive" brand.

Most of the liquor now on the shelves of retailers is new brands, and some of these brands are selling at prices approximating the March, 1942, prices of well known bonded liquors.

EXPERT BLAMES GAS SHORTAGE ON OPA POLICY

industry that a dangerous shortage would result.

"The oil industry is the only essential war industry that is held down as to profits," Majewski said. "Yet the oil industry is the most essential to the war. If you and enough other people will persist doggedly in trying to find out why OPA two years ago took that stubborn stand against an advance of 25 to 50 cents in the price of a barrel of crude oil, there ought to be some results."

Majewski Places Blame.

"Would it be fair," asked Sen. Butler, "to say that OPA's refusal has brought about this rationing mess?"

"Yes, sir," said Majewski. "You can say it definitely for me."

Majewski then predicted that a cut in the value of A coupons for midwestern drivers is likely because a new 24 inch pipeline between Texas and New York and Philadelphia, via Norris City, Ill., soon will be in full operation, carrying about 300,000 barrels of crude a day to the east. The use of the pipeline will release 10,000 railroad tank cars to carry gasoline east. These tank cars have been transporting crude oil. They will be able to transport 100,000 barrels of gasoline a day.

Thus the midwest, Majewski said, will lose to the east 25 per cent of the 400,000 barrels of gasoline it has been consuming daily under present rationing. A cut of one gallon on the midwestern A coupons is almost a certainty, Majewski testified.

The Ickes' Threat.

That cut, he said, is what the petroleum administrator has been threatening, but Ickes has not said whether he will stop by chopping only a gallon off the four gallons a week now allowed the A card holders. Majewski told the legislators that the petroleum war council of 72 men, recruited from the industry, voted 90 days ago that all the United States east of the Rocky mountains, including Texas and Oklahoma should be considered "as one area" for the purpose of rationing gasoline and other petroleum products. He added:

"When they slash, they should slash B and C cards as well as As, but if they reduce any of them by more than one gallon, I'll fight it with everything I've got."

Majewski explained that an advance in the price of crude oil of 35 to 50 cents a barrel would have added only a small amount to the price of each gallon of gasoline. Had the raise been 35 cents, he said, the addition to the price of a gallon of gas would have been only .85 of one cent; if the raise had been 50 cents, the price of gas would have gone up 1.2 cents.

Some "Ifs" in Situation.

Majewski contended that had the price of crude oil been raised even nine months ago, there would be no gasoline shortage today. "If you bring it about now," he said to the commission members, "there will be no need for gasoline rationing next July—July, 1944—but if you or somebody doesn't bring it about, there certainly will be another and deeper cut in rations after this threatened and expected one."

OPA's refusal to advance the crude price, Majewski said, made it impossible to get the wild catters to venture their money in the discovery of new oil. The wild catters, he said, have been doing that for the last 80 years and have discovered 75 to 80 per cent of all the new oil found.

Gives Incentive to Drill.

"You've got to give the incentive to drill to that little fellow who'll venture his all on finding new oil," he said. "The big companies won't do it. They prefer to buy from the little fellows.

Majewski was asked by Rep. Lyle Prescott and Sen. Butler why OPA had refused to raise the crude price.

"I wouldn't want to give an opinion," he replied. "I'd be getting into politics and I wouldn't want to do that."

But when Searcy, persisting, asked him: "Isn't it a fact that a little group of dictators in OPA is deliberately discouraging new oil discoveries by this refusal?" he responded: "In general, that is a fact."

Brown Meece, official of the Globe Oil and Refining company, largest independent refiners in the country, was questioned upon the same subject. "The present OPA in Washington is merely a front," he said. "Leon Henderson [former OPA director] and his crowd are still running it and it goes right back to the White House. I was a southern Democrat, but I was cured some time ago."

Majewski continued: "Everything goes back to the freeze in the price of crude. This shortage could have been avoided had our repeated recommendations been heeded, the price of crude advanced a small bit, and the wildcatters given the incentive to discover new oil as they have for the last 80 years."

Urged 35 Cent Increase.

He added that Ickes had recommended a 35 cent increase per barrel of crude first last April and after one OPA refusal, again in July.

"Men in the petroleum industry," Majewski said, "have made Ickes a success, as petroleum administrator. At least so far . . ."

All the other experts, including C. R. Musgrave, manager of distribution and supply for the petroleum industry committee for this area; Carroll W. Johnson, local director of marketing for the petroleum administration for war; Ernest Hughes, assistant director of marketing for PAW; John C. Marshall, economist and director of prices for the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, and Bradley Provis, president of the Gasoline Dealers Association of Metropolitan Chicago, agreed that Majewski was right. They all told of the shortage created by OPA thru its refusal to unfreeze the price of crude oil.

McKeough took the stand late in the day. He told the commission that OPA has no "direct control of items to be rationed." OPA's jurisdiction, he said, merely relates to the application and distribution of the rationed items. He blamed the "big rubber companies" for gasoline rationing, saying they had failed to obtain adequate stock piles before Pearl Harbor.

Rules Made in Washington.

When Rep. Lottie Holman O'Neill, a commission member asked him whether he thought rationing is fair and just to the public, he replied:

"We hope so. I have a stock answer for that question: I have not heard of anybody in Washington sitting up all night figuring out ways to harass the public. Those responsible for winning the war think that rationing is necessary. The rules are laid down in Washington and we abide by them."

East vs. West Gasoline Battle Rages

'Cut Midwest or Else.'

Kearny, N. J., Aug. 2 (AP).—"If the equalization of gasoline rationing does not take place within the coming week," Rep. Fred A. Hartley Jr. [R., N. J.] said today, "I propose to call together my 135 colleagues in the house and the 24 senators from the 12 eastern states, and, believe me, all hell will be let loose."

Hartley, chairman of a committee of eastern congressmen who have been investigating gasoline rationing, said "Petroleum Administrator Ickes' trip to Chicago to confer with midwestern congressmen ought to be canceled by the office of defense transportation as unnecessary travel and a waste of time."

Ickes notified members of the midwestern group Saturday he would meet with them in Chicago Thursday.

"The problem is now strictly one of supply," Hartley said. "It is tragic and shameful that barges and tankers on the Great Lakes are lying idle because sufficient stocks have not been built up in the midwest."

'Midwest Being Raped.'

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 2 (AP).—Sen. Clyde M. Reed [R., Kas.] was considerably riled tonight over a proposal to cut midwest gas rations.

Exhibiting a pamphlet in which Sen. Francis Maloney [D., Conn.] who heads a special committee to investigate gasoline and fuel oil shortages, Sen. Reed said:

"It says here that 'Workers everywhere in hot cities [in the east] should be given increased rather than less opportunity to reach beaches and lakes by public transportation.' Workers in hot cities! People of the midwest are a thousand miles from the cool surf and ocean breezes. If the senator from Connecticut can arrange to move the surf and sea breezes back here, maybe we can make a deal."

Sen. Reed said it was apparent that Secretary Ickes and the OPA are proceeding on the basis of the Maloney report to deprive the midwest of gasoline, to lift the ban on pleasure driving in the east. "It's the rape of the midwest," he added.

IF YOU HAVE NO NO. 3 RATION BOOK, SPEAK UP

Civilians who have not received their No. 3 ration book thru the mail should file a new application at their local rationing board and submit the stub receipt of their original application, Edward F. Stegen, regional rationing executive, said yesterday. Approximately 60,000 late applicants also will be handled in the next 10 days by rationing boards in the seven states midwest region, he explained.

Stegen said he would confer with Washington rationing officials tomorrow on plans for distribution of the No. 4 ration book, which will be similar in format and content to the No. 3 book. He explained that the No. 4 version will supplement No. 3 when exhausted.

Application blanks for No. 3 books will be distributed among soldiers, sailors, and marines of the United States and allied nations starting Aug. 15, Stegen said. The forms must be sent to the Chicago mailing center before Aug. 31. The applications will be handled by prisoners at the Stateville penitentiary. He said about 700,000 men and women in the army and navy would be entitled to receive the No. 3 book.

PREDICT FREEZE ON MEAL PRICES IN RESTAURANTS

OPA Hears Labor Protest of Ceiling Evasions.

Because of a charge that restaurants have not heeded an office of price administration request to stabilize prices, mandatory freezing of prices at April 4 thru 10 levels is expected within the next 10 days, price control officials indicated last night after hearing complaints from labor leaders that food and drink prices were getting out of bounds.

Michael F. Mulcahy, area director for the office of price administration, disclosed a new program was being developed by the regional OPA office to hold restaurant prices in check.

Control Now Voluntary.

Chicago restaurant prices have been under semi-voluntary control since April 12 when Raymond S. McKeough, regional OPA administrator, requested operators to abide by the suggested ceiling of April 4 thru 10 prices and to file with local ration boards copies of their menus and prices in the base period.

McKeough said the requested price ceilings did not constitute an order, but that a regulation covering food and beverage charges would be issued later.

Yesterday, Robert C. Travis, vice president of the CIO Illinois State Industrial Union council, told Mulcahy at the biweekly meeting of the area OPA labor advisory committee that prices in restaurants in and near war plants and elsewhere were excessive. He charged that the April 4 thru 10 ceilings were being evaded by lowered quantity and quality of the food served.

Asks September Prices.

Travis also declared that the April base period permitted excessive meal prices and that menu prices should be rolled back at least to September, 1942, levels.

Donald F. Kiesau, executive secretary of the Chicago Restaurant association, said last night that only two or three complaints have been received from the consumers against restaurant owners allegedly overcharging for food or drinks. He said all these complaints were disposed of to the OPA's satisfaction, and asserted that cafe and restaurant operators have abided carefully by the OPA price control program.

PREDICTS FOOD RATIONING TO GO ON AFTER WAR

New York, Aug. 2 [Special].—Food rationing in the United States will continue for a year or two after the war, Herbert H. Lehman, administrator of the office of foreign relief and rehabilitation operations, predicted today. In an article in the American Magazine he said there were four good reasons for providing food and other necessities to the nations liberated from Hitler and the Japanese.

The first, Lehman said, is the humanitarian impulse. The second, the fact the foreign relief program already is helping our fighting forces because it is a tremendous stimulus to underground movements.

His third reason was that "unless these peoples are ready materially and spiritually to help us in the struggle for a just peace we shall find ourselves right where we were at the end of the last war."

Finally, Mr. Lehman argued, a foreign rehabilitation program is good business because "these peoples in the occupied areas once were our customers."

FOUR PENALIZED AS GAS COUPONS FAIL TO BALANCE

Four Chicago area gasoline retailers yesterday were suspended from business for brief periods by W. M. McFarland, regional hearing commissioner for the office of price administration, on charges of having irregularities in their ration coupon accounts. They are Edwin E. Hoskinson, 367 East 71st street, 60 days starting Aug. 10, but only the first three days to be effective; Sam Robinson, 342 East 35th street, 10 days starting Aug. 8, with the first two days effective; Adolph Van Senus, 6505 Hohman avenue, Hammond, 30 days of which 6 days are effective, and Ruth A. Poucher, 3181 Milwaukee avenue, 90 days, of which 3 days are effective, starting Aug. 15.

STEAL CIGARETS FROM STORE.

RAINS END HEAT HERE; WAUKEGAN HOMES FLOODED

A downpour which flooded basements of homes and buildings in Waukegan and lighter local rains cooled the Chicago metropolitan area last night after two days of torrid heat. G. L. Canaday, weather forecaster in Chicago, said showers ending about midnight would bring cooler weather today.

In less than an hour 1.24 inches of rain fell in Waukegan and the deluge appeared to be uniform thruout Lake county, where precipitation had been anxiously awaited by farmers. Lightning struck several lighting circuits and blacked out a section of the north side of Waukegan for a short time. A bolt started a small fire on the roof of a dwelling at 1026 Lincoln street in North Chicago.

Many power transformers near Grayslake, Lake county, and Crystal lake, McHenry county, and several telephone circuits in and near Waukegan also were damaged during the storm. Two North Shore electric trains traveling between Waukegan and the naval training station at Great Lakes were struck by lightning and stalled, but passengers were unhurt.

In Waukegan the mercury dropped from 81 degrees at 7 p. m. to 69 at 8:30 p. m. A drop to 72 degrees at 9 p. m. was recorded in Chicago, where for two days the temperature had exceeded 90 degrees.

STEAL CLOCKS AT THEATER.

Burglars broke into the cashier's cage of the Symphony theater, 4937 W. Chicago avenue, Sunday night and stole a money changer and two clocks, all valued at $150, Austin police were told yesterday.

Slashed Budget to Force OPA Staff Reduction

Reductions in the office of price administration administrative, technical, and supervisory personnel in the seven state Chicago region are unavoidable because of reduced budgetary allocations, Raymond S. McKeough, regional OPA administrator, said yesterday. He returned from Washington Saturday after conferring with OPA officials on the budget for the fiscal year which began July 1. "There will have to be a cut, but we hope to compensate for the loss of staff in increased efficiency," McKeough said.

TANKS WIN AT MUNDA WHERE BOMBERS FAIL

Upset Theories About Jungle Warfare.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. INVASION FORCES ON NEW GUINEA, July 28 [Delayed].—Twelve months ago an old line, tradition bound regular army commander would have gasped with horror if anyone had suggested tanks might be able to operate in thick jungle. But today 13 ton tanks manned by marine corps combat crews are proving to be the most effective aid to ground units of the American army driving thru the New Georgia jungles toward Munda point airfield.

This offensive is contradicting other established beliefs as well. For instance, shortly after dawn on July 25, 182 bombers poured 218 tons of bombs onto the Japs in 60 minutes, and a naval task force shelled the same areas for 30 minutes, but when the ground troops sought to advance, they found themselves facing the same intense fire from Jap mortars and machine guns which had halted their progress for 10 days. The entire day was spent in gaining 100 yards.

The infantry rested the morning of June 26 and at 1 p. m. all the tanks were brought up for a full scale attack with the infantry following a few yards behind.

Make Immediate Progress.

Immediately rapid progress began. Gouging their way thru the jungle, occasionally bogging down but always freeing themselves, the tanks nosed out the Jap pillboxes in a peculiar manner. They would push ahead until they drew enemy fire and then turn directly into the fire and follow it to the pillbox. Usually the crews could not see the pillbox until they were a few yards from it.

Occasionally a tank would run right over a pillbox, but it would be turned back when the fire began hitting the rear of the tank instead of the front.

When it was discovered, a pill box would be destroyed with point blank fire from a range of only a few yards.

One tank unit methodically cut off and destroyed the most southern pillboxes of the Jap position 600 yards from the beach at Ilangana point, while the infantry swung around the tanks and smashed thru between the Jap strong point and the sea.

Advance 500 Yards.

Within a few hours the Yanks had advanced 500 yards, capturing the small and battered native village of Terere well east of Ilangana point. Apparently fearing the combination of tanks and infantry strength the Japs withdrew from the village despite the well dug-in pillboxes and mortar nests they had constructed there.

Near the center of our line the tanks aided in surrounding and completely isolating another Jap strong point held by perhaps 200 men which had held up our advance for more than a week. On the extreme northern flank another infantry unit drove straight west thru the jungle behind tanks and advanced 600 yards despite heavy Jap resistance.

On the night of July 26 this northern flank was dug in 1,250 yards from Munda air field. The southern or beach flank was dug in about 2,100 yards from the field. It was our best progress since the offensive was opened on June 30.

Continue to Gain.

On July 27 the tanks again led the advance. Infantry moving up the beach gained another 300 yards toward Munda and also began the encirclement of the Jap position 600 yards from the beach while a unit from the center of our line drove around the position to surround it completely. This encirclement and starving out process while the main units push ahead has proved less costly than a frontal attack to destroy a position.

Our northern flank remained in the same position thruout the day waiting for the center to catch up so that our supply line would be protected. However, patrols from the northern flank advanced to the base of Bibolo hill, only 400 yards northeast of Munda field. According to the axioms of war, whichever side holds this 800 foot summit overlooking the field also controls Munda.

Now Thru Worst Terrain.

The most fortunate feature from the American standpoint is the fact that our ground units have already advanced thru the worst terrain they will meet. The remainder lying between us and the air field is more open and flatter than the jungles we have come thru already. This means that tanks will be able to operate even more effectively and that this should speed up our advance.

Top-ranking commanders believe that if we can break the back of the immediate Jap front line and surround and mop up the strong points we are now meeting, Munda should be ours within 10 days.

Lt. Bob Collett.

Lt. R. J. Collins.

Torpedo and dive bombers, in coördinated attacks, dropped 52 tons of bombs on Bibolo Hill, one of the New Georgia objectives in the drive for the Munda air base, and deprived the Japanese of one of their primary weapons in jungle warfare.

Lt. [j. g.] R. J. Collins, 11716 South Parnell avenue, Chicago, and Lt. [j. g.] M. J. Mills, Muncie, Ind., participated in the raid.

The Vila air field on Kolombangara Island was bombed as well today with 60 tons of explosives. Marine 2d Lt. Bob Collett, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Collett of 2429 Lawndale avenue, Evanston, Ill., hit his target in the first attack.

Married Last Year.

Lt. Collins, 23 years old, married Doris Ann Lindgren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Lindgren, 11716 South Parnell avenue, last Nov. 29. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Walter Collins, 742 Wesley avenue, Oak Park.

RIVER STEAMERS IN BURMA HIT BY YANKEE BOMBS

NEW DELHI, India, Aug. 2 (AP).—United States B-25 medium bombers heavily blasted wharves, warehouses, and shipping facilities of Katha, Japanese-occupied head of navigation on the Irrawaddy, Sunday, it was announced today.

"Direct hits were reported on three large river steamers and near hits on other river craft," a United States 10th A. A. F. bulletin said. "Bombs were seen to burst between wharves and storage buildings. Rolling stock was demonlished and warehouses in the northern section of the town were destroyed and damaged. Many fires were left burning."

The statement said the destruction and damage inflicted at the Katha rail-river junction "seriously interfere with military traffic at all points on the railroad between Katha and the rail terminus at Yitkyina," 100 miles northeast. Other B-25's scored hits on the east approach of the Shweli river suspension bridge near the Burma-Yunnan border and crewmen said the anchorage was damaged.

TELLS INDIANS THEY HOLD KEY TO INDIA FUTURE

NEW DELHI, Aug. 2 (AP).—In a farewell address Viceroy Linlithgow told members of the council of state and the legislative body today that obstacles in the way of a solution to the Indian problem could be removed only by the Indians themselves.

"Lack of trust and lack of readiness to accept the legitimate claims of minorities stand in the way," the viceroy declared.

In his first appearance before the assembly since 1942 Linlithgow, referring to the present deadlock between the political parties and the British government said: "It is most important, I urge this on you, that if there is to be any progress Indian public men should without delay start to get together and clear the way for it."

MUNDA JAPS TRY NEW TRICKS, BUT YANKS ARE WISE

Put on Scuffling Acts Near Foxholes.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. INVASION FORCES ON NEW GEORGIA, July 29 [Delayed].—A description of the weird psychological tricks the Japs employ in their night harassing to exhaust and break the nerves of our infantrymen moving against Munda air field was given in full detail for the first time today by an infantry commander just relieved from the front line after 30 days of severe fighting.

The officer stated it was his opinion that the small Jap units performing the night harassing were not run of the mill troops, but soldiers chosen for their ability to speak English and especially for the war of nerves they wage. The harassing follows a definite pattern apparently carefully worked out by psychologists.

Begin with a Scuffle.

"The harassing units are trained as actors," the officer said. "The usual beginning of the night's work is an act put on by a few members of the unit. Four or five creep up within 15 feet of the foxholes where we are dug in for the night. Then they start to scuffle among themselves pretending they have dragged an American soldier from his hole.

"During these acts I have heard one man yell in excellent English: 'I've got him; give me a knife.' Then another yells, 'Kill him.' This is followed by screams and moans from the 'victim' who howls for the Americans to come and save him.

"This is repeated over and over in the hope that near-by Americans will think their comrades are being butchered and rush to their rescue, so that Jap snipers hidden in the trees and underbrush can get in their work.

Foiled, They Try New Tricks.

"This act worked during the early days, but soon our men learned to disregard it and even to sleep thru it. Then the Japs resorted to new tactics. Creeping even closer they would toss grenades toward our holes hoping to drive the Americans into the open for the snipers. There were also numerous instances of these harassers infiltrating past our defense perimeter undetected, jumping into foxholes, stabbing once or twice and then jumping out before they could be caught. The theory is that the suddenly awakened Americans would then proceed to knife each other."

The officer outlined the plan which, he said, was the best way to combat these tactics.

"I believe that if in training these conditions were simulated by actual night attacks and the use of close-in dynamite charges to simulate grenades, our men would soon become accustomed to such conditions and would be calmer and able to combat them more efficiently."

Two other American soldiers described the amazing preparations the Japanese troops had made to defend Munda air field. I talked to Capt. James Ruhlin of Bangor, Me., and Sgt. Kenneth Robbins of Belfast, Me., shortly after their units participated in an attack against Jap positions. They told of the defending Jap double-deck machine guns pillboxes buried under 10 feet of coral rock.

"The pillboxes are a combination of machine gun nests and air raid shelters," they said. "They are built on the side of ridges commanding our advance. The top two layers of coconut logs are covered with 10 feet of rock. A direct bomb hit is required to destroy them. The top deck has ventholes for the guns and is high enough for the gunners to work. A heavy trapdoor leads thru a log floor into the lower chamber where the gunners apparently descend during the numerous American air attacks."

LT. COL. DAVIS, 5 OTHERS DIE IN BOMBER CRASH

Charlevoix, Mich., Aug. 2 (AP).—Six persons were killed and one was injured when an army bomber crashed today at the airport here. Army officials said that the plane, which crashed on the take-off and burned, was from Dallas, Tex., and en route north on a mission. Names of those killed were withheld.

At Wright field, Dayton, O., Lt. A. H. Pearson, public relations officer, reported several of the men killed were high ranking officers from the air forces' experimental laboratory.

Lt. Pearson identified three of the victims as Lt. Col. John E. Davis, 51 years old, of Columbus, O., and Capt. Wendell P. Lester, 33, of Baytown, Tex., and W. W. Cummins of Solon, O., a civilian technician at Wright field.

Pearson said Lt. C. E. Ginther of New Albany, Ind., was injured critically. Names of the other victims were withheld.

Pearson said the ship that crashed was a two engined army trainer. Walter Hely, Charlevoix county agriculture adjustment administration chairman, said he saw the plane fall 100 feet and burst into flames.

BRITAIN'S HEAVY NIGHT BOMBERS OVER GERMANY

LONDON, Aug. 3 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Royal air force heavy bombers took to the air again last night after two nights of inactivity to renew their assaults on Germany, the British announced today.

Fires were reported still burning in battered Hamburg, repeated target of massed assaults by British and American bombers last week, as the night raiders attacked undisclosed objectives.

The aerial offensive was kept going in daylight yesterday as United States medium bombers struck at Nazi air fields at Merville and St. Omer in France. The American raiders returned home without the loss of a plane.

HOW MARCHING, FIGHTING YANKS SEIZED NICOSIA

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NICOSIA, Sicily, July 28 [Delayed]—Torrid and dry like a blast from a Gary steel plant, the sirocco roared over the mountains today and after 17 days of continuous marching and fighting, the doughboys of a veteran American division hoofed it into Nicosia this noon to capture this important road junction.

With this division here and another closing in on San Stefano at the other end of the strategic road to the sea, the position of the Germans becomes critical along this line on which they had been trying to delay our advance. Even now, altho the Germans are fighting hard for San Stefano and shelling Nicosia, our aerial observation reports heavy troop and motor movement back toward the Nazis' stronger positions along a mountain line from Cape d'Orlando to its anchor at Randazzo in the foothills of Mount Etna.

[Allied headquarters announced yesterday that the Yanks had captured San Stefano.]

No Communications Roads.

Between the Nicosia-Randazzo highway and the San Stefano-Cape d'Orlando coastal road there are no roads for communication or supply, only the masses of those gigantic scrub covered peaks over which the Americans have been fighting for more than two weeks.

South of the Nicosia-Randazzo road, however, there are smaller secondary highways and trails which the enemy has been using. The terrain is also rugged and favors the defense so that it is probable he will continue to fight hard in this area, holding a ring against the Yanks, Canadians and British centered on Mount Etna which gives him a dominating observation and vantage point. This has been working to the disadvantage of the British 8th army which is now reorganizing south of Catania.

[Yesterday's allied war bulletin also said that the 8th army had renewed its drive on Catania.]

Battle Tough Nazi Army.

The capture of Nicosia adds another name to the honored battle flags of the American division which took it. The men of this organization have been fighting every inch of the way, since landing at Gela, against tough German troops.

The final action which took the town and sent the enemy back onto the higher ground to the northeast was a double envelopment which was accomplished against the most formidable of natural odds. It was an adroit conception of the old military axiom, "Find 'em; fix 'em; and fight 'em."

The division had been "finding 'em" mile by mile along the road from Gela. Its men were never without contact for a day and all the time the doughboys were plodding over these mountain trails and toting their heavy equipment, their ammunition and often their food.

The division came ashore at Gela minus most of its transportation facilities. For the landing, thousands of troops from other outfits were attached to it. These men occupied shipping space which otherwise would have held trucks and jeeps.

Bag 70 Nazi Tanks.

In addition to fighting enemy ground troops the division during the first three days endured fierce dive bombing and strafing attacks. Its men repulsed attacks by scores of Italian and some German tanks and eventually has accounted for nearly 70 so far in this campaign, according to Lt. Col. William Porter of the staff.

All the way across the island the division kept pounding at the Germans, but it was not as if it were moving forward on a long front.

Its men were confined largely to one road, moving in columns of combat teams. This meant that each team moved in columns of battalions so that the day's fighting was usually confined to the lead battalion until the others could be passed thru to relieve it and take up the battle.

The division had lots of good artillery but it was difficult to find positions for this type of fighting and equally difficult to get good observation since the Germans tried to keep ahead on high ground. For the Yanks the fight was uphill all the way.

Cub Planes Valuable.

In this connection our small two seater Cub planes proved invaluable. They were constantly in the air hovering over the enemy, spotting his observation posts and his troop movements and then hurrying back to land on some hillside.

Finally, a few days ago the division encountered a type of resistance which indicated the Germans were planning to make a stronger delaying stand. This was after the capture of Gangi, when Col. John Bowen's regiment turned east toward Nicosia.

This road is really a defile between high hills which in turn are dominated by observation from mountains on either side. The one on the south is called Mount Zimmara, or 1332—its height in meters. On the north is Mount de Grassa, or 1121.

It was here that the division began to encounter heavy enemy artillery fire for the first time. The Germans used 88 millimeter and bigger and longer ranged Italian guns. It was here, too, that the Germans put into full play the heaviest Italian mortars.

It's 5-Barreled Weapon.

This mortar is a five barreled monstrosity. Each barrel is of 210 millimeter. Each shell weighs 225 pounds. Fired electrically on the rocket principle, this weapon can scatter over 1,000 pounds of high explosive at 800 yards.

One battery had fired a few shells near the end of the Tunisia campaign near Mateur and then was captured. The three remaining batteries began firing on this division the other day, and yesterday the division's artillery aided by the Cubs knocked out four of these huge mortars.

But Bowen's regiment was fairly well pinned along the road, taking sizeable losses from mortars, machine guns, and artillery. At this point he sent one combat team across country to take Mount Zimmara and another swung wide to seize the other mountain, while one battalion swung north and then east to hit the enemy's rear.

He had "found 'em." He "fixed 'em" with artillery fire. Then he "fought 'em" by outmaneuvering them, and the Germans pulled back hastily, but not until the heaviest fighting of the entire march had been encountered on these mountains.

German Losses Heavy.

Altho they succeeded in evacuating many of their dead and wounded, we know the German losses were heavy in this engagement. One Italian battalion was captured intact, a not uncommon feature. Out of the 6,500 prisoners which have been taken by the division scarcely 1,000 are Germans.

To see the division take Nicosia at noon today we drove from our base on the coast road over the wildest mountains dotted with wild olive trees. Their lower slopes were planted in grain. As the crow flies it was 20 miles. Our speedometer clocked the trip at 63 miles. That will give you some idea of why the boys think this is worse than Tunisia—that and the blazing sun which beats down during midday when there can be no respite, for even then the men must still march and fight.

We came today upon some marchers. They were our dark skinned turbaned friends, Moroccan Goums. They were hitting a fast pace down the road, so fast their pack horses had to hurry to keep up with them as they headed into the mountains, their favorite fighting ground.

Goums Move Fast.

When they were given their objective an American officer asked when they would get there. A Goum said they would leave at dawn and cover the 20 kilometers [approximately 12½ miles] by 2 o'clock. The Yank thought he meant the next morning, but the Goum meant that afternoon and at 2 o'clock the Goums were on the hill. This afternoon they moved down to cut the road and deny its use to the Germans.

That kind of traveling is admired by the Yanks. One of our own battalions moved on foot 24 miles in 14 hours, carrying all of its equipment. On the long haul up from the coast the center of gravity of the division usually moved from 8 to 10 miles a day. Its men have moved this way despite the need to haul their own supplies and to use their own vehicles to move prisoners back to the ports.

The Americans are threatening the towns of Cerami and Capizzi located among a number of interlocking highway triangles. The towns are southeast of Mistretta and northeast of Nicosia. Their fall would force axis commanders to supply their forces along the coast entirely by the north road skirting the shore, vulnerable to allied planes and warships.

The large and important highway junction town of Troina also is directly in the path of the American advance east of Nicosia.

Units of the Goums, famous French Moroccan troops, fighting in the same sector under American command, scored notable successes in storming positions in the high ground. They are particularly skilled in mountain fighting.

Allied sea power swept into supporting action, with American warships shelling axis objectives in Sicily ahead of the United States troops, and British cruisers and destroyers lobbing shells into two ports and railway lines in southern Italy.

Two fires were set blazing in the harbor of Crotone on the sole of the Italian boot, and two patrol boats sunk. Shells ripped the port of Vibo Valentia Marina on the Gulf of San Eufemia. A railway bridge over the river Oliva 22 miles to the north also was pounded.

Besides the heavy Fortress smash Sunday at docks in Naples and the near-by air field of Capodichino, where eight axis planes were destroyed, allied planes also bombed the Sicilian ports of Messina and Milazzo to the west, both used to bring in axis reënforcements.

The axis communications and supply centers of Adrano, Randazzo, and Paterno behind the yielding arc of the Etna line likewise were heavily pounded, and eight trucks were destroyed in a convoy near Orlando.

Five axis planes were downed over Sicily. One allied plane was lost in all operations over Sicily and Italy.

DAVIS IN ALGIERS WARNS EUROPE FACES INVASION

ALGIERS, Aug. 2 (AP).—Elmer Davis, head of the office of war information, speaking on the Algiers radio tonight, forecast that a great invasion would be launched from England that would sweep Europe as Sicily had been swept.

Davis said axis war criminals would be punished, and called upon freedom loving Germans and Italians to "let themselves show their feelings by their actions."

"America is now a nation at war, fully at war, and will remain concentrated on winning that war until the last of our enemies are beaten down," he added.

NAME BRIG. GEN. BARR DEPUTY U. S. CHIEF IN EUROPEAN THEATER

LONDON [Tuesday], Aug. 3 (AP).—Brig. Gen. David G. Barr, until recently chief of staff of the United States armored force which Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers headed before coming to London, has been appointed deputy chief of staff of the European theater of operations, United States army headquarters announced today.

Brig. Gen. Barr.

A native of Nanafalia, Ala., Barr, 48, received a commission in 1917 from officers' candidate school after attending the Alabama Presbyterian college.

He served with the first division overseas during World War I., and has been with the United States mechanized forces since they were organized. His wife and two daughters live at Arlington, Va.

FRENCH BOARD MEETS TO UNIFY ARMED FORCES

ALGIERS, Aug. 2 (AP).—Steps to bring about the unification of all French armed forces in the empire were taken today at the first meeting of the new French Committee for National Defense. Gen. Charles De Gaulle presided. The committee was set up Saturday in a new unification of the forces of De Gaulle and Gen. Henri Giraud.

The committee's chief problem was finding a formula which would make certain the United States and Britain would not be committed to support the continuation of the committee once France is freed of the German yoke.

President Roosevelt has stated there could be no question of a provisional French government when only five per cent of the world's Frenchmen were free to participate.

PLANE MISSING OFF CANADA SAFE IN NO. IRELAND

LONDON, Aug. 2 (AP).—In an unprecedented flight, a Canadian air force long range Liberator on patrol from Newfoundland was diverted in the mid-Atlantic and landed in Northern Ireland instead of returning to its home base, the British air ministry announced tonight.

The flight demonstrated that alternative landing grounds in the British Isles, Iceland, and the North American continent are available to squadrons patrolling the Atlantic and will permit completion of patrols formerly shortened because fog or clouds threatened to shroud the home base.

The air ministry said the achievement shows that in addition to aircraft from escort carriers, long range shore based aircraft can operate with increasing freedom in an area once so productive for U-boats.

MADRID HEARS PLAN FOR PEACE MARCH ON ROME

Leftists May Adopt Mussolini's Idea.

MADRID, Spain, Aug. 2 (AP).—Talk of an impending "peace march" on Rome was current in Italian quarters of Madrid tonight.

If Premier Pietro Badoglio stalls much longer on the allied demands for surrender, said one source, Italian leftists may take a leaf from Mussolini's book and organize a people's march on the capital, Milan, and other centers from all points in Italy similar to the march by four Fascist columns which entered Rome Oct. 30, 1922.

German residents of Madrid, downcast a week ago, gained confidence today. One door to the Balkans was "slammed shut at Trieste" by the German occupation of that port, a German diplomat said.

Nazi Defense Plan.

From the allied standpoint, central Italy is of little strategic importance. The heel and spur of Italy would form an ideal base for air and maritime operations against the Balkans.

From various reports the German defense plan shaped up thus:

[1] The three or four Nazi divisions now in Sicily will be sacrificed or will fight a delaying action northward up the Italian peninsula.

Main Stand on Po.

[2] The first German line of defense would be established thru the northern Appenines 200 miles north of Rome, based at the naval port of La Spezia on the west coast and Pesaro or Ancona on the Adriatic.

[3] The Germans expect to make their main stand along the fortified Po river valley, 80 to 100 miles farther north, defending the strategic roads and railways that lead to the French Riviera, the Balkans, and Germany.

18 Nazi Divisions Mass.

A German army estimated at 18 divisions garrisoned points in northern Italy today with apparent confidence that, if Marshal Pietro Badoglio surrendered anything, he could surrender only that part of Italy lying south of the Po river line.

Nazi troops have been on the move all during the week, according to advices to Madrid. Strong German units were reported to have occupied the upper Adige river valley, above and below Trento, 70 miles south of the Brenner pass.

A Swiss dispatch said Milan, the industrial heart of north Italy, had its first air raid rehearsal in six days yesterday and that heavy specialists who have manned the equipment thruout the war were back on the job.

Italian divisions along the Dalmatian coast were reported to have begun to concentrate at Zara and move toward the port of Fiume, now in German hands. An Italian source said this movement left the future of Fiume in doubt.

DO THE FIGHTING BEFORE TALKING ON ITALY: HULL

Would Leave Policy to Eisenhower.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2 (AP).—Secretary of State Hull, asked about reports of apprehension in England over American policy toward Italy and the Badoglio government, suggested today that it would be better to give attention instead to the actual fighting.

The main purport of what he has been hearing from allied quarters, he told his press conference, is that the military should be given a chance to fight the war without being hamstrung by other considerations.

Hull previously has indicated that he relied on the judgment of Gen. Eisenhower in the Italian situation, and President Roosevelt said Friday that when surrender time comes he does not care with whom we deal, so long as he is not a member of the Fascist party. Asked whether he so regarded Premier Badoglio, the President said he was not going to discuss personalities.

Cite British Attitude.

What prompted the press conference question today was a reported desire among Englishmen for assurance that an Italian ruling class must not emerge of the type which Robert Gilbert Vansittart, former chief diplomatic adviser to the British foreign office, described in a broadcast thus:

"Sort of a backstop, half-repentant, semi-benevolent totalitarianism, a leopard that has changed its spots and manicured its claws in a beauty parlor."

Vansittart's speech, which Hull said he had not seen, added this advice to American policy makers:

"The old order must go altogether. The ultimate sweep must be clean if we are to have a clean earth.

"Went Wrong in France."

"If we take this decision for a guide we shall not go wrong in Italy. You will forgive me for saying that for lack of such a guide you have already gone wrong in France and have taken us along with you."

Such criticism of American policy toward the French, generally that it dealt with some men not cleansed from the taint of Vichy, has drawn statements from Hull similar to the one he made today, that military matters and the saving of soldiers' lives should get first consideration.

Corporal Hitler Is Fired from Italian Militia

BERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 2.—A Rome decree banning the honorary rank of corporal in the Italian militia has aroused considerable amusement in Italy, where it was pointed out that there were only two holders of this distinction—Mussolini and Hitler. The duce created the rank for its Napoleonic implications and conferred it on Hitler in 1938.

RUMANIA'S LOSS HEAVY IN RAID, SAY U. S. PILOTS

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 2 (AP).—United States bomber pilots of the 9th American air force, returning from what was described as the biggest low level mass raid in history, reported today heavy damage to Europe's largest group of oil refineries, the Astro Romani in the Rumanian Ploesti fields, and other petroleum plants.

Specially trained American pilots who flew Liberator bombers on a round trip of 2,400 miles to make the raid, brought back photograph evidence of the havoc created in the refineries and pumping stations which supply the axis with one-third of its oil requirements.

The Ploesti area is 35 miles north of the Rumanian capital of Bucharest.

Make 51 to 20 Score.

Against 51 Messerschmitt 109s and 110s and Focke-Wulf 190s shot down, the middle east air command announced that 20 Liberators were brought down over the target area and an undisclosed number of others failed to return.

Despite heavy opposition from enemy fighters and flak, both the American pilots said they won thru to chalk up direct hits on the Steaua Romano refinery, destroying vital parts; on the Columbia Aquiea, one of Rumania's big four, and on the Americano Romano, declared to have suffered the heaviest damage with hits scored on the distillation and cracking plants.

"It was more like an artist's conception of an air battle," was the comment today of Col. Leon M. Johnson of Moline, Kas., who led one of the bomber groups over the Ploesti oil target.

British Flight Lt. George C. Barwell, a gunnery expert assigned to the 9th air force to teach aerial shooting, flew with Maj. Norman I. Appold of Detroit, Mich. He said the Liberators flew thru solid walls of flame and had to bank steeply to avoid the explosions at enemy installations.

"When we came out," he said, "the top of our plane was black. It started out pink. Soot!"

Practiced in Desert.

The Liberators flew into Rumania, sweeping down as they crossed the mountains into the Danube plain and dropping fast near the ground.

Coming out of the inferno of the Ploesti installations, the formations speeded 150 miles until they hit the Danube again. All along this first low-level leg of the homeward run the Liberators' gunners weaved over military targets on the ground—hitting everything from locomotives to ack-ack batteries.

Col. Jack Wood of Riverdale, Cal., said practice over a model of the target marked out in the desert helped the pilots find their way.

Lt. Lloyd Holloway Jr., Washington, D. C., said one plane was flying so low that the open bay doors were ripped off by a cornfield fence.

[The Germans asserted they had intercepted and dispersed the American formations and shot down 36 of the bombers.]

Say 60 Yanks Captured.

LONDON, Aug. 2 (AP).—The Rome radio in a broadcast recorded by Reuters said tonight that 60 United States air men who bailed out when their planes were shot down in yesterday's raid on the Ploesti oil installations were captured by German and Rumanian troops.

RECALL CHICAGO ROMANCE OF BADOGLIO'S AID

Balbo Flight Prelude to Marriage.

Dr. Augusto Rosso, reported by Berlin last night to have been named secretary-general of the Italian foreign office, is widely known in Chicago as the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. George Lawrence Wilkinson of 1027 Greenwood boulevard, Evanston.

Dr. Augusto Rosso.

Dr. Russo met his wife, the former Mrs. Frances Wilkinson Bunker, here in 1933 when he accompanied Gen. Italo Balbo on the last lap of the Italian mass flight to the Chicago World's fair. They were married in the Italian consulate in Paris, Jan. 28, 1937. Dr. Rosso was at that time Italian ambassador to Moscow, a post to which he had been transferred after serving as ambassador to Washington, D. C., from 1932 to 1936.

Visited In-Laws Here Since.

Dr. Rosso has visited Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson twice since his marriage to their daughter, the last time in 1938. Mrs. Rosso's last visit with her parents was in 1941. She left in September of that year to join her husband in Florence, Italy.

Since that time, Mrs. Wilkinson said last night, the Wilkinsons have received occasional cablegrams from their daughter thru the Red Cross, the state department, and via Switzerland.

Her Nationality Irked Nazis.

The fact that Dr. Rosso is married to an American was reported last March to have caused Germans to protest his appointment as Italian ambassador to Turkey, resulting in its cancellation.

Mrs. Rosso's son by an earlier marriage, George Bunker, is now serving with an American ambulance corps in Egypt. Her daughter, the former Adele Bunker, is the wife of Ensign James Aubrey Hynes, of the United States navy, in Washington, D. C.

FIGHTS OFF 200 PLANES; KILLED BY SINGLE FOE

A UNITED STATES BOMBER STATION IN ENGLAND, July 31 [Delayed]—(AP).—First Lt. John W. Johnson, 25, of East St. Louis, Ill., brought his crew and Flying Fortress American Beauty back from Kiel June 13 without a scratch after fighting off attacks from more than 200 German fighters.

There were few enemy fighters over Kiel when Johnson's group next attacked Nazi shipbuilding installations there July 25. But a 20 mm. shell from a lone Focke-Wulf which attacked the American Beauty killed Johnson.

His crew had been known as the "luckiest bunch of guys" in this station, because in a dozen tough raids over Germany and France they'd never suffered a single wound.

5 U.S. SENATORS ON TOUR PRAISE BOYS IN BRITAIN

Inspect Plane Crews; Call It Big League.

LONDON, Aug. 2 (AP).—Five United States senators, who made a flying tour of four American air bases, chatted with boys from home and assured them they were doing a fine job.

At a training base they saw Flying Fortress navigators learning to use secret location finding devices. At a bomber station they talked with the crews and received a favorable comment on the ships.

"The morale of the senate mission improved 100 per cent by the sight of what you men are doing here," said Sen. Richard B. Russell [D., Ga.].

Sen. James M. Mead [D., N. Y.] declared:

"We shall all take home a story of the remarkable contribution, very high morale and remarkably effective work you boys are doing."

Sen. Ralph O. Brewster [R., Me.] asserted:

"Washington — where you don't get along unless you're touched in the head—has been doing perhaps more worrying than you over here. When we get to Washington we will be able to tell them the cause of freedom is in good hands."

Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., [R., Mass.] added:

"We realize now this is the big league here. You are up against the ablest anti-aircraft and hostile aircraft in the world. When you come back there will be nothing too good for you."

Sen. Albert B. Chandler [D., Ky.] concurred with Lodge and added that the Germans in turn are "up against the ablest air force in the world."

SPELLMAN IS HOPEFUL ITALY WILL ACCEPT ALLIES' PEACE TERMS

New York, Aug. 2 (AP).—Archbishop Francis J. Spellman said today he hoped Italy would accept peace offers made her, to "provide an opportunity and a challenge to the united nations to show how they intend to keep faith with the world, with their words and with themselves."

Back from a six months tour covering Africa, the Mediterranean and the British Isles, and including a visit to the Vatican, Archbishop Spellman read a statement to a general press conference, in which he said:

"Italy's surrender would bring nearer the peace for which the world yearns. It would spare the lives of American, British, and Canadian soldiers, as well as Italian lives and Italian cities. It would spare the lives of many soldiers and civilians of all nations."

Archbishop Spellman, who left this country last February, said he had traveled 45,585 miles.

BRITISH RESORTS SEE PROFITEERS REAP HARVEST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Profiteers reaped a harvest from Britain's bank holiday crowds, according to reports from Thames river and seacoast resorts tonight.

Approximately 50,000 Londoners poured into the Thameside town of Richmond today by train, bus, bicycle, horse and buggy, and afoot. They paid up to $4 an hour for the hire of a rowboat seating two people as compared to the normal price of 30 cents.

Lemonade cost 14 cents a glass as against the normal 4 cents, while a tea consisting of a couple of small slices of bread and butter, two lettuce leaves, and a pot of weak liquid set them back 50 cents as compared to 20 cents. Tintype photographers at 60 cents a snap and vendors of sunglasses at $3 a pair did a big business.

YANKS IN BRITAIN CULTIVATE OWN WAR GARDENS

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AT A U. S. GENERAL DEPOT, Somewhere in England, Aug. 2.—The army has provided a back to the soil movement for hundreds of American soldiers who are cultivating 14,000 acres of land in the United Kingdom. This season they expect to raise 160,000 tons of vegetables and thus will free many ships for vital war materials.

At this great base, where a billion dollars' worth of supplies are being handled, 70 acres are being tilled. One man from each company is detailed to the gardens, where potatoes, beans, lettuce, and other vegetables are being raised in great profusion.

There has been little trouble from enemy action here, but as to birds? Well, that's something else. "We put in 10,000 tomato plants and they were all pulled up in one day by rooks," complained Col. C. W. Richmond of Jackson, Mich., the commanding officer.

TRAIN KILLS RAIL EMPLOYE.

Chicagoan Receives Dutch Decoration for War Aid

Comdr. Jack C. Renard, 4225 Washington boulevard, has been awarded the Order of Orange-Nassau, a Netherlands decoration, the navy announced yesterday. Renard, attached to a utility squadron in the defense of the Netherlands East Indies, was cited for gallantry.

HOUSE PREPARES QUIZ OF FOREIGN OWI PROPAGANDA

Growing Signs of Red Tinge Are Noted.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—A congressional investigation of the foreign propaganda activities of the office of war information now looms as a result of multiplying charges that communists honeycombing the agency are playing havoc with American interests abroad and actually imperiling the lives of American soldiers and sailors.

Members of the appropriations committee of the house said today that an investigation will be in order when congress returns from its summer recess unless it appears in the meantime that the OWI has cleaned house. In administration circles the prediction was heard that the President sooner or later will take foreign propaganda away from the OWI and place it in the state department in order to police the broadcasts affecting foreign policy.

Domestic Branch Curbed.

The OWI already has been shorn by congress of its domestic propaganda branch following revelations that it was devoted largely to exploiting the New Deal and booming Mr. Roosevelt for a fourth term. The foreign propaganda was also suspect because of repeated reports that when not mischievous it is silly and puerile, but congress shrank from curtailing the OWI activities in this field from fear of being accused of parsimony in an important phase of the war effort.

Repeated efforts were made by congressional committees to obtain the OWI foreign propaganda scripts but to no avail. OWI said they were too voluminous to transport to Washington but that anyone could examine them in the New York office.

For more than a week the OWI has been under fire for its foreign broadcast the night that Mussolini was kicked out. Altho this was regarded generally by official Washington as an event of the first magnitude profoundly affecting the course of the war, the OWI broadcast to Europe took the Communist line that the elimination of Mussolini is of no importance, that it changes nothing in the Italian situation.

Slur at Italian King.

The broadcast, entitled the "Voice of America," also quoted as representative of American public opinion the utterance of an obscure radical columnist who referred to Victor Emmanuel as the "moronic little king" and classed Marshal Badoglio as a Fascist.

The obscure columnist was Samuel Grafton, revealed today to have actually been a member of OWI's war writers board. OWI Director Davis informed the house appropriations committee at an executive session last May that Grafton and other writers write for the government without pay. Their copy is not always read by OWI before use, he said. Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.] of the house committee on un-American activities, will add Grafton's name to his list of those who should be expunged from government positions, it was learned.

The British and American governments, which were ready to treat with the Badoglio government for capitulation terms, in an effort to avert further bloodshed, were greatly embarrassed by the offensive character of this official Washington broadcast. It soon turned out that the broadcast was the work of the Communists whose employment in the agency has been condoned and defended by OWI Chief Elmer Davis and the director of the overseas branch, Robert E. Sherwood, both left wingers. Sherwood and other OWI bosses were called to the state department and verbally spanked. They promised never to do it again. Davis escaped because he is inspecting the OWI establishment overseas.

Fakery Exposed.

Incidentally, it transpired that while the President was accusing the press of misrepresentation of the facts in Washington reports, his own OWI was indulging daily in about the most unblushing faking on record. It was broadcasting what purported to be the comments on the war of a columnist named John Durfee. OWI was compelled to admit that John Durfee is a wholly mythical person and that his reputed opinions, blazoned forth as typical of American opinion, were those of one of the left wingers on the OWI staff. Caught red-handed, the OWI killed Durfee.

Both Davis and Sherwood were grilled by the house appropriations committee concerning the Communists in OWI. They defended a score or more in key positions whose Communist affiliations were spread before the committee chiefly by Rep. Richard B. Wigglesworth [R., Mass.].

The latent apprehension was that with these Communists in charge the foreign broadcasting was likely to conform more closely to Russian communism than to American policy. The Italian incident is now pointed to as proof that there was sound reason for the apprehension, for the Communists who put over the Italian broadcast were clearly more interested in fighting their Fascist opponents abroad than in promoting American policy and saving the lives of American fighters.

Report 30,542 Casualties, Much Damage in Hamburg

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 2 (AP).—The Aftontidningen in a dispatch from Zurich today quoted Hamburg police as saying 30,542 persons were killed, wounded, or missing in the bomb battered north German port. Not a single building was spared some damage, the report added.

Casualties were listed as totaling 8,347 killed, 18,681 wounded, and 3,514 missing. It said 259 industrial plants and 2,953 residences were demolished and 5,174 other residences were damaged severely.

Reports Schools Closed.

Spurred by the air attacks on Hamburg German authorities were reported speeding the evacuation of all nonessential civilians from Berlin today in fear that the city may be next on the allied blitz list.

The Berlin correspondent of the Swedish newspaper Dagens Nyheter wrote that all schools had been closed in Berlin and that pupils were being moved as rapidly as possible to the eastern evacuation area.

Told Fight to Finish.

BERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 2 (AP).—Allied bombing blows at German cities, particularly Hamburg, pushed the Italian crisis out of the public mind in Germany as Dr. Robert Ley, leader of the German labor front, asserted today there is nothing to do but "fight to the finish."

"The nation is bound irrevocably to national socialism wherever the party steers the ship of state. If it sinks all must drown—there is no escape," he added.

Warn of Danger.

German newspapers admitted the reality and horror of the bombing at Hamburg surpassed "every report, every letter, and every imagining possible." Berlin newspapers no longer spoke of courage but said merely "the danger cannot be escaped and therefore must be faced."

The Berlin correspondent of the Journal de Geneve said never before has the danger of an air war been discussed with such gravity in the capital and the Nazi press said the whole world must prepare to sustain a baptism of fire such as suffered by the ruined cities in the Ruhr and Hamburg.

The Germans took for granted that Berlin would be the next allied target and there were reports that all German ministers were leaving the capital nightly.

Newspaper men in Berlin were advised to sleep outside the city.

Nazis Oust Writer

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 2.—The Berlin correspondent of the Swedish newspapers Social Demokraten and the Svenska Dagbladet, Gunnar Pihl, was expelled today from Germany for having telephoned yesterday's story about Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels ordering the evacuation of Berlin thru leaflets dropped into mailboxes.

Another Swedish correspondent, the Stockholm Dagens Nyheter's Ivar Vesterlund, who sent just about the same story altho in more cautious terms, has been deprived of the use of Germany's telephone and telegraph to transmit messages to foreign countries—tantamount to condemning him to inactivity. A sentence of this type means a period of probation which ends in expulsion or reinstatement on the propaganda ministry's own terms and usually means pre-censorship of all news dispatches.

Foreign correspondents in Berlin who are nominally not subject to pre-censorship were told only late last night they could not use the story. The Swedish correspondents were never reached by the instructions and, having found the Goebbels leaflets in their mailboxes, they sent stories about it.

ALLIED PATTERN SET IN SICILY FOR INVASION MONEY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2 (AP).—The distinctive, vari-colored Anglo-American military currency which has made its bow in the allied occupation of Sicily is expected to set the monetary pattern for future occupations in Europe. The money already is being used in payment of all allied troops on Italian soil and for purchase of supplies there, a joint treasury-war department announcement said.

The Italian issue is in two sizes. The smaller size—about half that of American notes—was printed in denominations of one, two, five and 10 lire. A wheat field scene in brown appears on the face, with the denomination printed in the center. Blue, lavender, green and black borders identify the respective denominations. "Issued in Italy" and "Allied Military Currency" appears on all notes, and on the reverse side the "four freedoms."

The larger size, comparable to American currency, was used for notes of 50, 100, 500, and 1,000 lire denomination with borders and design in blue, lavender, green and black respectively, against a pale blue background. The rate is 100 lire to the dollar and 400 lire to the British pound.

Lt. Col. Harry J. Dooley, 2000 Lincoln Park West, was selected as president.

Other officers elected were: Staff Sgt. Russell V. Holt, 4736 Washington boulevard; Staff Sgt. Abe Rosen, 1627 South Trumbull avenue, and Staff Sgt. Post-War Meeting Set.

Plans were laid for continuation of the organization after the war with the first meeting set for Chicago within six months after the peace. It was planned to change the name of the organization at that time to "Chicago Veterans of World War II."

Tonight's meeting was held in the Columbia Red Cross club in London and a sign on the door read "Chicagoland." An arrow pointed to the interior of the auditorium and on it were the words, "The Loop." Chaplain Capt. Morgan J. O'Brien, formerly of St. Gabriel's and St. Anne's churches, Chicago, opened the meeting. Later, the club's members stood for a minute in silent prayer for Col. Morrow Krum, former European theater press officer and former member of The Tribune staff, who was killed in an airplane crash in Iceland, and for members of the crew of the Flying Fortress, Windy City, which was shot down over Europe.

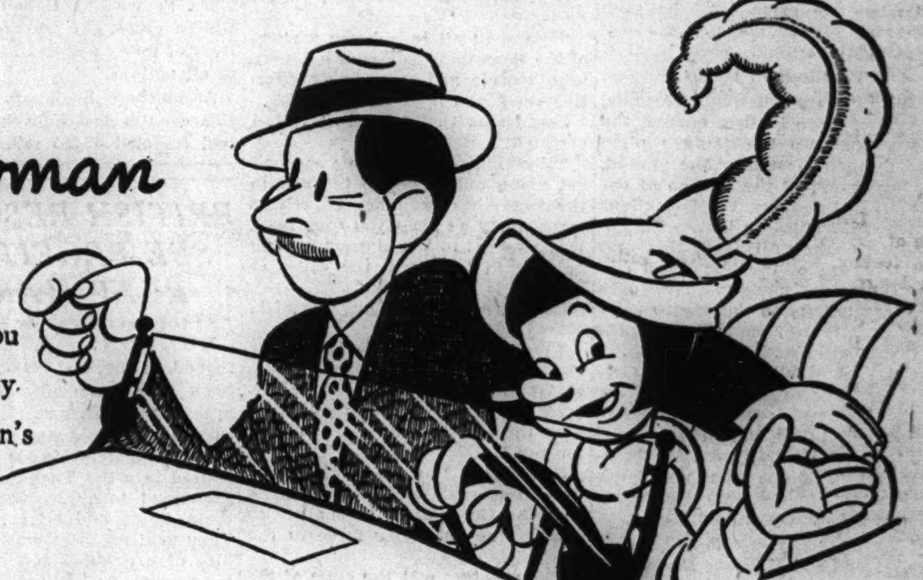
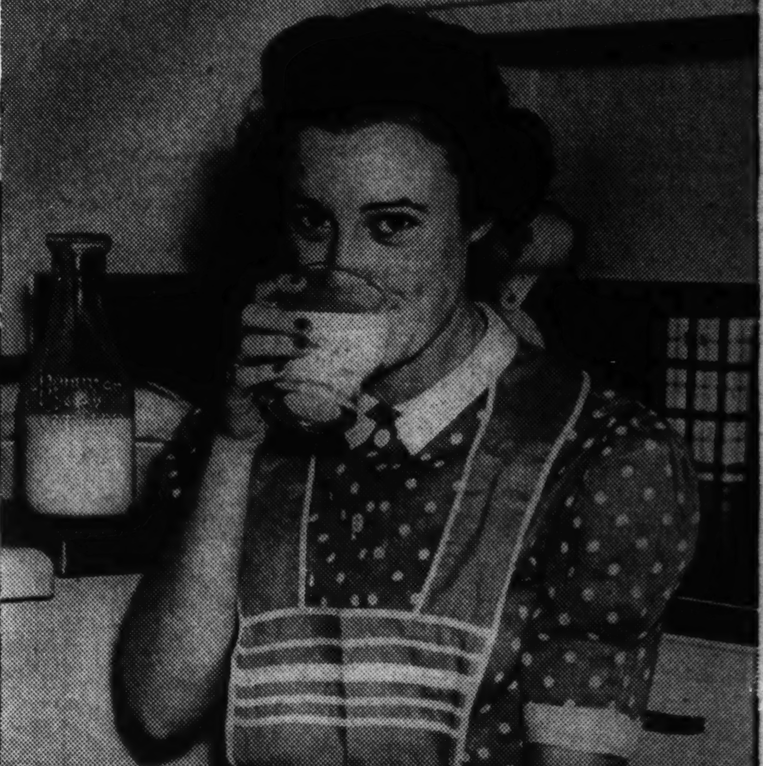
HOP IN, I'LL SHOW YOU
Bud Bowman



FIRST, MEET FRANK CAPOUCH our chief inspector. We're going along with him on one of his Farm Inspection tours. You see, every farm which produces milk for Bowman is regularly inspected. That way, we know Bowman's gets a pure, fresh start!

COULD ANYTHING BE PEACEFULLER! Gosh, these cows have it easy, eating 3 squares a day (and then some) . . . lying in the shade . . . enjoying clean, warm quarters in wintertime. No wonder they give milk of superior flavor!

FARMER BURNS IS TYPICAL of our producers . . his family's been selling to Bowman for three generations. Feeds his cows only sweet, well-balanced rations . . . and each Bossie even has her own drinking fountain! Yes sir, a farmer sure has to hump to meet Bowman's rigid standards.



OF COURSE, THERE'S A LOT MORE to this bringing you milk as fine and fresh as Bowman's. For instance, it has to be cooled and collected . . . pasteurized . . . and scientifically tested 10 times to assure purity, richness, and freshness well above the official standard for fine milk. Ain't Bowman's grand . . . or do you already know?

CLIMBS N. GUINEA MOUNTAIN UNDER ROAR OF CANNON

[In a dispatch to The Tribune, printed Monday, Mr. Cromie told of some of the difficulties a correspondent meets in going to the jungle-clad front of Gen. MacArthur's troops in New Guinea. In the following dispatch, received last night, Mr. Cromie tells of further progress of his journey.]

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN NEW GUINEA, July 28 [Delayed]. —The next leg of our journey was considered the most dangerous—within range of heavy Japanese guns.

At daylight our camp was astir. Many of the men had been awake all night putting guns into position and getting ready to go into action. Infantrymen from a nearby outfit were assigned to climb into the hills to outflank Japanese entrenched on a range between here and Salamaua. A party of artillery spotters went along and I accompanied them.

Sees Big Guns Duel.

As we began the trek with our uneasy native bearers, American and Japanese artillery engaged in an early morning duel and we could see enemy shells landing high on a bare hill.

Soon, echoes bounced from hill to hill as the jungle muffled, the roar of heavy guns. The only other sounds were the squawk of birds, the hum of insects, and the distant drone of planes overhead. The path became muddier, then became a small stream, and then a heavy, green mud.

Finally, we came into a clearing thru a patch where natives had cultivated sugar cane. The bearers broke off sticks of sugar cane with a dual purpose of sucking on them to relieve thirst and leaning on them to help them up steep slopes. Then we hit the first hill—or rather the bottom of a mountain which we were to climb.

Up Mountain in Rain.

Barefoot native bearers, with slit ear lobes bound with leather and ornamented with beads, and cobs stuck in their bushy hair, scrambled up the mountain side like monkeys, despite the burden of heavy ration boxes, water cans, wire and ammunition. We were much slower, pausing frequently to quiet our pounding hearts and to catch our breath. During one such breather, one of our party expressed the general feeling, saying, "There's nothing I own I'd carry up this hill besides what I have."

The route was still uphill hundreds of feet and nearly every inch of the way the mud was as slippery as ice, forcing us to place our feet on the base of trees to prevent slipping and pull ourselves up by means of vines and saplings. We rested more and more frequently, until the natives ahead finally got out of sight. For three and a half hours, the last couple of which rain soaked us to the skin, we climbed over terrain similar to, but worse, than any I saw on Guadalcanal.

Near the end of our journey we met our natives returning to their homes, seemingly fresh as ever and actually bounding down the steep trail.

Find Chicagoans at Top.

On the mountain top we found a second infantry unit which had made the climb the day before. I met several Chicagoans, including Pvt. Walter O'Brien, 27 years old, of 5107 Chicago avenue; Pvt. Louis Rose, 23 years old, of 7736 Muskegon avenue; Pvt. George Wellwerts, 31 years old, Vernon hotel, 750 Jackson boulevard, and Pvt. Donald Peat, 23 years old, of 3255 Elston avenue.

I shared a communal cup of soluble coffee with them. It was made of muddy water boiled over canned heat, but tasted like ambrosia after the long climb.

Water was such a problem on the mountain top that the boys spread a poncho on four sticks so the nightly rain could drain into a helmet below. They were sleeping in slit trenches or native style lean-tos, made of sticks and covered with palm trees. They ate field rations, occasionally heated by fires made of mosquito lotion mixed with gun oil, and with a wick consisting of the top of socks or a piece from the inside of a canteen cover. Our party of five slept in a leaky lean-to about five feet long, all under a single poncho.

Morning finally came and we moved out in single file down a trail, each carrying his own rations, some loaded with wire which unwound behind and others burdened with machine guns. Tho we were hundreds of feet above the ocean, we were traveling on a ridge under brush so thick and trees so high that we had to send a man up a tree before we had any idea where we were.

Once every one scattered off the trail behind trees when we received word that Japanese were moving our way. It was a lone Jap, however, who went in another direction. The only other excitement was a shell whooshing overhead which dropped the entire column flat on its face momentarily.

At last it was obvious that despite the help of Papuan boys and Australian guides we were not following the desired route. So we retraced our steps and came back to the morning's starting point.

Tea with Pollywog.

Supper once more consisted of field rations and tea made with muddy water, carried in helmets from a creek which we discovered 20 minutes away. One soldier found a broiled pollywog floating in his tea but he calmly went on drinking.

I met more Illinoisans: Sgt. John Stallons, 28 year old, a Herrin coal miner; Pvt. Carl Webb, 28 years old, a Harrisburg farmer; Pvt. Edward Sesko, 25 years old, of 6206 Wayne avenue, Chicago, and Corp. Oliver Curran, 27 years old, a West Chicago utilities worker.

We made a lean-to once more, this time slightly larger, to cradle in with the dusk, and hoped it would be waterproof.

2 GUNNERS SHOT, FIGHT OFF NAZIS TO SAVE CREW

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2 (AP).—Altho wounded, two sergeants aboard a damaged Flying Fortress stood by their guns and beat off a swarm of German fighter planes until the bomber landed at sea after a raid on France, the war department related today.

The men are Staff Sgt. Edward F. Clements of Washington, D. C., a waist gunner, and Tech. Sgt. Edward W. Maslowski of Cloquet, Minn., a radio operator. After Clements was wounded Tech. Sgt. Harold B. Koukol of Berwyn, Ill., came to his aid and applied a tourniquet.

Other crew members credited the two sergeants with preventing the enemy from destroying the American bomber in the air, which probably would have resulted in the death or capture of the entire crew.

ARMY TO INDUCT 4,000 ILLINOISANS AT MILWAUKEE

Illinois draftees at the rate of 400 each day will be inducted thru the Milwaukee, Wis., induction station, starting Aug. 16. Four thousand draftees will enter military service from Illinois, the induction concluding Aug. 26, officers of the 6th service command announced yesterday. From Wisconsin headquarters it was announced that the Wisconsin quotas for August were so small that the station was available for Illinois inductions. Those from Illinois will be supplied from Chicago and northern counties. Illinois men will be sent either to Camp Grant or Fort Custer.

PHYSICAL TEST CONSIDERED FOR ALL CITY JOBS

The city council finance committee staff is investigating the advisability of a city ordinance that would require all applicants for city jobs to undergo complete physical examinations before being assigned to city work, Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], committee chairman, said yesterday.

Barnet Hodes, city corporation counsel, advocated physical examinations for all recently when he took over supervision of the city workmen's compensation bureau. Hodes and other city authorities agree the ordinance would reduce claims against the city for workmen's compensation.

Several hundred middle western educators and public school officials are attending the conference, which will close Friday.

HOLLYWOOD SETS PRECEDENT: HAS AN HONEST FILM!

Realistic 'Victory' Stuns Capital of Fakery.

[Marcia Winn of The Tribune staff went to Hollywood to see what was happening there. The following article is the tenth of a series.]

BY MARCIA WINN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 2.—What is undoubtedly the most controversial, and at the same time the most fearless, picture ever to emanate from Hollywood is ready for the nation's screens.

This is Walt Disney's animated translation of Maj. Alexander P. de Seversky's "Victory Thru Air Power." Various army and navy officials sought to dissuade Disney from making it, for it is an all-out, fighting plea for a separate, unified air command and an attack on what it terms the "costly, exhaustive" allied strategy in this war. It is coming out. It is factual, and perhaps prophetic.

The film is dedicated to the late Brig. Gen. Billy Mitchell, pioneer and prophet, whose advice and warnings of Japanese aggression were disregarded, and the other gallant airmen of America. It is a serious film, deadly serious, and ends with the plea to the American people: "Free yourselves from the earthbound past."

A Different Disney Film.

For Disney it is an extreme departure from his animated animals, his Jose Cariocas and Donald Ducks and Plutos. Only its beginning, the history of aviation, is in the Disney silly-willy good humored cartoon tradition. All action is achieved thru animated diagrams, maps, visionary six motored bombers with 36 cannon emplacements, bombs that explode in midair to become two or 1,002 bombs, submarines that fly, and one flesh-and-blood character, de Seversky, who occasionally pops up in his map filled office to reinforce by tongue the arguments made by animation on the screen.

"By all the standards, I shouldn't make a picture like this," Disney said, "but I got mad at some of those old fogies trying to run air power. . . . Saying how the air men couldn't do this or that or anything. You get so darn mad!"

Film Moguls Don't Like It.

The initial showing of "Victory," as it is generally known, was at the Disney studio in the San Fernando valley a month ago. A selected group of airmen and Hollywood executives attended. The next day the Hollywood executives one by one were making sly attacks on it. It was "too controversial." Disney should stick to comics; he shouldn't crowd them in their own realm. It was too serious. It wasn't Hollywood. It had no sugar coating. The public doesn't want to think about war. [This from gentlemen who make one brutal war picture after another.] When reminded that "Victory" was intended as a means to accelerate victorious conclusion of the war, they said the public wouldn't want to see it.

Maybe Disney has pulled a lemon, as some gentlemen seem to hope. Maybe he will lose his shirt, but his picture pulls no punches and moves swiftly toward a heartening conclusion based on a new air strategy. Its tale, narrated by Seversky, is this:

The theoretical advantages of a great land army were shattered in the fall of France; of sea power in Norway and Crete, the latter the first clear cut clash between airpower and seapower. Yet the United States failed to understand the lesson of airpower. At Pearl Harbor it was prepared for traditional naval warfare, and again the first blow came from the air.

120 Planes Blast a Fleet.

In an hour and 20 minutes an entire battle fleet was put out of action by a mere 120 planes. Two days later the British warships, the Prince of Wales and the Repulse, fully alert, entered the territory of land based bombers and were wiped out. In two days the naval defense of the Pacific was crushed.

"Only then," Seversky narrates, "did the earthbound mind grasp the complete lesson of this war."

America's first problem was: Can we produce and deliver? It has a 50,000 mile battlefront, every mile threatened by that deadly menace, the submarine, with supply ships glued to the surface, helpless victims. [The film predicts that submarines soon will be able to lurk beneath the surface and accurately locate their victims without surfacing.]

"Our ship industry," Seversky's voice continues, "thus is a tragic contest between launchings and sinkings, a strain on our industrial heart."

Germany Depicted as a Wheel.

The axis, on the contrary, fights on interior lines with fairly short, straight supply channels. Germany is depicted as an iron wheel with a rim [its front lines] supported by spokes [supply lines] radiating from a hub [industry]. If the rim is attacked, Germany can shift its power to reinforce the threatened sector. If the rim is attacked at all points on its circumference, Hitler can contract the wheel. If air power strikes at the industrial hub, knocking out his supply lines, the whole structure will crumble and surface forces can move in and clinch victory.

Modern bombers, with their 1,000 mile radius, can perhaps destroy Germany's hub, but what of Japan with its infinitely larger sphere? The island to island approach? "To invade and reconquer," Seversky says and the film shows, "is far too costly in life and time."

By way of Siberia? "It is only two hours away. The Japs are as well aware of this as we are." From China? The inability to get vital supplies into China would make it necessary to drive the enemy out of Burma first and advance from there. "This means another major war and years of exhaustive fighting." By aircraft carriers? A naval expert said the war against Japan could be won with 100 aircraft carriers. "To destroy Japan with those small doses of TNT would require thousands of carriers."

A Direct Solution.

The solution? Long range, land based bombers, the longer the range, the shorter the war. The United States could strike directly from continental America—Alaska.

In an amazing sequence "Victory" shows the mine-bombing and destruction of Nazi power dams [a prophetic strategy conceived and filmed six months before the R. A. F. bombed the Mohne and Eder dams], six motored bombers with 12 three gun cannon emplacements shooting with cross fire, radar, and countless breath taking refinements of destruction; bombs that explode in midair to release a shower of incendiaries; bombs that plow beneath the earth and produce an earthquake; bombs, bombs, bombs; planes, planes, planes.

"Victory Thru Air Power" unquestionably is propaganda, but honest propaganda, an argument for all-out air strategy. Neither Disney nor the picture makes any bones about it. Hollywood has produced countless dishonest propaganda pictures disguised as entertainment; not one producer has admitted they are such, nor have spokesmen for the industry attacked them as such, specifically and by name.

Disney Attacked.

Yet the Motion Picture Herald, a trade weekly, devoted its lead editorial to an attack on Disney for making the film, saying in part:

"This particular effort is to be regarded as something of a distortion of the processes of this democracy, and a perversion of its approaches. There cannot be a reasonable assumption that the ordinary motion picture patron is capable of a constructive judgment in the grand strategy of war. A public state of mind may make a war, but it takes generals to win it.

"We have experts in the making of war—military, naval, and in aviation. They have made it their lives and careers. We also have a commander in chief who holds final responsibility. So, in this most critical of all times, does it appear to be a sensible procedure to seek to create a wave of national and emotional pressures from the masses to press and prod the high command? The war will be won by that high command, not by going over its head with a cinema plebescite on plane tactics. If the de Seversky idea is of service, the war makers have it. His book has been available.

"Another aspect of the matter. . . . "Victory" is being presented in the main stream of flow of motion picture theater amusement wares. It is being offered in a channel from which the theater and its patrons alike expect a show, not a tract or a preachment. . . ."

Yet so far the industry has coughed up innumerable disguised preachments, and this is its spokesman's first complaint. The others have been justified as freedom of the screen.

Judge Caplan Fines Five Gambling House Keepers

Five men were fined as gambling house keepers by Judge Oscar S. Caplan in South State Street court yesterday. They were Benjamin Cohn, 6914 Stony Island avenue, $25; Marvin Salkind, 1212 South Wabash avenue, Harry Greenberg, 359 Madison street, and Sam Miller, 186 North Clark street, $10 each, and Vincent Monteleone, 1151 North Clark street, $5.

CHECK PASSER, TRAPPED BY AD, SENT TO PRISON

Carl Cummings, 57 years old, alias Becker, Thorsen, Carlson, and Johnson, was sentenced to 1 to 3 years in the penitentiary yesterday by Chief Justice John A. Sbarbaro in Criminal court for obtaining money by false pretenses. It is said he defrauded more than 100 persons of small sums.

Carl Cummings.

Cummings' method was to answer newspaper advertisements of business houses of real estate for sale, pose as a buyer, accept the seller's terms, and give a check as earnest money or down payment. In each case he would offer a check for $5 or $10 in excess of the sum asked, and receive the difference in cash.

The defendant's woman companion, Fay Bernard, 48, a former burlesque actress, who gave her address as 159 Goethe street, was freed when the charge against her was nolle prossed.

Police trapped Cummings thru an advertisement. Capt. John O'Malley of the Hudson avenue police, with Otto Ross and Mrs. Ada Munzberg, real estate brokers, advertised a rooming house for sale. When Cummings and his companion appeared they were arrested.

JAPS AND YANK CIVILIANS TO BE SWAPPED AGAIN

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2 (AP). — Arrangements are being made for another exchange of American and Japanese nationals, this time at Mormugao, Portuguese India, it was learned at the state department tonight.

Austin R. Preston, American consul general at Lourenco Marques, Portuguese East Africa, who handled the exchange of 1,500 American civilians for an equal number of Japanese last year, has been instructed to go to Mormugao to make preparations for the new exchange there. Mormugao is on the west coast of India, south of Bombay, in the little Portuguese colony of Goa. The Swedish passenger ship Gripsholm, used in the exchange of nationals last year, is expected to serve again.

LIGHTNING HITS ARMY AIRSHIP; 5 DIE IN CRASH

Mason City, Ia., Aug. 2 (AP). — Lightning today struck an army two engine Douglas plane from Baer field, Fort Wayne, Ind., ripped off one wing and sent at least five men to a fiery death.

With the aid of a garden rake, four bodies were pulled from the plane's burned wreckage, and a fifth was found 100 yards away. Searchers said they believed a sixth body remained in the debris.

W. S. Wise, a farmer living near the scene, said he was watching the plane from his yard when he saw lightning strike it.

"I saw the wing come off and start floating around," he said. "The plane was flying fairly high and began spiraling to the ground with the wing falling slowly after it."

BAR GROUP DROPS FIGHT TO UNSEAT WRITE-IN JUDGE

The Chicago Bar association yesterday informed State's Atty. Thomas J. Courtney that it has abandoned its fight to contest the validity of the election of Municipal Judge John R. McSweeney by a write-in vote last Nov. 3.

The association planned to appeal from the decision that McSweeney's election was legal, by Circuit Judge John Prystalski last May in quo warranto proceedings instituted by Courtney. Courtney said he would concur with the association plan to drop the appeal.

Judge McSweeney received 23,000 votes as a candidate to succeed the late Judge Lambert K. Hayes. The association contended that the election to fill the vacancy had not been announced.

MORE ECONOMY HELD ANSWER TO TAX BOOSTS

Senators Demand Close Spending Scrutiny.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2 (AP).— President Roosevelt's renewed request for "stiff" increases in taxes —made in a review of the revised 105 billion 869 million dollar budget for this fiscal year—appeared likely today to be countered in congress with bipartisan demands for closer scrutiny of government spending.

Sen. Kenneth S. Wherry [R., Neb.] told an interviewer he believed the huge financial problem ought to involve reduced government outlays as well as enactment of new taxes.

"Some of the unnecessary appropriations must be curtailed if we are going to keep America financially sound," Wherry declared.

Plan Check on Army Funds.

Similarly, Sen. George L. Radcliffe [D., Md.] said he thought congress was preparing to look much more closely into future army and navy requests, a subject the Byrd committee on reduction of nonessential expenditures has marked for early exploration.

At the same time Sen. Robert A. Taft [R., O.] predicted that congress will have trouble in financing additional revenue sources for the "truly stiff program of additional taxes, savings, or both" that Mr. Roosevelt said ought to be enacted.

Taft said it seemed impossible on the basis of figures compiled by the joint congressional committee on internal revenue to obtain more than 3 billion dollars in direct new taxes. He said the committee's figures showed that the federal government will take 13 billion 450 million dollars in taxes out of 21 billion 400 million dollars in corporate profits in the present calendar year.

The Ohioan said he doubted this tax total could be increased more than a billion dollars at the outside, with about 2 billion dollars in new revenue obtained from individuals and from miscellaneous sources. The administration has been searching around for 12 billion dollars additional.

Navy to Get More.

In his first budget summation in five years the President disclosed Saturday that while the over-all war spending outlook remains unchanged the army now is expected to use 6 billion dollars less than the 62 billion dollars estimated for it last January, while the navy's share will be upped 4 billion dollars to 28 billion dollars.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau made public a series of charts tonight intended to back up the President's reiterated tax demands.

In one chart, Morgenthau drew a contrast between the 35.9 per cent of total governmental costs met by taxes in this country and the 47.1 per cent in Canada and 51.7 per cent in the United Kingdom.

Another drew a distinction between the income tax paid by two salaried groups in the three countries. For a married person with no dependents, it gave these figures for present rates after post-war credit:

	$2,000 Net income.	$5,000 Net income.
United States	$188	$ 932
Canada	231	1,378
United Kingdom	378	1,628

GLENVIEW NAVY PLANES COLLIDE; 2 CADETS KILLED

Patrick Riley Jr.

Funeral services for Cadet Reilly, who father was a Chicago fire department captain until his retirement two months ago, will be held at 10 a. m. Thursday in St. Vincent Ferrer church in River Forest. He enlisted in the navy Sept. 3, 1940, and later requested aviation training. He reported to Glenview last June 2 from the University of North Carolina pre-flight school.

Cadet Hanses enlisted Oct. 22, 1942, at Detroit, and came to the Glenview air station June 1 from the pre-flight school at the University of Iowa.

GETS LIFE TERM FOR ATTACK ON GIRL 5 YEARS OLD

Ross C. Holland, 59 years old, who has been in and out of prison since 1909, yesterday was given a life sentence by Judge John A. Sbarbaro in Criminal court for the rape of a girl 5 years old. His criminal record included two previous sex charges.

The sentence was the maximum punishment Judge Sbarbaro could impose under the law. Francis B. McCurrie, assistant state's attorney, expressed regret that the use of the electric chair could not be invoked.

Mrs. Clara Becker of 8744 Indiana avenue, was responsible for the arrest of the rapist. Mrs. Becker saw him with the girl, and suspecting his intentions, called the Burnside police as well as the child's mother. He and the girl were traced to the basement of a building at 8644 Michigan avenue, where the child's bicycle was found outside the entrance. Holland was seized.

5 GROUPS PROBE CRASH OF GLIDER IN WHICH 10 DIED

Hold Funeral Today of St. Louis Mayor.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 2 (AP).—The crash of an army glider, which lost its right wing and plummeted its 10 passengers to death in a nose-down dive Sunday afternoon, was under investigation today by at least five groups of official probers.

Mayor William Dee Becker, several other city officials, two army officers, and Maj. William B. Robertson, whose manufacturing company built the glider, were among those killed.

The official army investigation of the accident, reported to be the first fatal crash since the army undertook glider operations two years ago, is in the hands of a seven man board of officers from Scott field, Illinois. The FBI aided them.

War Department Gets Report.

The board met this afternoon to complete its report, to be submitted to the war department in Washington, which will announce later the results of the inquiry.

Another probe is being conducted by four representatives of the army's glider experimental branch at Wright field, Ohio. The group includes three officers and Francis Aicre, vice president of Waco Aircraft corporation, who designed the glider.

H. Ralph Burton, counsel for the house military affairs committee said in Washington that committee investigators would look into the crash and in St. Louis Sen. Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.], chairman of a special senate air crash investigating committee, said the committee's expert, naval Lt. Carl Harper, retired, would report his findings to the senate body.

Three officers from Stout field, Indianapolis, which sent the transport tow plane, its crew and the glider crew here for the public demonstration, are gathering information for use of the 1st troop carrier command.

No Evidence of Sabotage.

Johnston said the possibility of sabotage was being investigated but that no trace of it had been uncovered.

Funeral services for Mayor Becker will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday in the Scottish Rite cathedral, with private burial services at Bellefontaine cemetery.

Robertson's funeral also will be held tomorrow, and on Wednesday there will be services for Charles L. Cunningham, deputy controler; Thomas N. Dysart, president of the chamber of commerce, and Henry L. Mueller, presiding judge of the St. Louis County court.

Funeral arrangements for the other five victims have not been made.

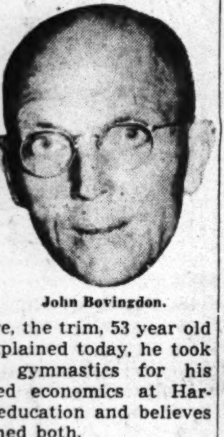
Exercised for His Health, Bovingdon Says.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2 (AP).—John Bovingdon, $5,600 a year analyst with the office of economic warfare, wants Rep. Martin Dies [D., Tex.] to understand that it wasn't the ballet that he danced, but rhythmic gymnastics.



John Bovingdon.

Furthermore, the trim, 53 year old Bovingdon explained today, he took up rhythmic gymnastics for his health, studied economics at Harvard for his education and believes that he obtained both.

Dies, chairman of the house committee on un-American activities, objected to Bovingdon's recent appointment to OEW. Dies said "this is no time for the appointment of ballet dancers to fill positions which require the best of brains and ability from our people."

"Hurt by Criticism."

Bovingdon was equally hurt by the reference to ballet dancing, which he said he had "always fought," and to his education which he declared he acquired at Harvard and Columbia universities. His dancing was described yesterday by Rep. Harris Ellsworth [R., Ore.] as 'bare toe twiddling."

Graduating from Harvard in 1915, Bovingdon said he became a professor of economics in Keio university, Tokio, and from 1920 to 1922 was employed by the American Woolen company as an economic analyst.

His health became so bad, he said, that he took up gymnastics as a last resort "in a period when I was studying how a man could use his body so he wouldn't decay."

Gave Rhythmic Exhibitions.

Off and on, Bovingdon recalled, he gave rhythmic gymnastic exhibitions and lectures in Japan, China, and Europe until 1941 when he entered Columbia for a Ph.D. degree. He speaks four foreign languages, Japanese, French, German, and Russian.

Bovingdon attributes any criticism of his rhythmic gymnastics to "an accident."

"I was just sick," he said, "and to cure myself threw my life into an unusual pattern."

"But," he added, "I'm going to do my best not to let these criticisms bother me."

Bovingdon said he held his OEW job "because the civil service commission apparently believed I was qualified."

"I applied for the position on the basis of my qualifications as a social scientist," he explained. "If I didn't have the qualifications I don't think I would be here."

8 NAMED TO ACT ON NEW WORK LAW FOR WOMEN

The appointment of four labor union officials and four representatives from industry to the newly created war labor standards board of Illinois, was announced yesterday by Francis B. Murphy, director of the Illinois department of labor.

The board was created by the Illinois general assembly during June to consult with and advise Murphy in granting emergency war time permits to employers in war industries who deviate from the women's eight hour law.

The union officials appointed to the board are: Helen Duncan, Decatur, representative, AFL International Garment Workers' union; Fullerton Fulton, CIO regional director of Chicago and Cook county; Walter James, Springfield, secretary treasurer, United Mine Workers of Illinois, and Joseph W. Ramsey, Rockford, grand lodge representative, International Association of Machinists.

The industry appointments are: A. D. Plamondon, Chicago, president of the Indiana Steel Products company; F. A. Friend of the Yanks' Kin

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

[This department answers questions covering problems related to the social welfare of relatives of service men, both in the column and by mail, if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent with inquiries to Sally Joy Brown.]

Mrs. R. E. B. writes: "I have been informed that the only way the family of a service man killed in action can collect the $10,000 government life insurance is at the rate of around $8 a month. Is this true? This seems hardly fair to a family left without any financial support."

ANSWER: It is true that payments of national service life insurance are on a monthly basis, and the full amount is not payable in a lump sum. The rate and number of payments are governed by the age of the beneficiary. As determined by that factor, the sum you mention might be the monthly installment per thousand dollars of insurance. Hence if the soldier had $10,000 worth of insurance, the total monthly payment would be $80.

Mrs. A. E. writes: "Please send me your bulletin which provides information on the procedure for obtaining free maternity care. I am the wife of a service man. Are the regulations the same all over the country? My husband is stationed in Kansas."

ANSWER: I am forwarding the requested bulletin, but the regulations are not precisely the same all over the country. Each state plans its own method of procedure. However, the wife should make application for such assistance in the state in which she resides, regardless of her husband's service address.

Other interested readers may obtain this bulletin by sending in a stamped, addressed envelope.

Mrs. M. M. asks: "Could you please tell me what amount of pension the widow of a man killed in the present war can receive?"

ANSWER: Death benefits for the present war are $50 a month for widows, and additional amounts for children, up to as much as $100 a month total for both.

Mrs. W. C. writes: "My daughter has enlisted in the WAC. Her husband is in the army. Thru him she has been receiving a regular monthly allowance of $50. Now that the women's organization is a part of the regular army, will she continue to be eligible for the regular allowance?"

ANSWER: The law which has made the women's auxiliary a part of the regular army will not be in effect until September. Information concerning their status with regard to the family allowance is not yet available.

Mrs. C. S. writes: "My husband entered the navy this month, and I have been notified that I will receive an allowance beginning Sept. 1. However, altho I am working, I do not earn enough to support my baby, my mother, and myself. Do you suppose I could get an advance on the allowance or some other form of help, as it is impossible for me to pay rent, insurance, and the special food the baby needs on my present income?"

ANSWER: It will not be possible for you to receive an advance on the family allowance, but if you are in need of temporary financial assistance, apply to the Navy Relief society, Great Lakes, Ill.

A PLAN TO STEAL ELECTIONS.

Sen. Lucas, whose expectations of reëlection are shared, no doubt, by Mrs. Lucas, if by few others, has evinced a sudden and intense interest in revising the election laws. He first brought out a measure to enable men in the service to vote. The principle is sound, but the bill violated the basic safeguard of the secret ballot by providing that the ballots, with the names of the electors attached, should be photographed and sent to the United States by V mail. We were inclined at the time to excuse Mr. Lucas in the belief that in his anxiety to set up voting machinery that could not be sabotaged, as it was in 1942 by Secretaries Knox and Stimson, he had been unduly careless of principles. His latest proposal to extend the hours of balloting into the middle of the evening makes it apparent that by these measures the senator is trying to steal an election for himself and his sponsor in the White House.

Sen. Lucas and Mr. Roosevelt depend for a large part of their support on corrupt municipal machines, and it is these organizations that will be able to take advantage of the opportunities for vote stealing inherent in prolonging the voting period after sundown. Just such laws, in fact, have been one of the dearest dreams of machine politicians for many years.

County Judge Jarecki, himself a Democrat, has made clear some of the opportunities for fraud that exist in the proposal to extend the voting hour until 9 p. m. Election officials now have to go on duty an hour before the polls open at 6 a. m. If they cannot start counting ballots until 9 p. m. many of them will be exhausted by the long day's work. The opportunity will be widened for interference by the precinct captains and vigilance will be relaxed against short pencil artistry and other tricks by dishonest members of their own group.

The alternative is to put on two shifts of election officials, a procedure that would merely open the door to new types of fraud. There is already difficulty in getting enough precinct judges and clerks of reasonable probity to serve in an election. If the number required is doubled that will just be an opportunity doubled, or more than doubled, for the Democratic machine to slip its stooges into the election boards, as it has already been successful in doing in many precincts in Chicago.

Insofar as the voters themselves are concerned, an extension of the closing hour from 5 until 9 p. m. would produce such last minute jams as we have seen in connection with various registrations for OPA rationing. A large proportion of voters would put off casting their ballots until after dinner and, in consequence, the polls would be jammed and many citizens would be deprived of their franchise by this congestion. It can be assumed that the machine would get its vote in early, as it always does.

Sen. Lucas' excuse for extending the hours of voting is that it will permit many persons employed long hours in war industry to cast ballots. There are not many war plant workers on an 11 hour shift, and there are virtually no 11 hour shifts that are coextensive with the present voting hours, from 6 a. m. until 5 p. m. There are not more than one or two voters in a thousand, in fact, who will not have ample time to vote, either before they go to work or after they go off shift, and the election laws take care of these few. Any citizen is entitled to take two hours from his employment in order to cast his ballot.

Congress should have no difficulty in penetrating the specious reasoning behind the senator's latest election stealing plan.

GOVERNMENT BY PRANCING JACKASSES.

In the lower right hand corner of this page is a picture of a principal economic analyst of the office of economic warfare. His name is John Bovingdon. He is a barefoot dancer and he smells like a Communist, as may be inferred from the fact that he was the number one whirling dervish of the Communists in this country and even inspired the Russians with his art. They inspired him, too. He returned from Russia to lecture here on "What Soviet Russia Is Trying to Accomplish."

Here is a man who, like his predecessor in the job, hasn't enough sense to keep his pants on in public and is in charge of giving our shirts away to the Hottentots. Here is a prancing nincompoop holding down one of the more important jobs in the war.

The OEW, which pays Mr. Bovingdon $5,600 a year, is the old board of economic warfare. It had its face lifted by President Roosevelt after Henry Wallace and Jesse Jones tore it apart in their feud. The OEW controls strategic war materials and the first newsworthy thing the OEW did after the President overhauled it was to hire this superannuated toe twiddler as an "economist."

This is the way the collectivist New Deal is conducting the war. Eleanor Roosevelt said that all of us will have to sacrifice to win over the axis. Presumably the twinkle toed Mr. Bovingdon is one of our sacrifices.

A CHALLENGE TO HOLLYWOOD.

Marcia Winn, writing about Hollywood, has unearthed a social problem there which is a challenge to the nation as well as a disgrace to the movie capital. Three hundred movie-struck girls disappear there each month. Most of them are of high school age and come from distant homes. They are tricked into vice by slimy Hollywood characters.

If girls must go to Hollywood for a chance in the movies, some one should look after them.

The Travelers Aid provides a basic social service which has done splendid work thruout the nation, but its facilities and powers are probably inadequate for this job. The wealthy movie industry itself should set up a social service aimed directly at this problem. With the coöperation of an honest police force, it could do the work.

FRANCE AN ENGLISH SATELLITE?

Robert Vansittart, long an adviser in the British foreign office, told an American radio audience in a broadcast from London that our state department policy regarding France was causing great anxiety to the British government and there was no use mincing the matter. Concealment of the fact would serve only the purpose of self-deception. Great Britain wants an Anglophile France. It wants a fourth republic cleansed of the sins not only of Vichy, but of the third republic. Our state department apparently is something in the road.

England, said Vansittart, is twenty miles from France, America is 3,000, meaning that England has special interests in France which we haven't. France nevertheless has been one reason for American troops crossing the 3,000 miles twice in twenty-five years. A Frenchman of any party would read the Englishman's remarks to mean that England intends to have a satellite France, something well within its orbit. On that basis there never will be a reconciliation between Frenchmen and the British. They are far enough apart now. Our diplomacy might close the gap. If the insular insouciance of the Vansittart proposal is astonishing to Americans it will be infuriating to the French. No free electoral system can guarantee a succession of Anglophiles in Paris.

The third republic in its last years was a poor and confused thing. There may have been traitors in the government, men who were selling out to Germany. The Popular Front may have been little worse than our own New Deal, but France could afford it infinitely less. France could not afford Blum, the Communists, the sit down strikes, the outbreaks of the Cagoulards, the selfishness of the Fascists, the violence of party strife, the intrigues of politicians and the scandals of public life.

What France needed in place of all this was aircraft, tanks, anti-tank guns, a sense of its own danger, an overhauling of its army, more intelligence in the general staff and a common feeling that the country would need the patriotism of all its citizens. The alternative was terrible. France suffered it. But Great Britain can make little complaint of this. Its own government was equally culpable. It was likewise blind and neglectful and was at times more interested in checkmating France than Hitler. If France was unprepared what shall be said of Great Britain? After Dunkirk England needed a million rifles from America to arm the only defenders the island had. That's still hard to believe, but it is confessed. Even Laval had as collaborator in trying to give Mussolini a piece of Ethiopia none other than Samuel Hoare, British foreign minister.

Many cherished items of British rule will make trouble for the United States possibly before the war is over and certainly afterward. We have promised a great deal more to humanity than the British have underwritten. We've promised things the Russians have specifically disclaimed. Great Britain and Russia are treaty partners for post-war affairs and they will make plenty of trouble for our altruists. Between them the four freedoms will be made to look pretty sick in the Baltic states and in India, in Finland and in Burma and in many other places. The promissory notes are ours. The wherewithal to honor them is not in our hands.

So it comes in a way strangely for one if not both these imperialistic states to accuse our state department of playing the game of French rightist, conservatives and reactionaries, if not the game of Petain and Laval and the Naziphiles. Gen. Eisenhower with the support of the state department has been trying to get France back in the war against Germany and has succeeded. The British succeeded only in fighting with the French fleet and with the French in Dakar, Syria and Madagascar. Those are the wounds Eisenhower has to heal.

We assume that when France is free again to act it will reëlect its chamber of deputies and some one with the confidence of the parliamentarians chosen by the people will be asked to form a government, will become prime minister and appoint a cabinet. To whom is the dictum to be given that it must be an Anglophile chamber, an Anglophile prime minister and an Anglophile government? A free electorate handed such instructions probably would hunt out a man with a traditional dislike for England and put him in control.

EXIT SIGNOR GAYDA.

[Birmingham Age-Herald.]

By no means the least significant sidelight thrown on the current crisis in Italy is the announcement [from Berlin, by the way] that Virginio Gayda is no longer editor of Il Giornale D'Italia, for years the semi-official organ of Benito Mussolini and his Fascist government. The new editor is Sen. Alberto Berdamini, who founded the paper in 1901 and directed it until 1924 when it was taken over by Gayda.

Signor Gayda has not been merely the guiding force behind the Fascist publicity organ, he has constituted himself the voice of fascism.

Was anything out of the ordinary in the line of vituperation called for? Gayda always came thru. Did any overt move by the allies need explanation from the axis point of view? Gayda was on the job. His busy pen will be missed by Hitler and would have been missed by Mussolini, had Il Duce not preceded him thru oblivion's portals.

STARS OF THE SUMMER NIGHT.

The only configuration in the heavens that is familiar to the rank and file of Americans is the Big Dipper, which has no classical standing as a constellation because it is a part of the Great Bear whose other stars are hard to find in hazy city skies. Therefore, to seek a few minutes of escape from the war news, the ideological grind, and global politics, let us consider the Big Dipper. If any of its stars are inhabitable, they are better worlds than this, and it is refreshing to contemplate them.

Every one knows that this masterpiece of cosmic "doodling" provides a sure answer to the eternal question, "Which way is north?", by pointing toward Polaris. The line indicated by the pointers, which form the outer side of the Dipper's bowl, misses the North Star by an eyelash or a few million miles, but nevertheless it is an infallible guide. Now, then, the names of the pointers are Dubhe and Mirak, of Arabic origin, meaning the Bear and the Lion.

The handle side of the Dipper's bowl is formed by Phekda [the Thigh] and Megrez [the Root of the Tail]. The handle is the Great Bear's tail, and quite a long tail for a bear. From base to tip it is outlined by Alioth, of unknown meaning, Mizar, also a puzzler, and Benetnasch [Chief of the Mourners]. The Arabs seem to have a monopoly in the Big Dipper.

* * *

Dubhe and Mizar are big fellows, and are listed among the 55 stars that aircraft pilots must learn for navigational purposes. The two pointers, moreover, are serving in aerial warfare as a measuring rod. They are about five degrees apart, and the distance between them, ticked off on a pencil, will help a pilot in rule-of-thumb estimates when his instruments are out of whack.

* * *

The Big Dipper, also called the Wain, the Plough, and Charles's Wain, seems to have been the first star-group to be identified by primitive man. Certain verses in the Book of Job are believed to refer to it, but its most important appearance in ancient literature was in Homer's Iliad.

* * *

Vulcan, making a shield for Achilles at the request of his mother, the goddess Thetis, ornamented it with astronomical figures, including "the Bear that men also call the Wain, her that turneth in her place and watcheth Orion, and alone hath no part in the baths of Ocean." [Lang, Leaf, and Myers translation, book 18.]

ILLINOIS VACATION.

Tho call of wanderlust I hear,
I must not heed its urge this year
To travel far, grand sights to seek
From rolling sea or mountain peak.
But Illinois holds beauty, too,
With patchwork fields in patterned view,
Gentle hills and pleasant vales,
Crystal lakes with snowy sails;
Quiet rivers, country streams,
Ideal for fishing or for dreams.
Drowsy towns, devoid of time,
Peaceful sound of churchbell chime;
Stalwart cities, busy, loud,
Where industry and culture crowd;
Winding roads, historic shrines,
Old stone mills and dusky mines;
Sounds to hear, sights to see—
Its very name holds melody
When whispered on the fragrant breeze,
But fairer still than all of these,
Tho all its confines I may roam,

The Simple Joys of Family Life.

The front door swung open and banged sharply against the door-stop. It was Mrs. Flibberty returning from a shopping trip. Her husband, who had dropped off to sleep in the living room chair, awoke with a guilty start. He was retrieving his paper, pipe, and glasses when she fluttered into the room with a book under her arm.

"Dear," she burbled, "I had the most pe-cu-li-ar thing happen to me—I mean I really did—I stopped in at the Lonely Ladies Lending library—a-n-d—I'd just picked up a book when the proprietor—he's such a darling—came up and took the book right out of my hand—and what do you think he said?—you pos-i-tive-ly won't believe it—he said that I wouldn't like such a book—it wasn't very nice—and O-O-O-O! —he said it was loathesome and vile—I mean it was almost as bad as Hollywood actually is—really, that's what he said—a-n-d—he said no refined and nice person, like myself, could afford to have a copy in her home—even tho she'd only borrowed it from a lending library—you know how people talk—a-n-d—besides, it was simply nasty, and dirty, and filthy, and vile—really, that's what he said—and loathesome, too—a-n-d, a-n-d——"

"O. K.," interrupted the long-suffering husband, reaching out a hand. "Let's have a look at the book."

AT THE WISHING WELL.

O, give me just for a day to go as a boy again,
Back to the country town ways that I knew
And scan the skies and run the roads of joy again
As once—how long ago—I used to do!

Give me to sing in the lane, and swim in the river,
And romp in the knee-deep summer fields of yore,
When years were free as the flowers, and life the giver
Of leisure, and laughter, and dreams—and nothing more!

As she held me under the faucet I brimmed over with emotion; the touch of the fragrant grains in my basket was overwhelming. It had been so long!

A few moments later I sat on the stove, warmed to the very heart, bubbling with happiness. As for her, she had six cups and has been writing poetry ever since. O, we're so happy!

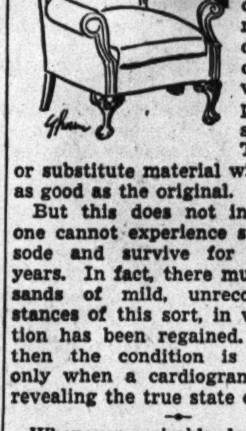
LONG LIFE FOR THE CORONARY VICTIM.

ALL too frequently we hear of a friend who has suffered a coronary occlusion. The important question is, "Will he recover, and how long will it take?"



First of all we must recall that at the time of the accident, a portion of the cardiac muscle was deprived of circulation, starving the cells involved. In consequence, many muscle fibers died. They were replaced by scar tissue. This filling or substitute material will never be as good as the original.

But this does not indicate that one cannot experience such an episode and survive for years and years. In fact, there must be thousands of mild, unrecognized instances of this sort, in which function has been regained. Now and then the condition is discovered only when a cardiogram is taken, revealing the true state of affairs.

Whenever a sizable dam forms in one of the arteries feeding the heart proper, the patient is acutely ill. The crushing pain beneath the breastbone usually radiates down one or both arms. The victim is in so much agony that the skin is bathed in perspiration. This is the period of shock and heroic remedies are demanded. Sedatives, oxygen gas, and absolute quiet will be called for.

In other words, the body must be relieved of every atom of effort. Within a few days improvement will ensue. The blood pressure, which perhaps has fallen to a low level, will rise gradually. But this cannot be interpreted as a signal to permit exertion. Complete rest must be insisted upon for at least six weeks. Even then, activity may be renewed only with the greatest caution as it is essential that the newly formed scar shall not be subjected to undue pressure.

In the meantime, some adjustment in habits should be made. It may be wise to reduce the quantity of tobacco and the occasion may be taken advantage of to get rid of excess weight. But nutrition should be watched lest weakness be complained of.

Will the individual be able to return to his usual vocation? Not if it is of a strenuous type. The same thing applies to play. Tennis, squash, handball, etc., are "out." Moderate swimming may be allowed. A useful observation is the pulse rate. If it settles down to a reasonably steady pace, and if no signs of irritability are presented, a happy outcome is in prospect.

Does one coronary mean another? It may, but it need not. Certainly no one who falls into this category should be dismissed until healing has been accomplished. Even indigestion may be significant. The patient may describe a flopping thump, like the leap of a fish, within the chest. While this may be of nervous origin, nevertheless it may require attention.

The master word in convalescence is "patience." Time drags and there will be considerable fretfulness. But nature is going ahead at as rapid a pace as the physical state will permit. If the victim understands exactly what has happened, he will be more likely to coöperate.

It is highly desirable to avoid these bouts. With those who are past middle life, a slowing up program is just good common sense. Here are a few admonitions: Do not hurry, eat leisurely, lie down for an hour after each meal, and do not strain at stool. Fatigue is the red stoplight.

EQUALITY OF ARMS.

E. J. writes: Why is it that the left leg and arm are larger than those on the right? Is it because the heart side is favored by better circulation?

REPLY.

As a rule, the body is symmetrical. Minor differences will depend on whether you are right or left handed. Unless there is obstruction or pressure on blood vessels, the supply of nutriment is equal on both sides.

TOE-PULLING.

A. W. writes: For 50 years I had leg cramps such as you described in your recent article. One day my aunt told me to pull my foot back by the toes as far as possible. The muscles relaxed and the pain disappeared.

REPLY.

FRECKLES.

S. H. writes: To settle an argument, can freckles appear even tho a person is not in the sun?

REPLY.

The direct rays of Old Sol are not essential. Ultra-violet is responsible and may affect a sensitive skin, even in the shade.

The Shape of Things to Come.

Every one else is making post-war plans, so this column might as well, too. The world beyond our shores is going to be as perfect as we can make it, and as one perfectionist to another, we'd like to have a little of that right here, because if there is one thing to be cherished and sought it is perfection. Our suggestions on the matter are homely and cursory, but given a little able backing they could make the post-war world shape up prettily.

They are, naturally, nation-wide in scope. We don't want to restrict perfection to the midwest. Now, for Washington we'd like to have a stabilizing commission. The commission would have only one purpose: to see that reading equals writing. It would make it mandatory that some one read the reports that every one writes. For every writer, a reader. At least one. [The proofreader does not count.] That is the thought of the day for Washington.

The next concerns that monument to perpetual motion, the national debt. It could be leveled easily thru a birth tax on rabbits, who, as any simpleton knows, can multiply much faster than any governmental pundit can subtract. That failing, the government should snatch up Westbrook Pegler's 1934 free will offering on the subject. Mr. Pegler suggested the debt, then relatively unimportant, be solved by issuing comic strip postage stamps. Presumably not even the New Deal had any idea just what it could do to an uninhibited national debt, so it ignored the suggestion, but right now we need all the money we can get, and in that post-war world we will need more.

Mr. Pegler wanted the stamps issued in strips of six, one a day, but our suggestion goes beyond that. We want each American to have his own comic strip [done, of course, by Milt Caniff or Frank Willard or Harold Gray], thereby forcing his correspondents to await his letters breathlessly in his eagerness to know what Terry or Moon or Annie is doing.

This should have many happy effects: It will bring a smile into every American home. It will cause many a dull, dishwater letter to be forgiven in the light of the shining radiance discharged by the comic episode on the envelope. And, finally, not only will 130 million persons be buying postage stamps each day, but the same 130 million will devote those leisure hours which are sure to be a problem in the post-war depression to waiting—with a shy, expectant smile—for the postman.

On the home front proper, which deals with purely creature comforts, the field for improvement is illimitable, but we suggest inspection lanes be set up in every railroad station, and every citizen wearing a skirt that clears the ground more than four inches be required to run an ocular gauntlet. No more squirrel seams, the type that is determined to get to the other side of the limb, will be permitted. . . . Something will be done about those boxes of cereal, soap, and other home necessities that say, "To open box, run thumbnail along perforation"; and innumerable thumbnails will be saved from oblivion. . . . Alley sopranos who attack the musical scales on Sunday morning will be forced to share their practice rooms with alley clarinetists who do the same thing. This will end that.

During this unhappy period preceding post-war bliss, the OPA has rationed a few tangibles. In the world to come these not only will be unrationed; they will be free. This will be easily effected as by that time we will have amassed a rich stockpile of them all. But the OPA has overlooked one characteristic of the American scene which can readily be sacrificed. We don't want this sacrifice now, for otherwise we will have little to fight for, but when armistice comes, chums, ration words. Words. Only one speech a year to any man, and he must be a Coolidge.

OUR AUGEAN STABLES.

Belvidere, Ill., July 26.—It will take years to straighten out the mess that the New Deal has put us in.

First: All of the promises and deals that have been signed secretly between foreign countries and the "commander in chief" and his henchmen.

Second: Hundreds of "executive orders" that have been forced on the people on the pretense of this country being at war. This will change the living conditions of all of our people for years.

Third: Brain trusters such as Hopkins and others planning to feed the whole world after the war, when they haven't enough common sense to keep the civilians of this country of plenty decently fed without tying up the farmers, putting small and large business out of existence, and placing the public in doubt from day to day on food rationing.

Fourth: Why is it that all of the prominent people, such as movie stars, orchestra leaders, authors, and others, are taken into the army and navy and given commissions when others more competent aren't given the commissions and have to enter as privates?

THE CAPTAIN LIKES THE FUNNIES.

Clarion, Ia., July 22.—Our son, Capt. C. H. Crowe Jr., has read The Tribune all his life. We felt he should continue doing so as long as possible, so we sent him a subscription, somewhere in England, in care of his bombardment group headquarters. SELF SERVICE IN DEPARTMENT STORES.

Chicago, July 27.—I wonder why some of our department stores do not try out the system of serve yourself which seems to be in vogue in New York stores, and apparently working out very satisfactorily. Let's start with the millinery department. I've always thought a woman capable of selecting a suitable hat without any assistance; at least I'm sure our husbands would be in favor of giving the idea a try.

A BUCKET AND A BAR OF SALT WATER SOAP.

Chicago, July 29.—So the sailors here are having trouble getting the laundries to clean their whites. During World War I, we wore whites and kept them clean by the simple use of a bucket, some soap and water and a lot of elbow grease and a good old ki-yi. But, of course, we were a rather primitive lot, not having been educated to laundries, recreation centers and such. Also wearing blues does not solve the cleanliness problem. Whether it shows or not they do get dirty, but they also yield to the "bucket" method.

RAILROADS KNOW THEIR BUSINESS.

Charles City, Ia., July 26.—W. G. McAdoo was director general of railroads during the World war and we can all remember the terrible mess that our transportation system was in during the entire time they were under government control. It was simply confusion, delay, and chaos caused by mismanagement. Today many times more freight is being handled and the railroads are surely showing the world that they know how to run their own affairs.

6,000 Policemen in Area; 543 Persons Hurt.

New York, Aug. 2 (AP).—A force of 6,000 policemen patroled the littered streets of Harlem tonight to guard against a renewal of rioting that led to the deaths of five Negroes, injuries to 543 persons, 500 arrests and property damage estimated at $5,000,000. The damage was caused last night and early today chiefly by looting of stores and bottle throwing, which left scarcely a plate glass window intact along some business streets in the nation's largest Negro district. The area has a population of about 300,000.

In a move to prevent a repetition of the shootings, stabbings and fisticuffs that flared, the dim-out was lifted but because stores were closed the pre-dim-out brilliance of the streets was lacking.

Guardsmen Stand By.

Augmenting the police tonight were 1,500 members of the city patrol corps, a war time auxiliary police force, who went on duty to aid in enforcing a 10:30 p. m. curfew.

Standing in reserve were 8,000 state guardsmen from eight New York counties. While not ordered to the troubled section, they were told by their superior officers to report to their various armories "for drill."

Police reported that the curfew went into effect without incident.

In his fourth radio appeal to the public to keep calm, broadcast shortly before the curfew was established, Mayor Fiorello La Guardia said: "Up to this moment, we have the situation under complete control."

He added that "if everything continues as nicely as it is at this moment, we will not be required to keep this regulation very long."

400 Appear in Court.

The mayor, who shortly before noon said that the situation seemed quiet then, offered no new comment.

More than 400 persons were arraigned before four magistrates during the day, and other cases were to be placed before the courts tomorrow. Most of the defendants were charged with burglary—the outgrowth of looting—but the charges ran the gamut from homicide down.

Matthew J. Eder, executive secretary of the Uptown Chamber of Commerce, estimated that Harlem merchants suffered $5,000,000 loss thru looting and damage to their stores last night and early today.

Began with Shooting.

He described the damage as "five times worse" than in similar disorders in 1935, when, he said, the loss was $1,000,000.

The rioting last night began when wild rumors circulated thru the district after a white policeman shot and wounded a Negro soldier he said had attempted to interfere with the arrest of a Negro woman in a hotel lobby.

THE QUESTION.
Did you ever insult a person unintentionally?

WHERE ASKED.

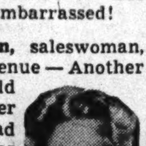
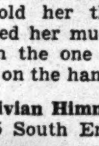
THE ANSWERS.

Raphael G. Soobey, second lieutenant, quartermaster corps, Bethlehem, Pa. — My earphones were clamped on as I was waiting for the calls over the radio and I couldn't hear my own voice. Just as three nurses walked in, I yelled, "You know I haven't met a good-looking nurse in this place yet." Was I embarrassed!



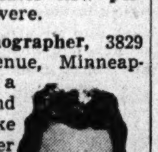
Mrs. Anne Deegan, saleswoman, 4339 Clarendon avenue — Another clerk in the store told me to take over her customer. She had tried on many dresses and I was going to point out the merits of the one she had on. I told her that one suited her much more than the one on the hanger. The one on the hanger was hers. No sale.



Rivian Himmelman, office worker, 3415 South Emerson street, Minneapolis, Minn.—Another girl and I were walking down the street with our overweight friend. Another rather fat girl hurried past as I remarked, without thinking, that I didn't know how fat people like that could manage to get around so fast.

Mildred Bernstein, housewife, 1933 North Sayre avenue—We were having a fine time at the amusement park, but had chosen such a noisy spot we said we should be speaking a sign language. We pretended to be making signs, and then realized that two deaf mutes were watching. We had no way of apologizing.

Mrs. Lee J. Fitzpatrick, secretary, 819 West Bradley place—At the dinner table, we were discussing people who couldn't swim. My husband and I are expert swimmers and all of the others, excepting one, could swim. Some of our remarks were quite exaggerated, and I realized later how personal some of them were.



Harriet Fox, stenographer, 3829 South Glendale avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.—It was a mistake for my friend to ask what I'd like for my birthday after she had already mailed my gift. I told her I liked all gifts except stationery, because I had my own brand. Her gift of stationery arrived next day.

283 WAGING HOT BATTLES FOR 90 ONTARIO SEATS

Windsor Candidates in Fiery Campaign.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 2.—With 283 contesting the 90 seats in Ontario's legislature, the stretch drive for next Wednesday's election is accelerating and all parties have applied the whip.

It appears certain that the C. C. F. [Commonwealth Coöperative Federation] will make an inroad into the provincial government for the first time. Observers estimate that at least 15 of this party's Socialistic-minded candidates will be elected.

Consequently, the "old line" parties, Liberals and Progressive Conservatives, have launched their main attacks against the C. C. F. program of state socialization.

Clark-Reaume Battle.

The vote is likely to indicate the duration of the government of Prime Minister Mackenzie King. In order to be secure his Liberal party, which has been in power since 1935, must obtain a majority. Otherwise a coalition of his rivals is likely and he could be voted out at any time. There is some talk that Mitchell Hepburn, Liberal premier from 1934 until he resigned in 1942, would like to head such a coalition. He is running for parliament as an independent liberal.

One of the most interesting fights is that in the Windsor-Sandwich riding. Maj. James H. Clark, speaker in the legislature recently dissolved, laid the foundation for a fiery campaign a few weeks back at Detroit when he declared that 45 per cent of the Canadians would vote for union with the United States.

Mayor Arthur J. Reaume of Windsor, in his middle thirties but a veteran politically, jumped into the fray for the Conservatives and has been making things hot for the major. Also in the field for the C. C. F. is George Bennett, a former Windsor mayor, who is expected to poll a sizable labor vote.

Reaume and Clark held a joint debate in a public park before 2,000 persons the other night. Reaume was afforded the better reception. Clark, who was ill from ptomaine attack, was heckled, but, of course, Windsor audiences don't always show which way the political wind blows.

The outcome of the vote in Windsor-Sandwich will attract attention thruout Ontario.

Attacks C. C. F. Program.

Harry C. Nixon, Liberal, making an appeal for reëlection as premier, has been addressing several meetings daily, besides broadcasting messages. He has directed much of his argument against the C. C. F. altho finding time to attack the 22 point program of Conservative Leader George A. Drew.

Drew also has hammered hard at the C. C. F., warning that that party would take control of business generally. As for the Liberals, Drew charges them with making an attempt to win the election by denying the soldiers a vote.

He claims that the late government has disfranchised nearly 200,000 men and women in uniform.

Thruout the campaign he has criticized the "proxy" form of vote.

E. B. Jolliffe, C. C. F. leader, tells the people it is time for a change if their living standards are to improve. In a radio address Saturday night he said the Liberals were guilty of "political forgery" in using a booklet as the basis of statements that one of the C. C. F. aims is the nationalization of farms.

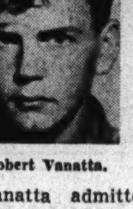
YOUNG PAROLEE TO HEAR SLAYING SENTENCE TODAY



Robert Vanatta.

Mount Vernon, Ill., Aug. 2 [Special].—Circuit Judge W. Joe Hill of Benton will pronounce sentence at 8 a. m. tomorrow on Robert Vanatta, 18 year parolee from the old state training school for boys, who pleaded guilty today to the first degree murder July 11 of Norma Geraldine Bradford, 21, a waitress.

Vanatta admitted that he shot and clubbed Miss Bradford to death, but said he mistook her for his stepmother, Mrs. Frances Vanatta, who he intended to kill. He also testified he had planned the killing of seven other persons, including State's Atty. George Howard and County Judge Frank H. Walker, who committed him to the state school in 1940.

Howard recommended a sentence of 199 years imprisonment for Vanatta, explaining that he did not ask the death penalty because of the boy's age and home life. Testimony showed Vanatta's mother was adjudged insane three months after his birth and that for several years after her subsequent release from an institution he was forced because of her aversion to him to sleep in a barn or a shack near the home.

Candidates representing parks in Chicago's north and northwest sides competed. A picnic lunch was followed by a swim.

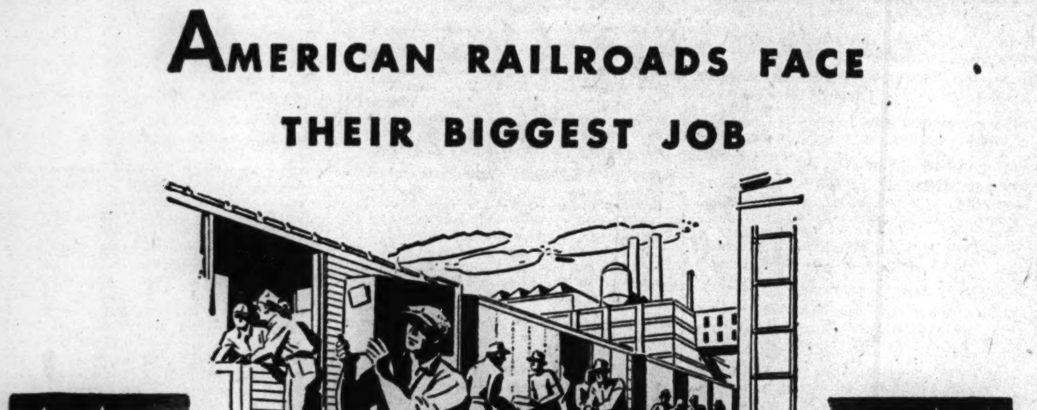
AMERICAN RAILROADS FACE
THEIR BIGGEST JOB



Coming weeks will see America's railroads shouldering the peak load of 1943. Crops must be carried to market or storage—military freight must be moved to embarkation points—troops must be transported.

Coal and oil must be delivered in ever-mounting quantities to meet domestic and industrial needs. Railroads must pinch-hit for the oil tankers that used to skirt the east coast—for the freighters that formerly plied through the Panama Canal, and for the millions of private cars and transport trucks now out of service.

During the first half of 1943 the Illinois Central System carried more freight and more passengers more miles than ever before in its history. What the demands of the coming weeks will do to records for the last six months remains to be seen.

What America's railroads have done—and what they are about to do—is possible only because of closest coöperation on the part of civilian shippers and federal agencies. All America seems to realize that this is everybody's war. People appreciate that the railroads must place war business first. Public attitude toward the whole situation is a compliment to American enterprise and teamwork.

HOLD SERVICES TOMORROW FOR JUDGE GRIDLEY

Veteran of Bench Dies After Month's Illness.

Judge M. M. Gridley.

Funeral services for Judge Martin Medbery Gridley, a Superior and Illinois Appellate court judge for 30 years prior to his retirement in 1940, will be held at 4 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel of the First Methodist church in Evanston. He died yesterday in his home, 425 Grove street, Evanston, after a month's illness.

Judge Gridley, who was 80 years old, was born in Milwaukee, Wis., and had lived in Evanston since 1870. He was graduated from Northwestern university in 1883, and after additional study at the Union college of law, now Northwestern university school of law, he was admitted to the bar in 1885.

Elected Judge in 1910.

He practiced law until 1910 when he was elected to the Superior court on the Democratic ticket. In 1912 the Illinois Supreme court appointed him to the Appellate bench, but he returned to Superior court in 1916.

SCHOOL BOARD APPEALS ORDER IN PAY DISPUTE

An appeal from a Circuit court order directing the Chicago board of education to pay $62,700,000 in 1929 tax anticipation warrants to the Chicago City Bank and Trust company and to other companies and individuals who purchased the warrants was filed by the board yesterday in the Illinois Supreme court at Springfield.

The order, entered Jan. 1, 1938, held that "large amounts" received by the board on the 1929 levies had been "diverted and distributed contrary to requirements of the law," instead of having been distributed on a pro rata basis among all owners and holders of the then outstanding 1929 anticipation warrants.

The board, in its answer to the court suit, asserted the claimants had "sat idly by" and permitted it "to call and pay all warrants and made no protest whatsoever." The board also contended that no pro rata payments are due and unpaid. The plaintiffs, in addition to the bank, included Irving K. Hutchinson, Waukesha Lime Stone company, F. J. Lewis, Boston Stock exchange, Reconstruction Finance corporation, and others.

COURT CHANGES KERN SENTENCE TO 1 TO 10 YEARS

John J. Kern, 47 years old, former real estate broker at 1520 Devon avenue, was re-sentenced yesterday by Judge Donald S. McKinlay in Criminal court to 1 to 10 years in prison. He was found guilty of operating a confidence game by a jury on July 23. Kern's attorney, Reuel Grunewald, has given notice of appeal.

Judge McKinlay pronounced the 1 to 10 year sentence after the state's attorney's office moved to vacate Kern's original sentence of two to eight years under the maximum-minimum sentence law. It was found the new law post-dated Kern's peculations and therefore could not apply to his case.

Kern was convicted of retaining deposits of $1,000 which five persons complained they had given him, on the proposed purchase of a building at 6213 North Claremont avenue whose owner testified she had not authorized the broker to sell.

ROBBERY MOTIVE SEEN IN MURDER OF GIRL WORKER

Dies in Coma; Watch and Cash Missing.

Phyllis Blair, 23 years old, a war worker who was slugged near her home, 4937 North Hoyne avenue, early Saturday, died yesterday in Ravenswood hospital. She had been in a coma since shortly after the assault.

Police at first believed Miss Blair had been the victim of a sex-crazed assailant. Last night, however, Capt. Thomas Connelly of the Summerdale station advanced robbery as a motive when it was learned that the stub of a $34 pay check had been found in the girl's purse. Only $2 and a few cents in cash remained.

Lapel Watch Missing.

Also missing was a lapel watch, the property of her aunt, Mrs. Katherine Linder, with whom she lived. Mrs. Linder said she had lent the watch to Miss Blair and that the name, Ora Nelson, Mrs. Linder's uncle, was inscribed on the back.

Miss Blair was last seen at 2:10 a. m. Saturday when she boarded a Halsted street car near a tavern at 235 South Halsted street where she had attended a meeting of fellow employes of the Republic Drill and Die company. It was learned she cashed her pay check at the tavern.

Later the girl stumbled into her aunt's home, her head streaming blood and mumbling, "A man hit me with a brick." She lost consciousness shortly afterward.

Linked to Another Attack.

Police last night were hunting a man described as partly bald, elderly and stocky, and about 5 feet 7 inches tall, who attempted to molest Lynn Martin, 22 years old, another girl war worker, near 2233 Lawrence avenue a month ago, near Miss Blair's home. It was believed he may have been the one who struck Miss Blair.

Morgan Park police were seeking the attacker of Lorraine Schulte, 19, of 10547 Throop street, Saturday night when she was on the way home from her job as a telephone operator in the loop. She was recovering from a head wound in Little Company of Mary hospital.

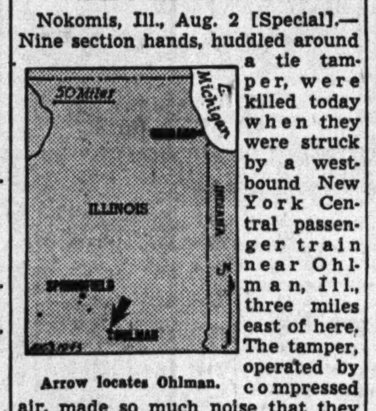
9 MEN KILLED AS TRAIN HITS SECTION GANG

Nokomis, Ill., Aug. 2 [Special].—Nine section hands, huddled around a tie tamper, were killed today when they were struck by a westbound New York Central passenger train near Ohlman, Ill., three miles east of here. The tamper, operated by compressed air, made so much noise that they did not hear the approaching train or the warnings shouted at them by five of their fellow workmen.



Arrow locates Ohlman.

Coroner Jesse Boyd of Montgomery county, who set an inquest for 2 p. m. tomorrow, identified the dead as follows:

James Taylor, 55 years old, of Coalton, Ill.; Peter Mongait, 57; Leopold Hochevar, 52, and Leo Kruel, 56, all of Wenonah, Ill., and Thomas Williams, 56; Donald O'Brien, 18; Loren Redman, 17; Gerald Borman, 17, and Kenneth Bruns, 17, all of Ohlman.

Among the men who shouted warnings was Frank Redman, 55, father of Loren Redman.

O'GRADY OFFERS ELEVATOR UNION PEACE FOR JOB

Terms of Unity Plan Are Sent McFetridge.

A union squabble fraught with court suits, secession threats, and the formation of a dual organization beginning with the ouster of James Leonard O'Grady last Sept. 28 as president of local 66 of the Elevator Operators' and Starters' union appeared near settlement last night.

An offer of settlement was made in a letter signed by O'Grady, James C. Sebastian, and Ray Loomis, leaders of the rebel group known as the protective committee of the union, to William L. McFetridge, president of the AFL Building Service Employes' International union, the local's parent body. The letter was read to the local union executive board last night.

Offer to Drop Court Action.

The signers offer to withdraw all court action against the BSEI and its officers and they agree to disband the protective committee if McFetridge and the executive board agree to reinstate O'Grady when he becomes a citizen. They also ask that all charges by the AFL union brought against Loomis, Sebastian, and other O'Grady backers be withdrawn. When O'Grady becomes a citizen, McFetridge is asked to allow him to run for his old office as president of local 66 at the election to be held May 4, 1944.

In January, 1942, McFetridge received a letter that revealed O'Grady was not a citizen. O'Grady claimed he was a citizen by virtue of his father's citizenship. Daniel D. Carmell, attorney for the BSEI, obtained baptismal and birth records from England purporting to show that O'Grady was more than 21 years old when his father became a citizen. O'Grady was unable to obtain records to disprove these records.

Suspended Last September.

Last Sept. 28, McFetridge suspended O'Grady. His friends in the union then formed the protective committee and retained Attorney Francis Heisler to sue for O'Grady's restoration to office.

Reports to the executive board last night indicated that McFetridge would accept the terms of settlement, because he had from the start contended that O'Grady need only become a citizen to be reinstated to full membership.

FCC to Investigate New Blue Network Ownership

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2 (AP).—Chairman James L. Fly said today the federal communications commission would check into the interests associated with Edward J. Noble in operation of the Blue network Inc. Purchase of the network by Noble, chairman of Life Savers corporation and former undersecretary of commerce, was announced last week. "Noble has taken full responsibility for the purchase, but there is some uncertainty as to what persons or interests will come in with him," Fly told a press conference. "Naturally the commission will want to know who all the owners are."

NEIGHBORS BALK AT WAR HOMES, BUT WORK OPENS

More than 50 residents in the neighborhood of the 10600 block on Parnell avenue staged an impromptu mass meeting yesterday to protest the construction of 20 homes for war workers. For nearly two hours they threatened to halt the unloading of a large excavating machine from a truck.

The bulldozer finally was inched down to the ground thru a group made up largely of women and children who had tried to keep the driver from backing it off.

Most of the lots on which the homes are to be built are in the block between 106th and 107th streets and are owned by Teninga & Co., a real estate firm at 10833 Michigan avenue.

Among the protesting neighbors were Anthony Derrico, 10615 Parnell avenue, and Harry Johnson of No. 10614. Both work nights in defense plants, they said, and the noise of construction "is sure to keep us awake."

Derrico, Johnson, Paul Day of 10544 Parnell avenue, and Boyd Cook of No. 10549, all said the neighborhood believed the homes were to cost only about $4,500 each, which would tend to lower property values in the area. They said most homes in the neighborhood were in the $6,500 to $10,000 class.

AFL EXPECTED TO REMAIN DEAF TO LEWIS THREAT

American Federation of Labor officials here discussed a report yesterday that John L. Lewis will withdraw his application for reaffiliation with the AFL, if the executive board puts off action on his request. The AFL executive board opens its summer session Monday in the Drake hotel.

A committee appointed by William Green, president of the AFL, to study Lewis' application, will report to the board that the United Mine Workers have refused to disband District 50, an organization of UMW which crosses the jurisdictional lines of 85 AFL unions.

When the report is made to the board, leaders said yesterday, the board will put off Lewis' application to a later date. An AFL leader said that Lewis merely was threatening the board in an attempt to change their decision in his favor. Another said that under no circumstances would the AFL give in to Lewis.

BLEEDING DISEASE FATAL.

WPA JOLTS CITY HOPE OF RELIEF IN WATER CRISIS

Aid Says Lake Diversion Study Must Wait.

The hopes of Mayor Edward J. Kelly that the war production board would save Chicago from the health hazards of polluted drinking water were jolted yesterday when a WPB spokesman declared in Washington that the board does not plan at this time to send an engineer here to study the need of increasing lake diversion.

Mayor Kelly and other city and sanitary district officials conferred in Washington two weeks ago with WPB representatives. They returned to Chicago with the understanding that they had been promised an increased diversion thru the sanitary district system.

Meeting "Satisfied" Mayor.

The mayor reported on his return that the WPB would send an engineer to Chicago to study the situation and to set a date for the increased diversion to go into effect. He said he was well satisfied with the meeting.

Last Saturday, after waiting 10 days, Mayor Kelly sent a letter to Donald M. Nelson, WPB chairman, reminding him of the "promise," and asking when the engineer would arrive. A suspicion was growing among city hall and sanitary district staffs that Chicago was being "put off."

Greater Health Menace Seen.

Engineers and health authorities have warned that the danger of pollution in the city's south side water intake cribs will increase during August and September. The Chicago Medical society asserted in a resolution addressed to the WPB last week that "action should be taken without delay."

A spokesman for the war utilities division of the WPB said yesterday that the agency has no present plans to send a man to Chicago. He refused to discuss the situation further.

Mayor Kelly, reached last night at Eagle River, Wis., declined to comment on the report that the WPB is not keeping its promise to him.

MUTUAL ADOPTS NEW PROGRAM POLICY TO IMPROVE BROADCASTS

The Mutual Broadcasting system has announced a new policy designed to improve the popularity of its network programs.

"We have made a critical analysis of Mutual's entire program structure and decided to eliminate various types of programs not currently suited to our overall program policy," President Miller McClintock said. He added that programs out of line with the network's policy would be replaced by "name-star, dramatic, and idea shows of outstanding character."

Simultaneously, McClintock announced that Dale Carnegie will tell "Little Known Facts About Well Known People" in a new series of sponsored broadcasts at 9:15 p. m. Thursday, starting Sept. 2. Gracie Fields, the British comedienne, will be featured in a series on Mutual starting Oct. 11.

To push Mutual's new policy, a special program operating board has been set up. Besides Miller and Adolph Opfinger, Mutual's program director, this board includes Frank P. Schreiber, general manager of W-G-N; Julius F. Seebach and Theodore C. Streibert, WOR, New York; C. M. Hunter, WHK-WCLE, Cleveland; Linus Travers, Yankee network, Boston; Willet Brown, Don Lee network of California, and Robert A. Schmid, Mutual research manager.

U. OF I. HOSPITAL ASKS DONATIONS FOR BLOOD BANK

The Research and Educational hospital of the University of Illinois at 1853 Polk street, has made an appeal to the public for blood donations. The hospital handled 250,000 patients free last year and its blood bank is nearly exhausted, said M. H. Worthington, superintendent.

Dr. Milan M. Novak, who is in direct charge of the blood bank, said that donations will be accepted from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily except Sunday, and on Saturdays from 9 a. m. to noon. Donations also will be taken from 7 to 9 p. m. Tuesday and Friday.

Dr. Novak said that of the total blood and plasma transfusions given at the hospital, one-third are of plasma and therefore all types of blood can be used.

Old Settlers Become Young Again for Day

For years John G. Raubold, 325 North Lombard avenue, Oak Park, has been attending the annual Old Settlers' picnics. Each year he has tried for a prize, and each year his age has ben against him. He was always too young.

But yesterday, at the 69th annual Settlers' outing in Harms Woods, he won the medal going to the settler with the longest period of continuous residence in Chicago and Cook county. He was born here 88 years and 9 months ago. Active and alert, he puts in three days weekly as a bookkeeper in a loop office, does household chores, and attends ball games and the horse races.

Raubold wasn't the oldest settler at the outing. William Spikings, 6345 Leona avenue, who was born 95 years ago in a log cabin with Indians for neighbors, was the oldest. But he won a prize a few years ago, and the rules prohibit a settler's winning an award more than once.

Two thousand men, women, children, and grandchildren attended the outing. While there was a scattering of young people, the day was dedicated to their elders, and the orchestra played the songs that were hits when grandmother was a girl.

Among the few who came in costume was Mrs. J. M. Fitzgerald, 701 Asbury avenue, Evanston, who, at 77, said she was a frustrated Floradora girl. In the costume that those dancing girls made famous, Mrs. Fitzgerald said it had been her ambition to be one.

Waltzing was one of the highlights of the outing, and prize winners were Mrs. Sarah Donahue, 92 years old, 4741 North Kenneth avenue, and A. A. Williamson, 88 years old, 2020 Sunnyside avenue. Their combined ages were the greatest among those of the dancing couples.

Mrs. Gertrude Delwo, 85 years old, 5514 West Austin avenue, was given the medal for being the oldest lady settler in attendance. E. E. Cosgrove, 69 years old, 1207 Leland avenue, has worked for Western Union 57 years, is still with the firm, and that record won him a prize.

For living the greatest number of years in the same house, Ludwig Kamps, 1534 Burling avenue, took the prize. He was born at the Burling avenue address, and still lives there. Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Cranmer, 2340 West 113th place, received a medal because their respective ages of 91 and 86 gave them largest total in that category.

Margaret Elizabeth Deffenbaugh.

Miss Margaret Elizabeth Deffenbaugh's engagement to LeRoy T. Carlson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Carlson of Carpenter street, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter I. Deffenbaugh of Essex avenue. Miss Deffenbaugh, a graduate of Wellesley college, is studying for a master's degree in English at the University of Chicago, where she has received a scholarship. Her fiancé, a graduate of the University of Chicago and of the Harvard school of business administration, is serving overseas with the lend-lease administration.

Lavish Blouses Bridge a Gap in Priority Abyss

BY REA SEEGER.

Because of priority rulings, a wool dress and companion jacket are no longer sold together. This ruling undoubtedly is responsible for the current enthusiasm for blouses. All designers have lavished their imaginations on blouses which are designed expressly for use with a certain type of suit, altho sold separately. Some of the swankiest wool jersey blouses ever featured are offered as ideal toppers for all such handsome fabrics as tweeds and tweed mixtures.

Neutral toned cashmere, beige and caramel colored jersey are naturals for tweeds and heavy suit woolens. The soft creamy beige subtly complements all shades, including the summer sun tans which are worn well into October.

Long shirtwaist sleeves snugly cuffed with narrow bands, high necklines tied softly with bows of the jersey or cashmere make very becoming casual blouses because the bow at the neckline redeems the blouse from a puritanical or tailored aspect. Some of the gayer suit blouses flaunt two or three colors, worked in effective contrast; horizontal bands, chevron or vee formations; giddy square patches and so on. Sometimes the chest is one color, the back a second, and sleeves a third.

This is the year tweed suits go on dress parade with the blouse. Some very handsome tweed suits of fine fabric and exquisite colorings glitter and shimmer with unusual sequin or paillette trim. Bows are embroidered with sequins and in some instances the entire blouse is adorned with shiny beads or sequins.

The first suit blouses are of wool, thin wool as easily fashioned as anything of thick crepe or satin, and every suit blouse completes the two piece suit into a flawless three piece outfit!

Engagements Lead in Day's Society News

BY JUDITH CASS.

THREE young women whose engagements are being announced today temporarily will desert Chicago as brides. Miss Beatrice Bamford probably will be living at Fort Riley, Kas., following her marriage late in September to Charles K. Harris of Chicago. Miss Mary Priscilla Boyden, who will become the bride of Joseph A. Rushton Jr. on Aug. 23, will go to California to live. No date has been set for Miss Shirley-Nelle Russell's marriage to John Frederick Huling, but as he is in training with the army air forces the chances are that she eventually will be at home at an army post.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur James Bamford of Lake Shore drive today are announcing their daughter's engagement to Mr. Harris, who is stationed at Fort Riley as a minister with the army. Miss Bamford, a member of the Chicago Junior league, attended the Principia, Briarcliff Junior college, and Northwestern university. She has a pilot's license but has been doing little flying as her recent duties as a flight watcher at the New York City airport kept her too busy. She has come home now to stay until her wedding. Capt. Bamford Jr. has returned to his western army post following a visit here a few weeks ago.

Rushton-Boyden Wedding to Take Place in Church.

Mr. Rushton will arrive from New York on Aug. 13, and his marriage to Miss Boyden will take place 10 days later in the chapel of the Winnetka Congregational church. A reception will follow in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Laurance E. Boyden of Winnetka. On Saturday Miss Patsy Peck will give a personal shower for the bride to be.

Following a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Willard Huling of Chicago and Mobile, Ala., Mr. Huling left on Sunday to take an advanced training course with the army air forces before receiving his commission late next winter. His fiancée, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philbert Milton Russell of Evanston, was graduated from the Stickney School for Girls and from Northwestern university. She was an original member of the Red Cross motor corps, for which she has been driving for three years, and also belongs to the Mary Crane league. Mr. Huling attended Amherst college.

Carol Plamondon in East for Summer Stock Roles.

When Miss Carol Plamondon boarded an east bound train on Friday, she had the exciting prospect of six weeks with a summer stock company on Cape Cod ahead of her. Miss Plamondon's interest in the theater dates back before her entrance at Bennett Junior college, where she has been active in dramatics. At Plymouth, Mass., where she reported for rehearsal yesterday, she will get stage experience with seasoned actors and actresses.

The Alfred D. Plamondons will have a chance to see their only daughter in at least one of her new roles, for they will be going to Cape Cod early in September. They left on Sunday for their customary month of August at Castle Park. Pvt. Alfred D. Plamondon III. will miss his sister's debut as a summer stock actress, as he is stationed at Camp Crowder, Mo.

Another exciting bit of news in the Plamondon family is that Robert F. Smith now is wearing the two and a half stripes of a lieutenant commander. Lt. Comdr. Smith, who is stationed in Glynco, Ga., is the son of Mrs. Emily W. Smith of Barrington, Mrs. Plamondon's sister.

A. Werk Cooks Parents of Son, Their First Child.

Andrew Edward Cook may be coming from Beverly Hills, Cal., next month to meet the baby grandson who has been named for him. The first child of Lt. and Mrs. A. Werk Cook [Helen Dick] was born on Saturday in the Presbyterian hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Blake Dick of Lake Forest are his maternal grandparents, and he has three great-grandparents, Mrs. Dick Sr. and the Frederick C. Aldriches of Lake Forest. Lt. Cook is stationed at Great Lakes.

Ensign and Mrs. Edward L. Hicks III. [Elizabeth Kean] became the parents of a son, Edward IV., on July 28 in the Doctor's hospital in New York City. Ensign Hicks, who had been stationed at Columbia university, has been sent to Miami, Fla., where his wife and baby will join him. Tiny Edward's grandmother, Mrs. Hicks Jr. of Winnetka, and her daughter, Betty, who is in the 8th grade at the North Shore Country Day school, are leaving this week for the HF-Bar ranch with Mr. and Mrs. D. Bligh Grasett.

Women Agents Hold Air Line's 'Glamor' Jobs

[June Geserick is gaining first hand information of new vocations that women have entered to help win the war. This is another of her series of articles. Others will follow.]

BY JUNE GESERICK.

The first women passenger agents of United Air Lines have proved their mettle on a testing ground of priorities and increased air travel. In recognition of their successful completion of the test period, the company yesterday announced that new recruits are being sought for August and September classes to augment passenger agent corps at United's bases thruout the United States.

Like stewardesses, women agents are said to hold the "glamor" jobs for women in the commercial air transport industry. Their work, which has increased in importance since the first woman agent was hired, brings them into contact with the nation's greats and near-greats. They are responsible for getting passengers on or off the right planes, arranging hotel accommodations, and answering scores of questions for rushing military or civilian travelers.

I worked a night shift to learn first hand the importance of a passenger agent's job, its difficulties, and assets.

Like other applicants, I was required to have two years of college or its equivalent in a position that involved public contact. The lack of time made it impossible for me to go thru the three week agents' school, which, because United is the only major air line with general offices in Chicago, is unique to this city.

Tom Alexberg, chief passenger agent, outlined my duties and assigned me to work under the tutelage of Miss Virginia Nelson and Miss Rosemary Moran, both agents.

I learned to read teletype messages from airports from which planes were coming to the Chicago airport. Altho each liner has 21 seats, heavy priority cargo frequently makes it necessary to book only 15 or 16 passengers, I was told. I soon found that passengers do not understand that planes can carry only a certain amount of weight, regardless of the number of empty seats aboard.

A priorities passenger and his wife, both bound for New York, came into the airport on a United Air Lines plane from a western port. Heavy cargo necessitated that the plane could carry only 15 passengers, and the woman, the only nonpriority passenger aboard, was deplaned, or "bumped."

A few minutes later, after the New York bound plane's engines had been started, the priorities passenger ran breathlessly thru the port's passenger station.

"I'm looking for my wife," he exclaimed. "There's an empty seat next to me."

The agent explained that his wife would have to join him in New York. Priority cargo goes before nonpriorities passengers.

For the next 40 minutes, I was busy helping passengers with their baggage, checking it as red caps carried it aboard the loading cars. When the next flight was scheduled to depart, I checked passengers aboard, putting a line above the names as they went on the plane. After all were seated, one naval lieutenant had to be transferred to another plane. Then the blocks were removed from beneath the airplane's wheels and I saluted the pilot—his signal that he should take off.

I answered endless questions about times of departures, rates, and good hotels in Chicago. The most difficult task of agents, I found, is explaining to deplaned passengers the reason they were "bumped." A great deal of tact is needed.

One passenger and her infant were deplaned in favor of a priorities passenger. The woman, Mrs. X., insisted that she be allowed to continue on her way.

The passenger agent explained that priorities passengers must be given preference and that she would be booked on the next flight to her destination.

"I don't care," Mrs. X. said. "I don't know a soul in Chicago and I can't stay here."

Having done her best to explain the situation and being unable to alter arrangements, the agent gently led Mrs. X. to the desk of a clerk.

"Mrs. X., this is Miss Smith. Miss Smith, Mrs. X.," the agent said, then turning to Mrs. X., "Now you know some one in Chicago."

Mrs. X. smiled and agreed to wait until the next plane departed.

The agents with whom I worked are congenial and enjoy their jobs. Altho their starting pay is $120, their interest in their work brings quick increase. Many do more than is required of them to speed the journey of passengers, especially when the passengers are service men en route to their homes.

As Lewis F. Spafford, senior agent on the shift, explained: "There are some things that we just can't do for our passengers. Priorities come first, but priority or no priority, we try to get our customers where they are going as quickly and comfortably as is possible."

Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

Mary Anne Kurtzweil, who has been employed as a draftsman at the Douglas aircraft plant since January, had an excellent background for her job, because she has been interested in aviation since her high school days.

Mary Anne Kurtzweil.

After graduation from high school at Stratford, Wis., she successfully completed the civilian pilot training course in 1940, at the same time holding a job as secretary to the chief mechanical engineer in an electrical manufacturing plant in Wausau, Wis. And for good measure she had three semesters of mechanical drawing, taking evening courses.

Miss Kurtzweil's ambition and her enthusiasm for flying then inspired her to enroll in the engineering drafting program at the Illinois Institute of Technology. Upon completing the 10 weeks' course she obtained a position in which she could work on plane parts to her heart's content. At Douglas she is in the tool design department, where her work consists of drawing up assembly "jigs" and fixtures.

On her time off Miss Kurtzweil takes flying lessons at the American airport, working toward the day when she can solo. She would like to join the WAFS [women's ferry command] but feels her war time job is too vital to leave, so she's flying and helping to keep them flying, and when peace comes she hopes to get into commercial aviation.

The latest project of the camp and hospital committee of the Red Cross' Chicago chapter is furnishing the recreation rooms for SPARs at 610 South Canal street. The two large rooms accommodate 300 service women. One is a lounge and the other a "quiet" room, where the busy SPARs may relax.

The camp and hospital committee receives equipment and funds for its projects from both organizations and individuals. Another of its projects is the recreation room at the Station hospital, formerly the Chicago Beach hotel. Also being furnished at the hospital is a new dental lounge, which will be used as an additional reception room after hours.

The Chicago chapter's camp and hospital committee is headed by Robert McDougal Jr. Mrs. Rudolph W. Glasner is executive secretary. Working with them are Miss Marie Youngberg, who is director of Red Cross home service; Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody, vice chairman of the Gray Ladies; Mrs. Walter J. Palmer, Lewis I. Ascher, Dr. J. Richard Drees, Calvin Trowbridge, E. B. Kitzinger, and Ralph O. Pierce.

The volunteer office of the OCD and Council of Social Agencies, 53 West Jackson boulevard, will be open on both Tuesday and Wednesday evenings to accommodate persons who wish to apply for volunteer work but who cannot contact the office during the day because of employment.

The volunteer office acts as a "placement bureau" for those who wish to offer their leisure time as assistants in community work contributing to winning the war. Volunteers already are serving 140 community and social agencies and OCD and government offices. They serve as clerical workers and research and statistical aids, assist with war housing, help survey needs for day care of children of working women, and work at ration boards. Volunteers also have been acting as assistants to case workers, medical social workers, clinic and hospital aids, and recreation, child care, and travelers' aids.

There is a growing need for more volunteers. The office is open from 9:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. on Monday, Thursday and Friday from 9:30 a. m. to 9 p. m. on Tuesday and Wednesday, and from 9:30 a. m. to 1 p. m. on Saturday. Applicants may call in person or telephone Wabash 0528 or Wabash 6569.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY

Age Quod Agis.

Pretty, pert white-collared gal,

Wherefore halfway thru departest
From thy task, and quite demure,
Or what sudden yen assails
Woman's lovely, fain I'd state:
Newton Rogers.

Woman to Woman.

Do women work best with a group of their own age? The question was brought to mind by a girl, just out of school, who took a position in the advertising department of a drug company. Frequently, at home, she spoke admiringly of "one of the girls in the office" who headed the department. One evening the parents of the new advertising recruit met the young woman of whom their daughter had spoken often and glowingly. To their surprise there was about 15 years' difference in the ages. When the parents mentioned this to their daughter she was plainly nonplussed. Curiously enough, she admitted, the difference in years never seemed apparent to her. "We all work together," she said.

"Do you prefer to work among girls of your own age?" I asked a young Tribune secretary. "No," she answered, "I want to learn. . . . I'd rather be in an office where there are others whose experience goes beyond my own."

"When there are older women who have been with a company for a number of years they set the tone of an office," he said. "It is always better if older women are 'senior employes.' It is usually more difficult if older women are new employes, for women resent instruction from younger women [altho men readily take instruction from younger men].

"The most difficult problem of today is the supervisor. Women like men supervisors. If they must work under the supervision of a woman they demand that it be some one they like and respect—a rare combination. It is better to have mature women in supervisory positions, particularly married ones. The girls seem to feel marriage supplies a little leavening thru home interests."

Patience.

"I know you have mentioned it before, but please do emphasize the importance of patience in so many current situations. Possibly it is a quality that went out with high shoes and long skirts, but if the white collar girls will cultivate a bit more patience it will help many of us [in white collar jobs] to serve the public without taking complete leave of our senses."—A. INSTALMENT XXXVIII.

DIEGO CLEARED.

Every one was listening intently to Long John.

"Big Ellen and Miss Hett came out and he waved at them and went on. They didn't see me. It was Hamish trained me to stalk, and I knew how to keep hid. Big Ellen kept looking for me, knowing I would not be far away, and when Miss Hett wasn't looking I showed her a hand, and her hand signaled back, and she took the girl inside.

"Don Diego went on, still easy, by the south side of Affran Loch. He was in no hurry, so it was no trouble to keep near him. Once I was careless, but he took me for a roe, clapping his hands at me, and a fine muckle roe I'd be.

"Now, this is the time." Long John's voice slowed. "It was getting on for 7. The rifle cracked against the cliff. When it cracked I had my eyes on Don Diego walking the path in front of me. He did not fire the shot. He had no gun, not a crook even. That's the statement I signed for Angus, but having listened to Donald, I can carry it further with an easy mind. But make sure of this: Don Diego Usted did not kill Gen. Harper."

Every one had been listening intently, and no one moved for a moment. Diego's heart was beating hard. He could understand Donald Gunn being posted to protect his mistress, but he was not at all clear as to why he himself had been trailed by Long John. A chair grated and Donald Gunn was on his feet.

"I ask your pardon, sir. I ought to have known better."

"So ought I, Donald."

Diego ventured a wary glance at Ann. She had not changed position. Her head was against the chair, and the mantilla had fallen back a little, showing her face colorless and her eyes closed, and her lips were moving soundlessly. She was praying.

"Senor, you will forgive me not at all. Not ever must you forgive me for the thing I thought."

She did not yet realize the thing he, himself, had thought yesterday evening, seeing a rifle in her hand. Her own sense of personal integrity was such that she could not imagine a dear friend thinking her capable of killing her husband, even accidentally.

"The plot develops," said Maj. Harper. He turned aside to his lawyer as if looking to him for more able advocacy. "Is it not plain? All these men are in it. Watchers lurking and sneaking everywhere. What did they expect to find?"

"Death, and they found it," said Big Ellen.

"Carry it a little further, Long John?" he invited.

"Ay, will I! Easy for me now after listening to Donald Gunn. Don Diego went up fast towards the opening where the shot sounded from. So did I from tree to tree, and I wasn't five steps behind him when he got to the edge, and I saw what he saw: the dead man lying by the rock, and Mistress Ann standing over him, the rifle gripped in her hands. What could the Don think? What could I think? The rifle gripped in her hands, and she looking down at a man who was alive two minutes ago——"

Now it had come. For the first time Ann realized that Diego had thought her guilty of killing. He was not looking at her, but he heard the sharp intake of her breath, and out of the side of his eye saw her two hands go up to her mouth.

"Don Diego picked his way across the clearing—and the rest is as Donald told it, only he didn't make a finish. You see, I saw the major come out of the trees a distance down, and I'll admit that what Don Diego was doing with the gun looked bad—tho I'd do it myself. I was too far away to hear what was said, except when the voices were lifted, and the Don didn't lift his once. I heard the major talk of murder and suicide, and I heard him order them down to the lodge to wait for Angus to arrest them. And it was there Don Diego started to walk toward him, soft and slow, his head forward, and his arms loose from the shoulders. The major threatened him with his hands, but like the lash of a whip the Don had his wrists.

"But all at once the Don lifted him to his feet and let him go, and slapped him back-handed on the mouth. The major took it, and when Don Diego said something and pointed, the major went.

"After that Don Diego took Mistress Ann up over the cliff. I followed after, for my job was to keep Don Diego in sight all that day, to see that no one got near him with bad intent. Right to Donald's bothy I followed them, and there I hid in the wood watching, till Donald came, and Don Diego came outside to talk to him."

Donald Gunn lifted a hand for attention. "Let me make a finish, too. I stayed on the point of rocks till Hamish came. I didn't show myself, and I was angry with Long John, thinking he had failed in his trust. He had not as you know. I couldn't face Hamish. So I slipped up to Skene's Rock and down along the head of the cliff to Loch Beg where I had to tell Big Ellen what I had seen and heard."

"And then the woman and her husband hatched a plot," said Maj. Harper. "What do you think, McInnes?"

But the lawyer, moving his forefinger rapidly, would no more be devil's advocate to please his client. He spoke to Long John.

"So you thought Mistress Ann killed her husband?"

"What else could I think? I know how I was a auld fool, but there was the rifle in her hand."

Ewan turned to Donald. "And you, Donald, what did you think?"

"I didn't think anything at first, not even when Don Diego came from the wood; but when he spoke there was only one thing I could think. You see I knew my mistress hadn't killed any one, but when Don Diego said, 'There was a struggle. The gun went off,' I and Mistress Ann, too, had to believe that it was with him the struggle had been. Who else?"

"But if he also was guiltless why did he say those words?"

It was really only then that Diego realized why Donald had thought him the guilty party; and Ann had shared his thought. His words had come out of a desperate search to find an excuse for the guilty woman. He remembered sitting on his heels by the side of the dead man and thinking it all out.

But Donald Gunn had imagination, too. Suddenly he struck the table.

"That was it. Don't you see? There he was sitting a long time looking at the dead man. He hadn't killed him, and he thought Mistress Ann had. He was working out how it all happened, and then he got up and made an excuse for her—an accident, a struggle, the gun going off."

Ewan nodded. "That might be it." He turned aside in his chair to look at Diego. "Perhaps Don Diego will verify that?"

Neighbors May Air Complaints About Children

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

This summer is seeing many more families at home than usual. With school closed and boys and girls less occupied and together for longer hours each day, you may find yourself with what one mother calls the "delicate psychological problem of your neighbors and your children" to solve.

The thing that makes the problem delicate is freqently the part your loyalty to your child plays in the situation. Perhaps your neighbor on the right who doesn't understand children makes a complaint; another confronts you with damage done in play; still another literally swears to her version of some encounter.

When these things occur, what happens to your loyalty to your child?

Do you fly to his defense with "How dare you say such a thing! Of course he didn't do it; I don't believe it!" Or do you turn on him and berate him, feeling that your own prestige is affected? Do you believe what the neighbor says because you think a grownup's word always should be taken against a child's? Do you at once summon your child, to hold court before the accusing neighbor? Do you do these things and in so doing become to your child just one more grownup, always committed to the other side of the fence?

While a hotly passionate defense of your son or daughter may be called for, it usually doesn't fill the bill. And certainly the opposite, instant censure, doesn't either. Something better and different is required to meet "neighbor trouble."

To me in order of their importance, three things must enter into your solution of the problem:

35 More Women Get Park District Beats, Raising Total to 90

An additional 35 Chicago park district women service guards were assigned beats yesterday along the lake front, in parks and at areas where traffic is heaviest. The park district now has 90 service guards who are releasing policemen for other duties.

Service guards carry no guns and have no police power. They have taken the 20 hour Red Cross first aid course and know traffic regulations. When schools resume in September they will serve as guards for children crossing dangerous streets.

The first service guards became an auxiliary to the park district police in May, 1942. Yesterday's class was the third and largest to receive assignments. A new class began receiving its instructions yesterday.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

About 10 years ago a bridge authority flashed briefly across the horizon trailing a system that left permanent scars on its temporary adherents. One of the pillars of this system was that a single raise of partner's bid-suit required four supporting trumps.

Fortunately for the future of contract, the system itself has long since been in limbo, but unfortunately, "the four trump thesis" still haunts thousands of players and costs them a collective fortune. South, in the following deal, was just one more innocent victim.

NORTH
♦ 3
♣ Q 9 8 4 3 2

WEST
♠ 6 4 3 2
♦ Q 8 5 4

EAST
♥ K J 7
♦ K J 7 2

SOUTH
♠ K J 10
♥ Q 10 8 5 2
♣ J

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 heart	Pass
2 clubs	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

South did not make his three no trump contract. West opened a low diamond, East put up the king, and South took the ace. A low heart to the ace and a heart return, taken by East's king, established South's long suit, but the defenders quickly collected two diamonds and two clubs for the contract's defeat.

"Why didn't you raise my hearts, partner?" South asked, not too amiably.

"What!" North said, "raise you with only three trumps, and when I had a six card suit of my own to rebid?"

"Some suit!" South jeered. "Did you think the future of the hand was in that beautiful minor suit of yours? Or maybe you were trying to get me to bid no trump, with that big singleton diamond you had!"

"Well," mumbled North, "no matter what you say, I couldn't raise without four trumps. Why, you might have had a four card heart suit."

This, apparently, was the last straw. "And of course if I had had a four card suit I needed you to tell me about it!" South rasped. "If you raised me from one to two hearts, of course I'd go barging right up to game with a four card suit—it wouldn't even occur to me to bid no trump or something that would confirm your trump length. Thanks for taking care of me!"

This dialog presents a digest of the situation. The "must-have-four-trumps" player seems to feel that he is the sole arbiter of his team's destiny, quite ignoring the fact that a single raise does not necessarily certify the suit in question as the eventual trump suit. North had two chances to show his heart support; the first and best chance on the second round when he could have raised to two hearts, and the second chance, not so clear-cut, when he could have taken the three no trump contract out to four hearts.

Write your bridge troubles and problems to Ely Culbertson, care of The Tribune, inclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Thru the Looking Glass

One beauty aid which is almost magical in its effectiveness, but which most women overlook completely, is the good eye pad. It's a whizz at erasing the tired look that does so much to dim a woman's radiance.

Nowadays that tired look is pretty hard to avoid. Lots of us are burdened with somber thoughts, and we work hard. But one of a woman's responsibilities, apparently, is to look fresh and rested all the time. It makes her a more attractive listener for the tired man in her life.

After a day of hard work over a typewriter or even a lathe, the soothing and refreshing pads do a lot to renew eye appeal. Try them sometime, and learn a good pick-up trick.

Some of our favorite eye pads are little affairs of white cambric, shaped like a dumbbell, and filled with herbs, including old fashioned herbs that were used in soothing eye lotions a long time ago. These pads are to be moistened in warm water and pressed gently against the closed lids while you relax quietly for 10 minutes or so. They give off a light herbal bouquet, and the combination of moist heat and soothing herbs rests the tired eyes and the twitching lids more effectively than would a brief nap.

These eye pads are wonderfully soothing after a day in the sun or in the dust or a day of tiring work. You can, with their help, be a bright eyed ornament to the dinner table no matter how dragged you felt an hour before your date.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 2.—Hollywood, home of motion pictures, houses another industry that is even more important during the war. I mean the Douglas aircraft plant at Santa Monica, with its thousands of workers. . . . I went to visit it the other day. Mighty sorry I hadn't gone before. You'd think that a place so gigantic would lose the human touch, but you'd be wrong. It's one of the most human places I've ever seen. Workers range from debutantes to grandmothers. Dwarfs work like those proverbial busy bees. All workers are happy, all willing to do more than their share. . . . They even have their own minstrel and vaudeville shows. Some of the prettiest girls turn into chorus girls, leading ladies, singers, when they finish their job Saturday night. They pile into buses, go down to San Diego, Victorville, or thru the heat of the desert to put on their shows for the boys in army camps, then roll back into town to pick up their shift Monday mornings. They've been looking for the handsomest girls to serve as bathing beauties for our victory drive.

Playing Straight.

Many of Hollywood's greats work there. Among them is Al Christy, who, with his brother, founded Christy Comedies, one of the first studios opened in Hollywood. Ruth St. Denis works in the night shift, so she can teach dancing day times. There are bankers and heads of great industrial firms who thought they had retired, but who have offered their services and are now working there. The need for more workers is a constant cry. In fact, they were so short that in one week they hired five one armed men. . . . I stopped to talk with many workers. One man especially caught my eye. He was working in the electrical installation department, sweat pouring off his thin, gaunt face. He was built like Gary Cooper, and just as thin. When I commented that it was a pretty hot job, his reply was, "This is war. My work is nothing compared to that of poor devils who work in muck, mire, and foxholes in the South seas." Then he turned back to his job with renewed frenzy, as tho resenting having taken one minute away from his work on a giant bomber.

Women's Victory.

I talked to women, young and old. Asked what they'd do after the war, nine-tenths of them said, "Keep right on working." "But what about getting back to your real job as homemaker and making way for the men who will come back—doing woman's work?" I asked. Several of them replied, "Well, what do you think we're doing now? We go home from here, clean the house, and make dinner for the family." . . . One woman had a daughter and husband working in defense plants, two sons overseas. She said, "I'll be perfectly willing to go back into the kitchen if for no other reason than that my sons love my cooking, and I want to make them happy. They can do with some happiness when this mess is over." . . . But to a woman, they say it's easier than housework. The number of women employed staggered me. More than 60 per cent of all employes are women. Working conditions are fine, except one thing. In some departments the noise is horrible. I asked about the reaction of that on the nervous system. One woman said, "It's no worse than listening to the radio blasting away. You get used to that and go right on reading your paper or doing housework. You get used to anything."

Back Stage in Great Drama.

I was taken inside a giant bomber and watched the minute care each rivet gets. There are about a quarter of a million rivets to one of those big fellows. Each rivet is inspected before they go on to the next. And in the tight places where you can't see underneath, they use those tiny magnifying glasses a dentist uses when he's probing to see how far he can go without reaching the nerve center and having you choke him to death. . . . As I passed a wing section, they were changing crews. A whole bunch of little men and women were coming down off ladders, and they yelled after me, "How are you, Hopper? Haven't seen you since we were working in 'Wizard of Oz.' Why don't you give up your job—come out and join us!"

The Man Behind the Gun.

The moving spirit of this is a quiet chap named Donald Douglas. He's commodore of the auxiliary coast guard. Makes trips over to Catalina Island and other near-by places. The coast guard trainees at Catalina told me an amusing story. One night they had just gone to sleep when they heard coming from the sea—bagpipes. One of them yelled, "Jeepers! The British have landed on us!" They rushed outside and there was Donald Douglas making port for the night to music coming from bagpipes. In fact, he's even mastered one of those durned things himself, and mighty proud of it.

Ham Salad Rolls Get a Big Welcome

Here's something really new for dinner—hearty ham salad rolls! They're a snap to fix on a summer night, and so delicious your family will call for them often. So save this recipe for your file of point-thrifty favorites.

You can use leftover cooked ham if you have it—or buy a ¾ lb. piece of cooked, boneless Star Ham. We suggest Armour's Star Ham because it has such fine flavor. It is mellowed in fragrant hickory smoke and is very tender and mild. It will heighten your enjoyment of these salad rolls that will provide an ample meal for a family of 4.

Make the salad by mixing 2 cups cubed, cooked Star Ham, ½ cup diced celery, ¼ cup diced sweet pickle, 2 hard cooked Cloverbloom Eggs sliced, ¼ tsp. salt. Add enough mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing to moisten well. Slit 4 finger rolls lengthwise, to make large enough opening to hold salad. Butter lightly and toast if desired. Fill with ham salad and garnish the top with a slice of hard cooked egg.

Allison Davis, Negro Educator, Will Give Talk at Sheil School

Dr. Allison Davis, distinguished Negro educator on the social science faculty of the University of Chicago, will speak at 8:15 o'clock tonight at the Sheil School of Social Studies, 31 East Congress street. His lecture will be on the effect of the incident of race in personality development. The race-personality question is one to which Dr. Davis has given many years of study here, at Harvard university, and, as a Rosenwald fellow, in Europe. For a time he shared the poverty and squalor of the plantation Negroes' life in the south to study their psychology, and the result of that research were two important books, "Children of Bondage" and "The Deep South," which were collaborative works with Harvard teachers and Yale university specialists. Classes and lectures at the Sheil school are open free to the public.

Society Turns Out for First of Race Series

The second race meet of the season opened yesterday at Washington Park, which was host during the first half of the summer to the Arlington races and will present its own events from now thru Labor day. Among the fans at the opening was John E. Hughes, who was accompanied by one of his four sons, Lt. Mansfield Hughes, at home on leave before reporting for duty with the air service ferry command. Mrs. Hughes has returned from the family's home in Virginia and is recuperating from an illness in Lake Forest.

Some of the boxholders for the Washington Park meet are Walter Gregory, president of the track, and Mrs. Gregory; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lobdell, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Britton I. Budd, the Charles A. McCullochs, Dr. James Mitchell, Joseph N. Love, Mrs. Bert L. Atwater, and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Jackson Perrin.

The close of the Arlington meet on Saturday found three generations of the George Nixon family among the spectators. Mr. and Mrs. George A. Nixon, their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Nixon, and the latter couple's son, Robert George Nixon, had with them young Mrs. Nixon's niece, Miss Hedi Flannery of Minneapolis, Minn.

Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. David W. Pinkerton of New Haven, Conn., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Frances Roberta, to Aviation Cadet Henry Lee Wenner III., son of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Lee Wenner of Elgin. Miss Pinkerton attended the University of Colorado, at which Mr. Wenner also was a student. He is a graduate of Elgin academy.

Mr. and Mrs. Kingdon V. Cellos of South State street have announced the engagement of their daughter, Gloria Beatrice, to Robert Raymond Nehf of the United States coast guard, son of Mrs. William Sheffert of South Green street. Mr. Nehf is stationed at Key West, Fla.

A BLUEPRINT FOR BUILDING "BETTER MEN"

IT IS A THRILLING THING to build good products. It is another and vastly more stirring experience to point to Men who have forged ahead, and say, "These are our finest handiwork!" For, let any one of this Company's workers demonstrate ability and ambition to better himself, there is opened to him the priceless "know-how" and experience of his immediate superior.

* * *

On that wholesome man-to-man basis is built Pullman-Standard's continuing training program for the molding of men. For twenty years the Company has sponsored an employe "suggestion" plan which pays well for suggestions adopted—another avenue through which employes can display initiative.

The Company's policy, wherever possible, is to promote from within. Classes are organized periodically for Leaders, Supervisors, Foremen, and others who can qualify. These classes are addressed, from time to time, by members of the Company's management who, in turn, attend them to listen and learn when they feel the need of a "refresher course."

Inevitable result of that plan for building better men is a deep clan spirit, and a loyalty to the Company that permeates through even the families of Pullman-Standard workers. Get ahead?—Why, the best place of all, they'll tell you, is right at the Plant. This system of training men for responsible positions enables this expanded management group to handle many times the load carried in 1940!

From the titanic laboratory of America's war production have emerged amazing discoveries and developments—and of them all the greatest is the very spirit of the men who achieved them! Men in high places of authority down to trainees, who have discovered what a thrill it is to find "it can be done—or—done better." Men intolerant of methods that have crystallized into rigid custom. Men aflame with zeal for the limitless possibilities of every job. Men whose passion for Freedom and for every man's right to win a high place by his own intelligent effort has flame-tempered them to new and inspiring capacity for doing!

* * *

TO THE SERVICE OF TRANSPORTATION in the stirring days to come, Pullman-Standard will bring many new and better methods, better techniques—and better men! Men who have been tested and proved in the laboratory of war production! Builders of railroad cars who have become builders of ships, tanks, aircraft assemblies, howitzer and rifle carriages, anti-aircraft gun weldments, trench mortars, shells and bombs! Men unafraid of the unknown and its problems, because they have already tackled them—and mastered them!

ARMY E NAVY

Men not content with old ways—old methods. Men with vision who have risen to places of high responsibility in the Company. They are typical of several thousands who form the group whose function it is to lead, plan and direct.

* He came to us as a helper. Through initiative and study he advanced rapidly. Superiors noted his gift for management, for teaching and getting the best out of men. With training and encouragement he rose steadily. Today, still fired with ambition, he is Superintendent of a division employing many thousands of men.

* He came to the Company in 1924 as a carbuilder. Transferred to layout work, he took his first job home at night, made paper cut-outs for templates on the kitchen floor. His initiative was recognized and encouraged . . . he was trained. Today he is General Foreman of a most important division. Not a "driver," but a "teacher" and a "leader" of thousands of men.

* * *

* Within 6 months of joining the Company, he was offered more work and greater responsibility—he jumped at the chance and has been "jumping" ever since. Management was impressed by his intense curiosity and capacity for absorption in his job. He contributed ideas of vital importance to carbuilding—his promotion has been phenomenal. Today he heads a planning department which influences the products made by more than 20,000 men.

* * *

* In one plant the position of departmental foreman became vacant. It required particular skill. Management through its system of continual search among employes for potential supervisors selected a helper in another department. By taking advantage of different courses offered him by the Company, in the short space of 3 years he became a valued and outstanding Departmental Foreman.

* * *

* In 1929 a plant manager needed a stenographer. The new young man's resourcefulness and keen application to the job was noted. His promotion to department head was rapid. He was given special training and today is Assistant to the Plant Manager.

 These are true case histories chosen at random from the personnel records of Pullman-Standard plants. Individual names have been purposely omitted in fairness to the thousands of other workers who by their own perseverance and study have also risen to important positions in the company.*

CONTRADICTION FAILS IN TEST AT WASHINGTON

Daily Trouble Wins Opening Feature.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Daily Trouble, David Straus' veteran handicap performer, won the Sysonby purse, feature event of the opening of the Washington Park meeting yesterday. He finished a length and a quarter in advance of Sir Jeffrey while the 6 to 5 favorite, Contradiction, was getting home third, another three-quarters of a length back.

This six furlong dash had been considered primarily a test of the comeback prospects of Contradiction, the Woolford farm's highly regarded 4 year old, which had been stopped by foot trouble both in his 1941 and 1942 seasons. He had made his 1943 debut recently with a handy victory over indifferent opposition.

Tendency to Swerve.

That gave his followers considerable hope that he had recovered from his troubles, but yesterday's race threw fresh doubt on his condition. Jockey Nick Jemas was forced to concentrate on keeping him running straight in the last furlong instead of driving him on to win. Contradiction showed a strong tendency to swerve, which might well be a symptom that something still is hurting him.

Everything was wide open for him to come on soon after the stretch drive began, but he began bearing over toward Franks Boy and Sir Jeffrey. While Jemas was trying to straighten him up, Daily Trouble was putting on a concerted drive on the outside that carried him on to win.

Daily Trouble's prices were $10, $5.20, and $3.40 across the board.

Alsab to Try Comeback.

Alsab, juvenile champion of 1941 and one of the outstanding horses of last season, will launch his comeback in earnest during the Washington Park meeting. He had been scheduled to make his 1943 debut in a race last week, but unfavorable track conditions at scratch time prompted his handlers to withdraw him. The list of nominations for next Saturday's $10,000 Chicago handicap, which were announced yesterday, included Alsab, so it's considered probable that this time he really will get to the post.

Racing Secretary Webb Everett yesterday announced nominations for the other two stakes of the opening week—the Flossmoor handicap at a mile and a quarter on turf tomorrow and the Princess Pat stakes, a 5½ furlong dash for juvenile fillies on Thursday.

Put In Nominated.

The nominees for the Flossmoor include Take Wing, Put In, Blue Pennant, Full Cry, Air Master, Beautiful II., Sanborombon, Martian, Profile, and Valdina Way. Both of Arlington Park's grass course stakes were won by Put In, tho he got one of them on Take Wing's disqualification.

WONDER if allied military leaders have given any thought to the use they can make of sport in winning the good will of civilian populations in occupied territories. . . . Most of the countries of Europe have competed in the Olympic games. . . . Their inhabitants may not understand our language. . . . But they understand soccer, football, boxing, wrestling, track and field contests, and the youth of those nations, when they have set aside their weapons of war, may grow to know us and like us better thru the universal medium of athletics. . . . One of Jimmy Dykes' few club rules embraces breakfast not later than 10 a. m. . . . He does his own police work in this connection. . . . He simply makes it a point to do his own morning feeding about 10 minutes prior to the deadline and this catches the tardy ones. . . . The penalty is that the offender must use his cash to pay for the meal. . . . Frank Sinkwich of Georgia, whose back field teammate, Charles Trippi, will join the College All-Star football squad at Northwestern this weekend, barely escaped a medical discharge from the marine corps. . . . He had a slight heart ailment and high blood pressure but was accepted and is now at Parris Island, S. C. . . . The navy department's new directive curtailing the travel of athletic teams and individual athletes was interpreted in various places yesterday as a serious blow to the personnel of the All-Star football squad. . . . There was considerable excitement and confusion in newspaper offices in New York, Washington, and Chicago, in fact, almost everywhere except in the department that runs the All-Star game. . . .

Clifford L. Lord, director of the National Museum of Baseball at Cooperstown, N. Y., wrote President Will Harridge of the American league the day after the recent game between the White Sox and Dodgers there as follows: "We had a fine game. There were a number of wagons of various sizes and shapes, the largest of which brought 56 people. Another brought 26 from a town 10 miles away. Several rode in from out of town on horseback and there were bicycles all over the place. The Republican leader of the county walked all the way from Schenevus, 12 miles, and brought with him a friend from Worcester, four miles farther. When I went to the park at 10:30 a. m. I found two people with their shoes off, cooling their blistered feet in the grass of the infield. There were 11 OPA inspectors in town, but so far we have had no complaints from them." . . . Ezzard Charles has been fined $650 and suspended indefinitely by the Louisiana boxing commission for running out of a bout in New Orleans with Holman Williams. . . . Don Ameche has purchased the yearling son of Bimelech, one of the best 3 year olds of 1940, from E. R. Bradley.

Retribution.

So when he found the keyhole he sure grinned
He took his shoes off just inside the door
So that their squeaking might not wake a soul,
And then there was a crash—and on the floor
Lay shattered fragments of the goldfish bowl.

His wife was scared and bounded from her bed
Thinking that some one had discharged a gun,
But when she saw her reeling mate she said:

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 2.—The White Sox closed the eastern end of their tour tonight with another outburst from their hitting and running headliners, but nevertheless, succumbed to the Athletics because of the potency of Roger Wolff's knuckleball. The Sox started off stylishly with a three run splurge but promptly abandoned production. However the A's kept whittling away at Eddie Smith's southpawing until they finally fastened him down with a disastrous eighth inning that rounded out a 5 to 3 score.

Walley Moses, the running specialist of the Dykes' ensemble, got himself on base three times on hits but didn't quit with that. He stole third in the first inning. He stole second in the next inning. He made away with the same base in the seventh, the latter raising his season's total to 33. As for Luke Appling, the league's official batting pacemaker, well, he helped himself to a pair of blows, to raise his average to .331. Ralph Hodgin, who can't cut into the Big Six because of not having played enough, went to .341 by virtue of three hits.

Shaky at Start.

Smitty, after a shaky start which took away two-thirds of his three run lead, held the remainder until the sixth and then fell in a heap in the eighth, part of the trouble being due to Jim Grant. John Welaj opened the decisive inning with a single and when Jojo White bunted, Grant tried for a force at second, but heaved wild, Welaj going home and White to second. Elmer Valo bunted him to third and Dick Siebert rode him to the plate on a single.

The busy Mr. Moses opened the evening's debate with his double to right. While Thurman Tucker was making a vain lunge at a third strike, Moses stole third and Harold Wagner, in the excitement, dropped the pitch, Tucker reaching first safely. Tucker lost no time stealing second. Mosts scampered home on Grant's fly, and Appling's two bagger which bounced off the left field wall, sent Tucker to the plate. Appling stole third and scored on Hodgin's single into left.

A's Go After Lead.

The A's immediately started to nibble at Smitty's lead. Welaj and White singled in the first, the former taking third, and scoring while Jimmy Webb was throwing out Valo. Irvin Hall singled with one out in the second and made a nonstop trip to the plate on Wagner's two bagger against the right field fence. Smith then assumed a no-hit role until White opened the sixth with a single, and went to second on Moses' fumble. With the help of a running catch of a short fly by Tucker, Smith set down the next two fellows, but Pete Suder singled to drive in the tying run.

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 2.—Sammy Baugh's passes, which usually get the other side in trouble, had the same result on a team mate today during the Washington Redskins' drill. Involved were two new players, Jack Millard of Washington State and Bob Masters, former Philadelphia Eagle half back.

As Millard jumped for the ball, his elbow came down sharply on the skull of Masters, who was on pass defense. The result was a scalp wound which required three stitches. It was the first injury of the training period and prompted Trainer Red Johnson to wonder what will happen when the pro champions start scrimmaging.

Midwest fans doubtless will see Millard in action when the Redskins play in the 10th annual College All-Star game Aug. 25 in Dyche stadium, Evanston. He is a 22 year old, 185 pound combination end and half back.

Millard Takes a Doze.

A few days ago, Coach Dutch Bergman noticed Millard, a fine passer and kicker, dozing on the field, and wanted to know if he was bored, or if his sleep had been disturbed by the planes which roar overhead.

"Both guesses are wrong, Mr. Bergman," said Millard. "I'm working eight hours a day at an airplane plant here, and get only a little sleep before coming out for morning practice."

Now, if everything goes on schedule, Millard will be signed to a Washington contract. He is married and has two children. This is an example of how the pro teams are finding talent here and there.

Bergman called off this afternoon's scheduled drill, and needless to say it met with popular response. The players have been putting in four to four and a half hours daily and are showing signs of wear and tear. They'll get one afternoon off a week.

Installing New System.

There is little of the spectacular in the squad's daily doings. Bergman and his assistant, Turk Edwards, quietly and methodically are installing a new system. Whereas the Redskins used an unbalanced line under Ray Flaherty, now a lieutenant in the navy, the 1943 model will operate from a balanced line.

Instead of referring to the backs in the traditional way—quarter back, left and right halves, and full back, the numbering system is used. The quarter back is the No. 2 back, a blocker. Right half is No. 1, left half No. 4 and full back No. 3. The quarter back, at least from the standpoint of popular conception, is a misnomer. He has nothing to do with calling signals. This is one of the many chores in the custody of the busy and accomplished Mr. Baugh.

Cubs Have to Work an Extra Inning to Beat Brewers, 7 to 6

Eddie Stanky's third hit of the day, a long drive down the right field line, which scored Lennie Merullo from second, gave the Cubs a 10 inning 7 to 6 victory over their American Association cousins from Milwaukee yesterday in Wrigley field. A crowd of 3,205 fans gathered to pay their respects to Charley Grimm, the Brewers' manager, who was making his first appearance on the Cubs' field since he left them as manager five years ago.

Another point brought up for discussion between changes of pitchers and insertion of numerous pinch hitters, was the fact that it was the first time in the knowledge of the baseball experts that a major league team had played host to brethren from the minors.

Brewers Not Overawed.

However, there was little difference noted in the play of the Brewers from that displayed by many other Cub foes. They took an early two run lead and then staged a ninth inning rally for three more to tie the score after two men were out.

Eight pitchers were used during the afternoon, four by each team, and Eddie Hanyzewski, a former Brewer, was given credit for the victory, while Les Fleming, a recent Cub twirler, was charged with the loss.

Stanky Has Perfect Day.

Stanky had a perfect day at bat, getting a double, two singles, and three bases on balls, while Phil Cavarretta came up with a double and a pair of singles.

Here's how the Brewers scored three runs and tied it up in the ninth. After two were out, Ted Norbert singled, Willis Norman walked, Don Johnson singled Norbert home, and Jim Pruett doubled Norbert and Johnson in. Then Hanyzewski relieved Burrows and retired Joe Berry, batting for Sproull. The game was forced into extra innings when Fleming struck out Hernandez with the bases full in the Cubs' half.

DYCHE STADIUM ALL-STARS' NEW HEADQUARTERS

Volunteers Wanted

COLLEGE and high school musicians who wish to participate in the All-Star band should make their availability known to Ray Dvorak, whose address is University of Wisconsin Bands, Madison, Wis.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Preparations have been completed by Northwestern university officials to establish headquarters for the All-Star football players in Dyche stadium. Because of the lease of fraternity houses to the navy, the squad rooms at the stadium have been converted into dormitories. The kitchen has been enlarged and the All-Stars will be served all meals in the dining room previously used during the season for the trustees' luncheons.

The fraternity houses' furnishings, owned by the university, were available for fitting up the second floor squad rooms under the west stand of Dyche stadium since the navy has supplied double decked beds for its trainees. A recreation room also has been equipped in the stadium and the football players will have all of the facilities formerly installed in the Goodrich and Hinman houses on the campus.

Assigning the All-Stars to quarters in the stadium has eliminated the problem of transportation from the fraternity houses to the practice field.

Poles are Erected.

The poles for the lighting equipment also have been erected in Dyche stadium. The lights, formerly installed in Soldiers' field, belong to The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. These will be mounted on the poles so that night practices may be held any time. The Washington Redskins, who will complete their training in Chicago, will use the

STEEL WORKER, MILK MAN PACE AMATEUR GOLF

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Alex Zgorka, 30 year old steel worker who plays most of his golf at Burnham Woods, yesterday was up betimes and fashioned himself a tidy 68, two under par, to take the early lead in the qualifying round of the 39th annual Chicago Amateur tournament at Jackson park. Having turned in that handy job, Alexander then hied himself to his labors at a South Chicago mill.

The 68 of Zgorka's grew stronger and lonelier as the first day of the tournament progressed, but it was to have company. Jack McMaster came in out of the damp evening at 8:15 o'clock with the card that tied Alex, thanks to a 32, four under par on the back nine. The 25 year old McMaster was up and doing early yesterday, not to play golf but to deliver his milk route out River Forest way. Jack, who lives with his wife and child in Downers Grove, gets in most of his golf at Ruth Lake. He drove the last green, 260 yards away, with a No. 2 iron for his last birdie.

301 Golfers Compete.

From 7 o'clock yesterday morning until after 4 o'clock in the afternoon, a regiment of 301 swingers from private clubs, daily fee and park courses teed off over the old south side course.

The low 64 scorers for yesterday's 18 holes of medal play entered the match play bracket in the championship flight, which will get under way at 9 o'clock this morning. Other scorers will be paired in subsidiary flights. Today's program will consist of one round of match play, a procedure to be repeated tomorrow. The survivors of these first two rounds will then wrangle in two 18 hole bouts Thursday, reducing the field to Friday's semi-finalists, who will travel 36 holes. Saturday's championship match also will be over the long route.

Champions Start Today.

Alex' start was not too speedy, an iron second falling into a trap at the fifth and a three-putt green following on the sixth. He redeemed one of these errors by hitting his approach to the seventh two feet from the pin. He then drove the 267 yard tenth for a bird, and rolled in a 10 foot putt on No. 11. A tree cost him a stroke at the 16th, and then he finished with birdie putts of 8 and 10 feet on the last two greens.

All former champions were exempt from the qualifying round, so that last year's finalists, Harold Mathisen of Woodridge and Chick Evans of Edgewater, won't make their first appearance until this morning's first round of match play.

SENATORS HALT BROWNS' RALLY AND WIN, 4 TO 3

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2 (AP).—Southpaw Milt Haefner set St. Louis down with six hits as Washington beat the Browns, 4 to 3, tonight. It was the Senators' fifth straight victory and their fourth in a row over the Browns.

St. Louis put on a two run rally in the ninth on George McQuinn's single, an infield out, Mark Christman's double, and Mike Kreevich's single, but Haefner choked off the uprising at that point. Score:

INJURED EVERT IS DEFEATED IN NATIONAL TENNIS

Chicagoan Victim of Only First Round Upset.

Evert's back muscles, injured during play in the Western net event on these same courts last week, couldn't stand the strain, and he lost his junior match to Billy Smith, Orlando, Fla., 9-7, 6-3.

Otherwise the play in both the juniors' and boys' divisions went according to pattern with Bob Falkenburg, Hollywood, Cal.; Jim Brink, Seattle, and Jack Tuero, New Orleans, among the favorites in the juniors and Herbert Flam, Beverly Hills, Cal., in the boys' classification, winning without undue pressure.

PIRATES SCORE IN NINTH; BEAT BRAVES, 5 TO 4

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 2 (AP).—Frankie Gustine rapped out a single with two men out in the ninth inning tonight, scoring Elbie Fletcher, who had doubled, and giving the Pirates a 5 to 4 victory over the Braves. The victory boosted the Pirates' grip on second place to two full games over the Dodgers, who were idle.

Hank Gornicki was credited with the triumph as Bob Klinger was lifted for a pinch hitter in the irate eighth.

Manager Frankie Frisch, Rip Sewell and Tommy O'Brien were ejected from the Pirate bench in the fourth inning following an argument on a batted ball the Pirates claimed struck Bill Weitelmann. The game was delayed eight minutes during the argument. Score:

Calligaro won three football letters at Wisconsin and last fall saw extended service as relief man for Pat Harder, who also will be a member of Coach Harry Stuhldreher's All-Star squad.

Hand is an Iowa center who finished his three years of competition last fall. His home is in Emmetsburg, Ia., and he was chosen as all-state high school center after the 1937 season.

Rookie Halts Great Lakes; Phils Win, 10-3

The masterful pitching of George Eyrich, 18 year old former Reading [Pa.] High school star, and the heavy hitting of Catcher Dee Moore yesterday gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 10 to 3 victory over the Great Lakes Bluejackets at the Naval Training station's Constitution field before 10,000 recruits.

Eyrich, a short right hander who has been riding the Philly bench since he joined the National leaguers two months ago, surrendered only seven hits. Moore hit safely in four of his five trips to the plate.

Nova Stops Sparmate in 2d Round

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Lou Nova appeared in the best form he has displayed since opening training for his 10 round bout with Lee Savold six weeks ago when he floored Lindy Elliott during a workout in Ringside loop gymnasium yesterday. Nova, who meets Lee in Wrigley field next Monday, went three rounds with his sparmate.

The big Californian started out in the first round by lambasting Elliott with a two handed body offensive, an attack which indicates the style he will employ against Savold. In the next round Nova feinted to the body and scored with a left hook to the chin which sent Lindy crashing to the canvas. In the third Lou took things easy.

Lt. [j. g.] Larry Wolz, former crew coach at the University of Wisconsin and an old pal of Nova, watched the drill. He will be among the 18,000 expected to attend the fight.

Trainer Ray Arcel wanted Nova to spar six rounds yesterday, but inability to acquire additional partners forced curtailment of the program. If adequate mates can be obtained Lou will box six rounds this afternoon.

Pram 'Ticket' Gets Mr. Huck $2 Cut in Rent

BY AL CHASE.

John F. McCarthy.

Refusal of the landlord of the 30 flat building at 1750 East 71st place to permit James Huck, one of the tenants, to park his baby carriage in the entrance hallway, won Huck a $2 reduction in monthly rent yesterday by order of the new Chicago area federal rent director, John F. McCarthy.

The office of price administration order recalled that Huck was permitted to leave his perambulator in the hallway without getting a ticket prior to the federal freezing of rents in 1942.

Echoes Tiff Within OPA.

The sudden decision of the landlord, Dr. A. L. Levin, that baby carriages were a traffic hazard was in reality a cutting off of service and entitled the tenant to a rent reduction, the order said.

The parking rumpus was said to be an echo of an internecine conflict between the area and regional rent control offices. Dr. Levin, head of the 71st Place Granada corporation, owner of the property, filed a request with the area office last August for higher rents on the basis of a general rehabilitation program. The area office investigated and refused the request.

Presto! A Traffic Violator.

Led by Huck, the tenants marched down in a body to protest. The only result, according to the OPA, was that Huck suddenly became a hallway traffic violator.

Huck, whose lease expires on Oct. 1, now has the somewhat dubious satisfaction of knowing that despite his $3.50 rent increase [by the regional office] he pays less than the other tenants, thanks to the $2 decrease [by the area office].

McCarthy was appointed only Saturday to succeed Earl D. Howard, retired Northwestern university economics professor, who was fired June 26. Area rent attorney since July 1, 1942, he had been acting director.

MILITARY MAN'S TAX.

Answer: A man or woman who was in active service in the military or naval forces of the United States or any of the allied nations at any time during 1942 or 1943 is given an abatement or cancelation of the income tax on his 1942 earned income.

Since all income up to $3,000 is considered earned income for income tax purposes, the effect of this abatement, plus the regular personal exemption, is to wipe out all income tax liability on 1942 income for the great majority of the men and women in military service. A person entering military service as late as next December would be entitled to the abatement on his 1942 tax, but would be liable for tax on his civilian earnings during 1943.

The new tax law exempts from income tax the first $1,500 of military pay received in any taxable year beginning after Dec. 31, 1942. This exemption, more properly called an exclusion since the first $1,500 of military pay is not required to be reported as income received during the year, is in addition to the personal exemption of $500 for single persons and $1,200 for married persons.

Thus, most enlisted men and lower rank officers, unless they have outside income, will have no income tax to pay for either 1942 or 1943. If payments already made on 1942 income tax are greater than the amount owing for 1943 tax, a refund or credit will be allowed next March.

There is no withholding of income tax from the pay of men and women in active military service. Such persons serving within the United States, including those in the lowest ranks, are supposed to file with the collector of internal revenue in their home district, on or before Sept. 15, 1943, an estimate of their 1943 income and tax liability. The penalty for failure to file an estimate is 10 per cent of the tax due Sept. 15. If there is no tax due, of course, there cannot be a 10 per cent addition to it. Nevertheless, treasury department spokesmen advise the filing of an estimate if a refund or tax credit is to be claimed later for tax overpayments already made.

Should a person die while in active service, the income tax for the year in which he dies, and all other income taxes owing at the time of his death, are canceled. Any income taxes collected after his death are to be credited or refunded to his estate.

Big Cattle Run Causes Slight Price Decline

Cattle receipts increased abruptly yesterday at the Chicago stock yards, the result of heavy selling by corn belt cattle feeders, rather than increased shipments from the range which made up only a small part of the supply.

Many of the large cattle feeders from Iowa, Illinois and Indiana explained that the corn shortage, the fact that every pound they add to the weight of cattle under existing conditions is at a loss, and that they have lost hope the OPA will iron out this problem were the reasons they were unloading their corn fed cattle on the market.

Prices Only Slightly Lower.

Large demand met the increased supply of all classes of beef animals and prices weakened only slightly. A large part of the receipts sold steady, altho declines of 10 to 15 cents a hundred pounds occurred in some steers, yearlings, heifers, beef cows, canners and cutters. Bulls and calves were steady.

Packers had a large gap to fill as a result of the small volume of cattle handled last month. Arrivals in the Chicago yards during the month, at 154,191, were the smallest for July in four years and 9.8 per cent below a year earlier. The calf total, at 14,515, was smallest for a July since 1904 and 23.6 per cent below a year ago. Sheep and lambs totaled 156,048, off 8 per cent from a year ago, but hogs, at 509,073, were the largest for July in 10 years and 25.2 per cent above a year ago.

Hog Receipts Are Lighter.

Steady to strong prices were paid for the light supply of sheep and lambs. The top was $15.

Osborn Heads Plant at La Grange.

Important changes in the managements of the Electro-Motive and Allison divisions of the General Motors corporation were announced yesterday by C. E. Wilson, president.

C. R. Osborn.

E. B. Newill.

C. R. Osborn was elected a vice president of the corporation and is to be "in direct charge of the Electro-Motive division at La Grange," Wilson said. H. L. Hamilton, also a vice president of the corporation, and F. H. Prescott, general manager at La Grange, will continue their relationships with Electro-Motive, Wilson said.

Newill Heads Allison.

Wilson also announced that E. B. Newill has been elected a vice president of the corporation and placed in charge of the big Allison aviation engine operations at Indianapolis, succeeding F. C. Kroeger, who was given a leave of absence on account of illness.

Osborn since 1941 has been assistant to R. K. Evans, vice president of General Motors in charge of the engine group, which includes Electro-Motive. He was born in Dayton, O., in 1887, and graduated from the University of Cincinnati in 1897. His first employment with General Motors was in the Dayton Engineering laboratories in 1921. He served in various capacities in Sweden, England, Mexico and as general manager of the Opel corporation in Germany until 1940.

To "Take Things Easier."

Hamilton, one of the most widely known men in the railroad equipment industry, was the organizer of Electro-Motive, which builds diesel-electric locomotives for streamlined passenger and freight trains. A veteran of the industry, it is reported he plans to "take things a little easier." A. W. Phelps, who was an executive at the La Grange plant, was transferred to Detroit, where he will be assistant to E. F. Johnson, vice president of the corporation.

Merchants Stampede Chicago Fall Market, Rush for Goods

Merchants from the Mississippi valley and the southwest thronged into Chicago yesterday for the fall market opening, bringing reports that war prosperous farmers and arms plant workers are buying heavily. Officials of the Chicago Association of Commerce and wholesalers participating in the annual sales event said the merchants themselves were so intent on getting goods that the absence of entertainment and market attractions this year was scarcely noticed.

"The buyers just came in, took off their coats and started talking business without even mentioning the weather," one wholesaler said.

Buy for Fall, Holidays.

The fall opening is the annual event to which merchants come to buy dry goods, women's and children's wear, millinery, notions, novelties, giftware, toys, china, and glassware for autumn stock, as well as Christmas goods. The market usually lasts thru the first 10 days of August, but this year it has been split into two periods of one week each. The second period will begin Sept. 11.

The commerce association, which coördinates the activities of the market, reported that every visiting merchant contacted said that sales are limited only by two factors—lack of man power and inability to get enough goods to meet an apparently unlimited demand.

The association said that the current rush by consumers for goods has developed without special incentives which influenced the fall markets of the two preceding years.

Crowd Hard to Handle.

One of the major dry goods specialty houses reported difficulty handling the crowds of merchant buyers that swarmed to its exhibits. It hired extra workers, but after half an hour its employes could not tell which buyer was next, and had to resort to the expedient of giving each merchant a number as he entered.

One of the major millinery wholesale houses reported that its sales, both on the opening day of the market and thruout July, have been far in excess of the year ago volume. Last month's sales were three times as large as the July, 1942, sales, the company said.

JULY 'L' VOLUME INCREASES; BUS TRAFFIC SHRINKS

The Chicago Rapid Transit company reported yesterday that it carried 14,067,024 passengers in July, 10.63 per cent more than the 12,715,813 carried by the elevated system in the corresponding 1942 period. For the first seven months of 1943 traffic was up more than 6 per cent, to 100,905,468 passengers from 94,898,969 in the first seven months of 1942.

Chicago Motor Coach company, affected by government restrictions on use of tires, had 6,132,055 passengers in July, a decline of 89,530 or 1.4 per cent from a year earlier. Its seven months total was 40,719,270, a decline of 722,209, or 1.7 per cent, from 1942.

TOBOGGAN RIDE IN STOCKS RUNS INTO 2D WEEK

Some Issues Break 2 to 4 Points.

New York, Aug. 2 (AP).—The stock market extended its broad drop today under the impetus of sharp declines in such shares as American Telephone, du Pont, Westinghouse Electric, Standard Oil [New Jersey], and Santa Fe railroad. Losses in these leaders ranged from 2 to 4⅛ points, Telephone recording the widest drop.

Brokers again attributed selling largely to the Fascist collapse in Italy, which last week precipitated the sharpest drop in prices since the market began its almost uninterrupted climb in April, 1942. Quotations had reached their highest level in almost four years, and some selling was classed as profit taking. Some brokers also ascribed part of the decline to "corrective adjustments" brought on by increased peace psychology.

The late retreat, speeded by sharp breaks in some leaders, came on comparatively little selling pressure, lack of supporting bids being the principal factor. Market analysts also said that most of the heavy losers had suffered less than other leaders in the present slump.

Brokers expressed belief that the speculative structure had lost some underlying support thru withdrawal of buying orders "under the market" as a result of the reaction to Italian events.

The Associated Press 60 stock average at the close was down 0.7 at 48.5. Lst week's decline amounted to 3.6 points, and on July 14 the average stood at 53.3, highest since Oct. 27, 1939.

CHICAGO LIST DIPS AGAIN.

The broad decline in Chicago Stock exchange prices was extended yesterday on a light turnover of 30,000 shares. Active issues closed fractionally lower.

Volume of trading for July was 976,000 shares, compared with 900,000 shares in June and 360,000 in July, 1942. For the first seven months of the year volume was 6,535,000 shares, compared with 2,633,000 shares in the corresponding period of 1942. Dividend payments by listed corporations for the seven months totaled $391,207,193, compared with $406,976,811 a year ago.

RAIL BONDS DECLINE.

New York, Aug. 2 (AP).—Selling of medium and low priced rails accounted for most of the activity in the bond market again today. Other corporate loans held generally steady.

The Associated Press average of 20 carrier loans lost a half point in closing at 75.7, having slipped three full points from the year's high mark of 78.7 on July 23.

Rails were supported much of the day, and at one time held gains of fractions to better than a point. Reaction began about noon, and as offerings increased prices were off fractions to nearly two points.

People and Events

Fifty liquor and tobacco salesmen of the Sam Cassel company, 833 West Randolph street, will sell war bonds exclusively during the next 30 days in a drive to raise a million dollars to finance a fighting navy craft, the company announced last night. A dinner in the Edgewater Beach hotel to open the drive was addressed by Col. Thomas F. Brown of the army ordnance staff at Chicago, former vice president of the National Distillers Products corporation.

John W. Rose has been appointed general sales manager of Libby, McNeill & Libby, C. S. Bridges, vice president, announced. Rose, who has been with Libby for 11 years, was transferred to Chicago last year after being district sales manager at Houston, Tex.

The army-navy "E" pennant for war production has been awarded to Industrial Metal Fabricators, Inc., and Chicago Wheel and Manufacturing company, both of Chicago. The Sloan Valve company will receive the "E" pennant at a ceremony today.

GRAIN FUTURES SLIDE ON STOCK MARKET SLUMP

Weakness in securities turned grain prices downward yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade after a showing of strength early. However, support developed on the way down and wheat losses were ⅜ to ½ cent a bushel. Oats lost ⅛ to ¼ cent. Rye finished ½ to ¾ cent lower.

Altho supply and demand factors were said to have encouraged buying of grain futures on the declines, traders were uncertain as to the possible immediate effect on the market of peace talk from Italy and the weakness in securities. This has resulted in curtailing speculative operations and the volume of business was much smaller than recently.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Ben Markland

Aug. 2, 1943.

That's the way one of the farm workers described the impertinence of the crows' actions recently. In past years, when shotgun shells were plentiful, farmers shot crows as a routine method of controlling their numbers. In addition, city hunters used to visit Chicagoland farms for the sport of shooting crows.

These big black birds are so smart and wary that the shotgun attacks never seemed materially to reduce their numbers, but at least the crows kept their distance from farm buildings. They know what a shotgun is used for, and the sight of such a weapon used to make them scatter in all directions.

Crow Shoot Called Off.

For more than 20 years the farmers of Kendall county have held an organized crow shoot each May for the purpose of decreasing crow depredations. This year, because of the shortage of farm help and the lack of ammunition, the shoot was called off.

One of the men on the Yorkville farm was saying the other day that the crows not only are more numerous this year, but also bolder. Several evenings ago about 20 of the birds dropped down on the road about 50 feet in front of the farm manager's home, something that the cautious crows of other years never would have thought of doing for fear of being peppered with shotgun pellets.

The men on the Wheaton farm, like those at Yorkville, have done no crow shooting this season, and we have noticed on walks thru the farm fields that the birds will let us approach very close before darting to cover. One of the farm residents has a more serious complaint against the crows. They roost in an oak woodlot in the center of the farm, then congregate on a rail fence just before sunrise—even before farmers are out of bed. The raucous caws which accompany this morning revival meeting awaken the farmer and his family, who live in a cottage about 100 yards from the crows' meeting place. He has used up a few .22 caliber rifle cartridges in attempts to frighten them off, but without success.

Applesauce in Vogue.

If the market prices of fruits remain high, some of the farm families are going to eat a lot of applesauce this winter. In other years the farm wives bought peaches, berries, and other fruits for canning, but the price this year is so high that they're going to depend upon fruits grown on the place.

One of the farm women already has canned a bushel of apples in sauce form. Cooking apples have been selling in the local stores for 12 cents a pound, so she figures that the bushel she has preserved has a high value both in dollars and ration points.

The Garden

THREE little known vegetables are being harvested from sample gardens of the Wheaton farm now. These are celeriac [root celery], okra, and leek. Celeriac is somewhat similar to true celery, having almost identical foliage and taste. The edible portion of the plant, however, is the root, which now is about the size of a beet. This vegetable can be eaten raw in salads or cooked for soups, and deserves wider use in Chicagoland gardens.

Leek, a member of the onion family, is used in soups, as is okra. The latter vegetable now is about the size of small cigars.

Tampala, the new leaf vegetable being grown in the farm gardens this year for the first time, has not yet been harvested. This vegetable is used like spinach. It is one of the "cut and come again" varieties, being similar to Swiss chard in this respect. The leaves are light green, and are longer and narrower than those of spinach or chard. The tampala leaves now range from six to nine inches long.

LIBERTY SHIP NAMING PROVES A DIFFICULT TASK

Thousands Seek Honor of Sponsoring Vessels.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 2.—There seems to be a strange lure about smashing a beribboned bottle of champagne against a new freighter's bow, the Maritime commission reported here today.

Almost every day the agency receives requests from citizens who earn to sponsor a christening. Some are sent in by mothers whose girls while others come from grownups have been "dreaming of the honor," as "their contribution to the war effort."

Most requests go to maritime commission headquarters in Washington, D. C., altho many are addressed to the White House whence they are referred to the naming committee.

Shipyards Have Honor.

The latter group, made up of maritime commission officials, already has assigned names to more than 750 Liberty ships which to date have comprised 70 per cent of the shipbuilding program, commission representatives state.

The commission has little to do with naming sponsors for the launchings. Except in rare instances shipyards appoint such persons whose applications far exceed the number of vessels going down the ways in the biggest shipbuilding program in history, it is revealed.

Liberty ships, it is disclosed, are named almost exclusively for noted, deceased Americans. The first such ship, launched 19 months ago, was christened Patrick Henry.

12 for Presidents.

Twelve others have been named after Presidents, and nine after justices of the Supreme court. Cabinet members also are well represented. Liberty ships have been named after 47 secretaries of state, 45 secretaries of war, and 45 secretaries of the treasury, a count reveals.

Other names include signers of the Declaration of Independence, authors, inventors, explorers, poets, artists, soldiers, financiers, educators, doctors, and distinguished persons.

In a few instances, French, English, and Spanish explorers closely identified with the settlement of the country have been chosen, including Sir Francis Drake and Francisco Coronado. Indian names also have been used.

Many Women Listed.

About 40 Liberty ships have been named in honor of women, including Grace Abbott, Jane Addams, Amelia Earhart, Clara Barton, Julia Ward Howe, and Amy Lowell. The names of Elizabeth Blackwell, first woman doctor in the United States, and Belva Lockwood, pioneer woman lawyer, also have been used.

President James Madison and his wife, Dolly, are the only married couple chosen. But the Beecher family has made the greatest contribution of names, including Lyman Beecher, Henry Ward Beecher, and Harriet Beecher Stowe.

The name Jackson has featured seven christenings. Runner-up is Brown with six, while Smith has been used five times and Jones three.

So that ship names may be representative of the country, state historical societies have been requested to list names of 25 native sons after whom Liberty ships might be named. To date, 15 states have responded.

Children Submit Names.

School children in most states were permitted to suggest names for ships in connection with the recent nation-wide scrap collection campaign, while collection champions in many instances were allowed to sponsor vessels representing their particular states.

The names selected indicate that America's youth has a wide basis for hero worship. New York's younger generation came up with Lou Gehrig, while in New Jersey the youngsters picked Molly Pitcher, who carried water and loaded cannon at the battle of Monmouth.

With its eye on post-war trade and an expanded American merchant marine, the commission has begun concentration on a new Victory ship which eventually will largely replace vessels of the Liberty class, it is said. The Victory model is much faster than the Liberty and employs geared turbines in place of the reciprocating engines used in the Liberty. It has a finer hull line and, because of its increased speed, is said to be an ideal ship for fast convoy.

Builds New Type Ships.

In addition to such vessels, the maritime commission is building several hundred standard high speed C-type cargo vessels, tankers, coastal ships, and other craft. Most of these are the C-types, swift, long range ships designed by the commission shortly before the war as replacements for America's merchant marine.

Names for these vessels originate in the office of Rear Adm. H. L. Vickery, vice chairman of the maritime commission and deputy war shipping administrator, and are approved by the full commission. They are named under a policy established when the commission started its building program in 1937. Vessels built by the commission for private operators are named by the various companies.

SEEK TOMATO PICKERS.

Sixteen thousand part time harvest and cannery workers needed to process the tomato crop in the Anderson, Ind., area will be sought by the war man power commission in a rally at the Hoosier tomato growing center Aug. 10, William H. Spencer, regional WMC director, said yesterday.

MEYERS TAKES STATE FACTORY INSPECTOR POST

Louis J. Meyers, Republican committeeman of the 29th ward, yesterday took up his duties as chief factory inspector for Illinois. Meyers was appointed by Gov. Dwight H. Green to replace Arthur W. Sullivan, who resigned last week.

Meyers is unmarried and lives at 3857 Jackson boulevard. He was appointed to the Chicago zoning board of appeals in 1927; was elected a delegate to the Republican nominating convention from the 6th congressional district in 1936 and a senatorial committeeman from the 19th senatorial district in 1938. He was elected ward committeeman in 1940.

For many years Meyers was employed by the National Biscuit company. Later he was vice president of the Livingston Baking company and since 1936 he has been a special representative of H. Dalmar & Co., insurance underwriters at 175 West Jackson boulevard.

AIR LINE AIDS NURSE.

An army nurse, Lt. Jennie Jamieson, 27 years old, stationed at Chanute field, yesterday was robbed of her purse containing her air line ticket to Orlando, Fla., where she was going to visit her soldier husband before he goes overseas. Air line officials canceled the stolen ticket and put the nurse aboard a later plane.

The common-sense solution to any money shortage is a short-term loan. It allows a "breathing spell" in which to adjust expenses to fit income. Right now, for instance, living costs are up and it is becoming increasingly difficult to make ends meet. A loan from Commonwealth will "tide you over" until you get adjusted to these new war-time conditions. Monthly rate 3% on balances of $150 or less, and 2½% on that part of the unpaid balance over $150.
